Victory to Be Pay Enough, He Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—The White House, reporting to congress today that 14 billion dollars' worth of lend-lease aid has been extended to America's allies, announced that "victory and a secure peace are the only coin in which we can be repaid" for this assistance.

While many members of congress have expressed doubt that the United States ever would be repaid for the program, this is the first official indication that President Roosevelt has acceded to British suggestions, that the nation write off lend-lease as a contribution toward winning the war.

"The congress in passing and extending the lend-lease act made it plain that the United States wants no new war debts to jeopardize the coming peace," the President asserted in a message accompanying his quarterly report on lend-lease operations.

Food, Clothing and Medicine.

The report revealed that $11,901,972,000 worth of war materials, food, clothing, medicine and industrial facilities have been delivered to some 48 authorized lend-lease recipients. Services rendered to these countries had an aggregate value of $2,071,367,000 for a grand total of $13,973,339,000. Of this amount, munitions totaled 50 per cent, industrial products 21 per cent, and food and agricultural products 14 per cent. The remaining 15 per cent consisted of shipping, ship repairs, and other services, and construction of plant facilities in America for the production of lend-lease goods.

Biggest recipient of lend-lease aid has been Britain, to which has gone $1,710,000,000 worth of munitions, including tanks and planes and ships; $1,218,000,000 worth of machinery, metals, and other industrial products, and $1,530,000,000 worth of food and agricultural products. Total lend-lease exports to Britain thru June 30 aggregated $4,458,000,000.

Russia Second on List.

Russia was next. It received thru June 30 $2,444,000,000 in materials, which included $1,393,000,000 worth of planes, tanks, ships, and munitions, $635,000,000 worth of industrial materials, and $416,000,000 worth of food and agricultural products, for a grand total of $2,444,000,000.

Assistance given Africa, middle east, and Mediterranean nations had a value of $1,363,000,000. China, India, Australia, and New Zealand shared in $1,133,000,000 worth of American goods and other nations got $484,000,000 worth of materials.

With Russia now clamoring for food, even sacrificing ship space for vitally needed munitions to make room for food, and Britain already dependent on the United States for much of its dairy products, meat, and other food supplies, the report warned that American civilians during the next 10 months will find less food available for their own consumption than at any time since Pearl Harbor.

Demands to Increase.

Declaring that demands from abroad for American food supplies are likely to increase, lend-lease officials reported that only 75 per cent of the nation's food production will be allotted to civilians.

The report said 13 per cent of the nation's food output has been earmarked for the army, navy, and other military forces, 10 per cent for the lend-lease administration, and the remaining 2 per cent for "United States territories and special needs."

President Roosevelt in his report made a bid for surrender of axis nations, saying that "except for the responsible Fascist leaders, the people of the axis need not fear unconditional surrender to the united nations."

To the peoples of the liberated areas, the President reiterated his promises of "food for the starving and medicine for the sick."

We Will Lead in Plans for Europe–Reds

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25 (AP).—A statement that Moscow intends to have a leading role in the post-war organization of the world and would look with disfavor on a United States of Europe or a Europe divided into "various federations, confederations, and regional blocs of states," was circulated in Washington today by the soviet embassy.

This expression of soviet views originally appeared as an editorial in the Moscow periodical War and the Working Class, which has come into prominence recently as a mouthpiece of soviet policy. It took on added significance with its republication in the official embassy bulletin here.

Expects a Leading Role.

"Every right-minded person," the editorial says, "understands that one of the leading roles in the organization of post-war Europe, and of the whole world, will belong to the U. S. S. R., the largest continental power, which in the course of war has displayed its state and military might.

"Anti-democratic and semi-Fascist elements, however, are striving to prevent the participation of the U. S. S. R. in the organization of the post-war world, setting up the most fantastic plans in this direction, plans obviously hostile to the soviet union.

"There are quite a few such plans, starting with the plan for the creation of a United States of Europe, pan-Europe, and ending with the plan for creating a Europe divided into various federations, confederations, and regional blocs of states."

Raps East Europe Scheme.

The editorial condemns particularly the proposed establishment of an east European federation, to include Poland and other eastern countries and involving an aggregate population of nearly 125 million persons.

This plan in particular, it says, is being propagated "by Polish and other enemies" of the soviet union, ostensibly as a safeguard against future German aggression, but also, and "by no means last of all, levelled against the soviet union."

YANKS DOWN 39 ZEROS IN CHINA AND SET RECORD

HDQ. OF THE U. S. 14TH AIR FORCE IN CHINA, Aug. 22 [Delayed]—(AP).—The skygoing sharpshooters of the 14th air force, have given Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault's answer to the Japanese air force boast that it would drive the 14th out of free China by setting a record for destroying enemy aircraft in the China theater.

In a series of raids on the enemy's central China base at Hankow yesterday, Chennault's Liberator B-24 bombers, Mitchell medium bombers, and fighters knocked down 39 Japanese planes, probably destroyed 13 more, and damaged two others.

Among the flyers bagging Zeros were Sergeants Edward Depaepe, 4929 North Austin boulevard, Chicago; George Amidon, Evanston, Ill., and Robert Kirk, Alpha, Ill.

NATION WARNED IT MUST RETAIN AIR SUPREMACY

Island Bases Vital, Bar Group Told.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

America, in the post-war world, must retain supremacy in the air and the margin of aviation superiority it has built to win the war, Rep. Jennings Randolph [D., W. Va.] told members of the American Bar association yesterday.

Rep. Jennings Randolph.

Other high points of day and night sessions were:

Wiley Rutledge, associate justice of the United States Supreme court, in an address on "Some Premises of Peace" said a vastly preponderant will exists for a permanent structure of law in the world to maintain peace.

Donald Bradley Somervell, attorney general of England and Wales, outlined liberty and the law in war time in Britain.

Canada Solvent Partner.

Campbell C. McLaurin, justice of the Supreme court of Alberta, Canada, told the delegates that Canada is a "solvent partner" of the United States, the only one of the allied nations that has not needed to accept lend-lease, and that its flying squadrons are serving with American air units against the Japs.

Rep. Randolph declared that negotiations should be started with Britain and France for acquisition of their islands off the Atlantic seaboard, and that Pacific islands and the air bases the United States is building should be retained. "We must be realists," he said.

Greenland, Randolph said, should be acquired thru an agreement with Denmark, for its great strategic value, both as a defense bulwark and its importance in global aviation.

Cites Chicago's Advantages.

Rep. Randolph is national counselor of the National Aeronautic association, and has been a fighter in congress for an increased national air program. In 1938 he urged thousands of planes instead of battleships, which he termed "floating targets." Speaking of Chicago's air potentialities, he said:

"This metropolis is blessed by geography as are few of the world's cities. With equipment in existence today, it would be possible to leave this room, walk to the Michigan avenue bridge, step into a launch, 10 minutes later board the Clipper, and begin an aerial voyage that can terminate any place on earth in less than 60 hours, following the great

Tribune's War Award Won by Night's Study

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

In setting up plans for making war in many parts of the world, the army's military railway service—which has the job of moving men and supplies in many areas—some time ago was confronted with a difficult problem. It needed self-propelled railroad inspection and maintenance cars that could run on any size track gauge.

No such equipment was available, and officers were told it was doubtful if any could be obtained because of mechanical difficulties standing in the way of fitting wheels to a vehicle that might be called upon to travel over varying widths of track. The standard American gauge is 4 feet 8½ inches, but elsewhere the gauge varies.

Gets Idea Over Night.

Brig. Gen. Carl Gray Jr., who heads the military railway service, outlined the problem to a group at his headquarters in St. Paul, Minn. One of those present was Dwight Richards, employed by the Buda company, Harvey. Impressed by the army's need for the equipment, vitally necessary in keeping track open and in moving light supplies, Richards pondered the problem all night.

By the next morning he had an idea that he explained to Gen. Gray [Gray was then a colonel] and 10 days later had designs and blueprints. Within five weeks he had four sample cars completed and so urgent was the need for them that the samples were sent at once to a zone of military operations.

For this service to his country Richards tonight will be presented with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S War Workers' Award for July. Presentation will be made in a broadcast at 7 p. m. over station W-G-N by Col. Dan C. Hardt, transportation corps zone transportation officer, United States army, Chicago. The award is made monthly to civilians employed by war plants for services helping to win the war. It is symbolized by a diamond studded gold pin.

How Plan Was Worked Out.

After trying various expedients Richards adopted the idea of mounting each wheel independently. Under this arrangement the wheels are attached to stub axles. Two wheels on each side of the car are attached on their stub axles to a steel frame running lengthwise of the vehicle. The frames may be moved inward or outward from the center of the vehicle to conform with the gauge of the track.

So now the army has multiple gauge cars of two types. One is a maintenance car powered by a 54½ horse power engine that pulls an axleless trailer at 40 miles an hour. The unit can carry 12 men and maintenance material. The other is a smaller inspection car powered by a 7.7 horse power engine. It can transport four men.

Ohio State Graduate.

Richards was born in May, 1904, in Ridgeway, O. He was educated at Ohio State university. He started his business career as a draftsman for an Ohio company. Before coming to Chicago late in 1940, Richards worked for five years for the Sullivan Machinery company of Michigan City in Grantham, England. While in England he had his fill of air raids. He says it's "much easier to learn to like olives than airplane bombs," which he admits is something of an understatement.

The award winner lives at 2334 Maple road, Homewood, with his wife, Kathleen, whom he met and married in England, and his daughter, Kay, who is almost 3 years old.

BETTE DAVIS' HUSBAND DIES OF INJURIES IN HOLLYWOOD MYSTERY

Arthur Farnsworth.

He was found unconscious on Hollywood boulevard. Dr. Paul Moore, his physician, said there was no explanation how he was injured other than the presumption that he fell. Dr. Moore, who with Miss Davis was at the bedside when death came, said Farnsworth suffered a basal fracture of the skull.

Farnsworth never regained consciousness sufficiently to tell what happened, the physician said.

Farnsworth and Miss Davis were married at Rimrock, Ariz., Dec. 31, 1940.

TURKEY WON'T JOIN WAR, SAYS ISTANBUL PAPER

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Aug. 25 (AP).—The Istanbul newspaper Tan said today that Turkey would not give the allies armed aid during the war. "This war is not ours," Tan said. "It is a great war between great powers for world domination." However, Turkey desires an allied victory because the allied ideals are similar to Turkish ideals, the newspaper said.

Bares Secret Gas Permits to Fishermen

New York, Aug. 25 [Special].—A press agent who couldn't restrain his enthusiasm at a chance to paint a rosy picture of the joys of deep sea fishing off Atlantic City let an embarrassing cat out of the office of price administration's bag here today with a disclosure that fuel is available for pleasure fishing boats along the gasoline-starved eastern coast.

The press agent, Mal Dodson, a municipal employe of Atlantic City and not bound by any promises to OPA, issued a public invitation to anglers inviting them to take advantage of the ration board's liberality, stating that "the best weeks of fishing lie ahead, continuing into mid-October," and that many veteran fishing captains are getting their boats ready.

Told to "Keep Quiet."

A resultant inquiry revealed that the rationing board at Camden, N. J., had authorized special gasoline allotments for pleasure fishing boats but had instructed local boards to "keep quiet" about the grants lest "hordes of fishermen" descend on the piers and quays.

Because of this order, it was said, several party boats put out from Atlantic City last Saturday and Sunday. Others took out parties from Ocean City, Sea Isle City, Wildwood, Cape May, and other New Jersey resorts.

An acute gasoline shortage in the New York and New Jersey areas, from which no relief is in view "for at least a week" was described by gasoline dealers. Louis Kimmel, business manager of the gasoline merchants of Brooklyn, said that three-fourths of the stations in that borough are "bone dry."

Stations Going Dry.

On Long Island, where 15 gasoline stations had been set aside for the exclusive use of war workers by the petroleum administration for war, stations did a rushing business as long as their stocks held out, it was reported. Several stations went dry during the day despite limits of from 3 to 5 gallons on individual sales.

War plant officials in northern New Jersey said the gasoline shortage had not yet caused worker absenteeism, but executives of one plant attributed increasing tardiness to the gasoline situation.

The New York regional OPA office, which controls a five state area, including New Jersey, reported no knowledge of authorization for the release of gasoline for party fishing. A regional spokesman said later, after referring the inquiry to Washington, that it was "understood an amendment is under way to permit the use of gasoline for party fishing boats."

Commandos' Chief Picked Over Stilwell

Map Burma Drive

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25 (AP).—Final plans to drive the Japanese out of Burma probably will be drawn in Washington immediately, before Vice Adm. Mountbatten goes from the Quebec war conference to his new command in southeast Asia. The British embassy disclosed tonight that the Commando chief is expected here probably tomorrow.

He is expected to hold staff conferences with the high command of the army, navy, and air forces to map the details of operations, probably to a large extent amphibious and airborne, which were planned in broad outline at the Quebec conference of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill. The offensive down the Arakan coast of northwest Burma probably will be resumed, but a more important likelihood is a direct blow at Rangoon.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 25 (AP).—Vice Adm. Louis Mountbatten, leader of Britain's famed Commandos and cousin of King George VI., has been named supreme allied commander in southeast Asia for the conduct of operations against Japan, it was announced tonight.

Gen. Stilwell.

A British announcement of the appointment which obviously had been decided upon by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill at Quebec was issued here, but under date of "The Citadel, Quebec City," scene of the Roosevelt-Churchill conference.

Text of Announcement.

The announcement said:

"It has been decided to set up a separate southeast Asia command for the conduct of operations based on India and Ceylon against Japan. It will be an allied command similar to that set up in North Africa.

"The king has been pleased to approve the appointment of Acting Vice Adm. Lord Louis Mountbatten to be supreme allied commander, southeast Asia."

The new military command was created to carry intensified warfare against the Japanese in Burma and is analogous to Gen. Eisenhower's command in North Africa and Gen. MacArthur's in the Southwest Pacific.

While announcement of Mountbatten's appointment made no reference to Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, commander of the American forces in the Burma-China-India theater, the move apparently would place him under Mountbatten's command for operational purposes.

First Command to Briton.

This is the first supreme allied command that has gone to a British officer.

Mountbatten and King George VI. are both great-grandsons of Queen Victoria, whose youngest daughter, Beatrice, married Prince Henry Maurice of the German house of Battenberg. Mountbatten's father, Leopold, anglicized his name during the first World war.

Prince Leopold commanded the British fleet at the outbreak of the first World war. He was a naturalized British citizen, but public clamor about his Austrian birth and titles forced his removal. He relinquished the Austrian title and subsequently was raised to the British peerage as marquess of Milford Haven.

HAWAII ARMY LEADER SCORNS FINE OF $5,000

Held in Contempt by Federal Judge.

BY JAN JABULKA.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, T. H., Aug. 25.—Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson Jr., military governor of Hawaii, adjudged in contempt of federal court and fined $5,000 today in a controversy over authority of the military and the civil courts, immediately retaliated with a general order forbidding any further action in the case or any attempt to enforce the fine.

Lt. Gen. R. C. Richardson Jr.

In a statement to the press, Gen. Richardson declared his order automatically brings to a close the proceedings before Judge Delbert E. Metzger seeking to release on habeas corpus writs two naturalized citizens of German ancestry who have been interned by the army without hearings for months.

Power to Provost Judge.

The general's order forbids any one connected with any court from applying for or issuing a writ of habeas corpus, under penalty of a $5,000 fine and a five year prison sentence, and gives the provost judge of the army power to try any civilian judge for its violation. It specifically instructs Judge Metzger to drop the current case.

With District Atty. Angus N. Taylor under Judge Metzger's instructions to collect the $5,000 fine from the general, the situation seemed tonight to have reached an impasse, with the army tactically in possession of the field.

Taylor had previously found himself in somewhat of a dilemma. As district attorney he was a servant of the court, while at the same time he was attorney for Gen. Richardson in earlier hearings of the case. Today he solved the dilemma by withdrawing as the general's attorney, with the court's approval.

Refuses to Appear.

When asked by the court whether Gen. Richardson would appear to answer the contempt charge, Taylor replied:

"The general asks respectfully to inform the court he is not appearing."

Thereupon Judge Metzger reviewed the entire case and criticized Gen. Richardson severely for not complying with the court's ruling.

"Gen. Richardson has been an army officer for many years," he said, "and took an oath to uphold the Constitution. He must know, as every citizen knows, that the Constitution provides for three branches of the government. The judicial is one branch, and this is a federal court, possessing all the dignity and power of any trial court in the nation.

"Its mandate was lawfully made and must be performed. Gen. Richardson shows open and notorious defiance of this court. This court finds him guilty of contempt and fines him $5,000."

Writ Still Suspended.

As if having previous knowledge of this outcome, Gen. Richardson immediately returned to the fray with his general order. He emphasized that Hawaii has been under martial law since Dec. 7, 1941, and that while, with President Roosevelt's approval, Gov. Ingram Stainback had issued a proclamation restoring certain civil functions last March 10, the right of the writ of habeas corpus had been specifically exempted in the proclamation.

"The suspension of the writ is a safeguard to the community in time of war and is so regarded by the President and officials of the war, interior, and justice departments in Washington," he said.

However, in upholding the petition of the two interned German-Americans for writs, and in his later tussle with Gen. Richardson, Judge Metzger took the position that if the jurisdiction of the courts was restored in part it must be restored in full, including the right to grant a writ of habeas corpus.

So far tonight he had not countered Gen. Richardson's charge.

ROOSEVELT AT OTTAWA DEFIES GANGSTER AXIS

Minimizes Jap Invasion in North Pacific.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 25—Cheering Canadians on the green lawn at the foot of Parliament hill heard President Roosevelt pay tribute today to their friendship in peace and their comradeship with the United States in war.

Departing from the Quebec conference, Mr. Roosevelt came here to explain its significance to the war and to the post-war world. He said if Hitler could have been at Quebec he'd know he'd better give up now.

[Prime Minister Churchill will broadcast over a nation-wide radio network Sunday at noon, central time, instead of Saturday as formerly announced, it was stated officially today. The broadcast will be made from Quebec.]

Canada's government officials and the members of both houses of parliament were among the 30,000 who heard him defy axis "gangsters" and rebuke those who long for a return to what he termed "the good old days" when peace has been restored.

Minimizes Jap Importance.

Altho he and Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain emphasized the attention given the war against the Japanese in their report of the conference yesterday, President Roosevelt minimized the importance of the Japanese as the nation's first enemy.

"A year ago," he said, "Japan occupied several of the Aleutian Islands and made a great 'to-do' about the invasion of North America. I regret to say that some Americans and some Canadians wished our governments to withdraw from the Atlantic and the Mediterranean campaigns and divert all our vast strength to the removal of the Japs from a few rocky specks in the north Pacific." He said it required only "a small campaign" to end that menace.

For the post-war world, he predicted a more hopeful age than the "good old days," regarding whose goodness, he said, he had distinct reservations.

Defends "Freedoms" Goal.

Looking out from lofty peace tower, whose cheery carillon had chimed a welcome to those in the great lawn the government buildings inclose, Mr. Roosevelt rose to the defense of the four freedoms and the Atlantic charter.

"I am everlastingly angry," he said, "at those who assert vociferously that the four freedoms and the Atlantic charter are nonsense because they are unattainable. If they had lived a century and a half ago, they would have sneered and said the Declaration of Independence was utter piffle. . . .

"And if they had lived several thousand years ago, they would have derided Moses when he came from the mountain with the Ten Commandments."

Mounties Play Anthem.

The pageantry for which Ottawa has been waiting since the conference began at Quebec began with the arrival of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police band, in scarlet, gold, and blue. The mounties played "The Star Spangled Banner."

Past a trim Canadian guard of honor, past a line of Canadian Woman's Army corps girls standing at attention, came the President's car, escorted by the first mounted mounties conference visitors have seen. They were riding motorcycles.

The President, Prime Minister MFackenzie King of Canada, and Canada's Governor General Athlone and his wife, acknowledged the crowd's acclaim.

The carillon rang out once more. It was "God Save the King" to the Canadians—"America" to the Americans.

Prime Minister King introduced the President. Thomas Vien, speaker of the Canadian senate, delivered an address in French. J. A. Glen, speaker of the house, spoke in English.

From Parliament hill, the President went to the national war memorial, where he laid a wreath in honor of the Canadian dead of World War I. Then he went to Government house as the luncheon guest of the Athlones.

Later in the day the President and King conversed at the prime minister's residence. Mr. King and the governor general accompanied Roosevelt to his train for Washington in the evening.

Some Figures on Lend-Lease

SPEECH AT OTTAWA

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 25 (AP).—Following is the text of President Roosevelt's address today to an informal session of the Canadian parliament:

"Your excellency, members of the parliament, my good friends and neighbors of the Dominion of Canada:

"It was exactly five years ago last Wednesday that I came to Canada to receive the high honor of a degree at Queen's university. On that occasion—one year before the invasion of Poland, three years before Pearl Harbor—I said:

"'We, in the Americas, are no longer a far-away continent, to which the eddies of controversies beyond the seas could bring no interest or no harm. Instead, we in the Americas have become a consideration to every propaganda office and to every general staff beyond the seas. The vast amount of our resources, the vigor of our commerce, and the strength of our men have made us vital factors in world peace whether we choose it or not.'

Didn't Choose to Fight.

"We did not choose this war—and that 'we' includes each and every one of the united nations.

"War was violently forced upon us by criminal aggressors, who measure their standard of morality by the extent of the death and the destruction they can inflict upon their neighbors.

"In this war, Canadians and Americans have fought shoulder to shoulder—as our men and our women and our children have worked together and played together in happier times of peace.

"Today in devout gratitude, we are celebrating a brilliant victory won by British, Canadian, and American fighting men in Sicily.

"Today, we rejoice also in another event for which we need not apologize. A year ago Japan occupied several of the Aleutian Islands and made a great 'to-do' about the invasion of the continent of North America. I regret to say that some Americans and some Canadians—for political purposes chiefly—wished our governments to withdraw from the Atlantic and the Mediterranean campaigns and divert all our vast strength to the removal of the Japs from a few rocky specks in the Aleutians.

Small Campaign Wins.

"Today our wiser counsels have maintained our efforts in the Atlantic area and the Southwest Pacific with ever growing contributions; and in the Northwest Pacific a relatively small campaign has been assisted by the Japs themselves in the elimination of the last Jap from Attu and Kiska. We have been told that the Japs never surrender; their headlong retreat satisfies us just as well.

"Great councils are being held here on the free and honored soil of Canada—councils which look to the future conduct of this war and to the years of building a new progress for mankind.

"To these councils Canadians and Americans alike again welcome that wise and good and gallant gentleman, the prime minister of Great Britain.

"Mr. King, my old friend, may I, thru you, thank the people of Canada for their hospitality to all of us. Your course and mine have run so closely and affectionately during these many long years that this meeting adds another link to that chain. I have always felt at home in Canada and you, I think, have always felt at home in the United States.

Like Members of Family.

"During the last days in Quebec, the combined staffs have been sitting around a table talking things over, discussing ways and means, in the manner of friends, in the manner of partners, I may even say in the manner of members of the same family.

"We have talked constructively of our common purposes in this war—of our determination to achieve victory in the shortest possible time—of our essential coöperation with our great and brave fighting allies.

"And we have arrived, harmoniously, at certain definite conclusions. Of course, I am not at liberty to disclose just what these conclusions are. But, in due time, we shall communicate the secret information of the Quebec conference to Germany, Italy, and Japan. We shall communicate this information to our enemies in the only language their twisted minds seem capable of understanding.

"Sometimes I wish that that great master of intuition, the Nazi leader, could have been present in spirit at the Quebec conference—I am thoroly glad he was not there in person. If he and his generals had known our plans they would have realized that discretion is still the better part of valor and that surrender would pay them better now than later.

Lies and Treachery Methods.

"The evil characteristic that makes a Nazi a Nazi is his utter inability to understand and therefore to respect the qualities or the rights of his fellow men. His only method of dealing with his neighbor is first to delude him with lies, then to attack him treacherously, then beat him down and step on him, and then either kill him or enslave him. The same thing is true of the fanatical militarists of Japan.

"Because their own instincts and impulses are essentially inhuman, our enemies simply cannot comprehend how it is that decent, sensible individual human beings manage to get along together and live together as good neighbors.

"That is why our enemies are doing their desperate best to misrepresent the purposes and the results of this Quebec conference. They still seek to divide and conquer allies who refuse to be divided just as cheerfully as they refuse to be conquered.

"We spend our energies and our resources and the very lives of our sons and daughters because a band of gangsters in the community of nations declines to recognize the fundamentals of decent, human conduct.

Call Out the Posse.

"We have been forced to call out the sheriff's posse to break up the gang in order that gangsterism may be eliminated in the community of nations.

"We are making sure—absolutely, irrevocably sure—that this time the lesson is driven home to them once and for all. We are going to be rid of outlaws this time.

"Every one of the united nations believes that only a real and lasting peace can justify the sacrifices we are making, and our unanimity gives us confidence in seeking that goal.

"It is no secret that at Quebec there was much talk of the post-war world. That discussion was doubtless duplicated simultaneously in dozens of nations and hundreds of cities and among millions of people.

"There is a longing in the air. It is not a longing to go back to what they call 'the good old days.' I have distinct reservations as to how good 'the good old days' were. I would rather believe that we can achieve new and better days.

Proves Allies Can Act.

"Absolute victory in this war will give greater opportunities to the world because the winning of the war in itself is proving that concerted action can accomplish things.

"Surely we can make strides toward a greater freedom from want than the world has yet enjoyed. Surely by unanimous action in driving out the outlaws and keeping them under heel forever, we can attain a freedom from fear of violence.

"I am everlastingly angry only at those who assert vociferously that the four freedoms and the Atlantic charter are nonsense because they are unattainable. If they had lived a cenury and a half ago they would have sneered and said the Declaration of Independence was utter piffle. If they had lived nearly a thousand years ago they would have laughed uproariously at the ideals of Magna Carta. And if they had lived several thousand years ago they would have derided Moses when he came from the mountain with the Ten Commandments.

"We concede that these great teachings are not perfectly lived up to today, and we concede that the good old world cannot arrive at Utopia overnight. But I would rather be a builder than a wrecker, hoping always that the structure of life is growing—not dying.

"May the destroyers who still persist in our midst decrease. They, like some of our enemies, have a long road to travel before they accept the ethics of humanity.

"Some day, in the distant future perhaps—but some day with certainty—all of them will remember with the master—'Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.'"

[Mr. Roosevelt spoke the following paragraph in French.]

"My visit to the old city of Quebec has recalled visibly to my mind that Canada is a nation founded on a union of two great races. The harmony of their equal partnership is an example to all mankind—an example everywhere in the world."

CROWDS IN OTTAWA CHEER PRESIDENT, 1ST TO VISIT CAPITAL

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 25 (AP).—President Roosevelt won the acclaim of the people of Ottawa today as he toured the old city, the first President of the United States to visit Canada's capital while in office.

An honorary degree of doctor of laws was conferred upon him in a private ceremony by Gov. Gen. Athlone, acting as chancellor of the University of London.

From his automobile on his tour, he smiled broadly and waved his hat. His friendliness set off waves of cheering and applause that soon spread thruout the city as Mr. Roosevelt was driven thru streets lined by delighted Canadians who were kept back by grinning service men.

ORDNANCE CHIEF LAUDS PRIVATE ARMS INDUSTRY

The army ordnance department experiment of putting the management of five depots in the hands of private industry has turned out to be everything that had been hoped and the department expects to gain many new ideas for improvement of the depots, Maj. Gen. L. H. Campbell Jr., army chief of ordnance, said yesterday as he arrived in Chicago to attend a two day conference of field service divisions in the Palmer house.

"In general," said Gen. Campbell, "we are trying to reduce the number of employes in the depots. More than 99 per cent of them are civilians and of this number 45 per cent are women. Management fees for operation of the depots by private industry are less than 1 per cent altho the law allows payment up [illegible] 7 per cent."

The five companies which have taken over management of ordnance depots are Sears Roebuck & Co., International Harvester, Chrysler, Proctor & Gamble, and Atlas Powder.

The conference being directed by Gen. Campbell is attended by 69 other ordnance officers and a large number of civilians interested in production.

LABOR LEADERS AID COMMUNITY FUND CAMPAIGN

Seek Help of All Unions in October Drive.

Leaders of organized labor in Chicago have started, on their own initiative, to enlist the support of all local unions for the combined community and war fund campaign in October, Elmer T. Stevens, general chairman of the campaign, said yesterday.

A labor coöperation committee has been organized by union groups, with 41 representatives of AFL, CIO, and independent unions and railroad brotherhoods as members. Thomas J. Murray, business representative of the Electrical workers local 134 [AFL] is chairman; Ernest DeMaio, general vice president of the United Electrical Workers of America [CIO], is vice chairman, and Francis De Laurie, second vice president of the Chicago Industrial Union council [CIO], is secretary.

Promises Best Job.

"Labor recognizes the responsibility of the community in this campaign and the need for a greater response than in any previous campaign," DeMaio said yesterday. "We will get behind the effort and do a better job than ever before."

A plea for labor and management to forget all controversies and coöperate in making the community and war fund campaign a success was made by Peter Bockstahler, regional director of the AFL Labor League for Human Rights, and by Michael Mann, secretary of the Chicago Industrial Union council.

Aubrey H. Mellinger, president of the Illinois Bell Telephone company and chairman of the community fund, agreed with them, but said: "We can't guarantee such coöperation, but this is just the kind of a job in which labor-management committees can function effectively. We should use them to the utmost in the campaign."

Intends to Reach All.

"The labor coöperation committee doesn't intend to do just a perfunctory job," said Samuel Laderman, secretary of the Luggage Workers union, local 50 [AFL], a member of the group's executive committee. "We will have to reach every business agent and shop steward in the city and sell them on this campaign."

The goal of the campaign, which will open Oct. 4, is $12,806,424. The U. S. O. will receive $4,000,000, the community fund $3,943,000 for the support of local welfare agencies, and the rest will be divided among 16 agencies for the relief of foreign war victims and suburban charities.

Stevens said yesterday that at least $5,000,000 will have to come from employed people in Chicago, about $6,000,000 from corporations, and the balance from communities in Cook county outside of Chicago and in Du Page and Lake counties, and from individual large givers.

Two Divisions in City.

In Chicago there will be two main divisions in the campaign organization, one to reach employed persons in 4,000 firms with more than 50 workers each and the other to solicit all other persons.

Communities in the three counties outside of Chicago will organize their own campaigns. Appointment of six district chairmen to organize the areas outside of Chicago was announced yesterday by Owen L. Coon, chairman of the suburban division.

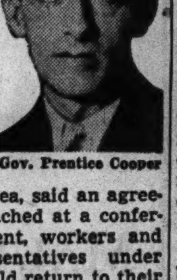
PLANE FACTORY STRIKE ENDED IN TENNESSEE

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 25 (AP).—Settlement of an independent union strike at an airplane factory was announced tonight after Gov. Prentice Cooper had called on Tennessee draft boards to induct strikers promptly into the army.



Gov. Prentice Cooper

Maj. E. J. Bennett, industrial relations representative of the army air forces in the Nashville area, said an agreement had been reached at a conference of management, workers and air forces representatives under which strikers would return to their jobs tomorrow at the Nashville plant of Consolidated-Vultee, Inc.

James M. Shelton, local business agent of the international machinists' union, said approximately half of those who had walked out already had returned to their jobs previously "at the request of the union and government representatives." It was estimated that between 110 and 200 struck.

Shelton said the dispute arose in a tail-assembly unit over appointment of two supervisors which the employes said was in violation of the seniority clause in a contract of two years standing.

Gov. Cooper declared: "No man should enjoy deferment from military duty who voluntarily quits work in a vital defense industry."

INJURED IN 4 STORY FALL.

Hazel Jones, 26 years old, a Negro, suffered a possible skull fracture yesterday when she fell from a 4th floor porch in the rear of her home at 918 West 14th street, crashing thru the roof of a garage.

BLONDE AND JOE ADD CHAPTER TO A MYSTERY

Another mysterious episode involving Mrs. Alice Rand De Tarnowsky, heiress who has been reported missing for a month, occurred last night in the vicinity of the De Tarnowsky home near Barrington.

At 5:30 p. m. a black sedan containing a blonde woman and a dark haired man drove up to the home of Noble J. Puffer, county superintendent of schools, which lies across a small lake just south of the De Tarnowsky home. Mrs. Lucille Thompson, 42 years old, Negro maid of the Puffers, was alone in the house, and answered the doorbell when the couple rang.

Tells Story to Police Chief.

Then, according to Mrs. Thompson's story told to Chief of Police Ernest Baade of Barrington, the dark haired man and the maid held the following conversation:

"Do you know the De Tarnowsky children?" the man asked.

"No," the maid replied.

"Well, that makes it fine. Will you go across the lake and get the baby [Sandra De Tarnowsky, 2]? This is the baby's mother, and she wants to see her."

When the maid again said "No," the man pulled out a roll of bills and said: "Look here, I'll give you this $100 bill now if you'll go over and get that baby, and when you come back with her, I'll give you another $100 bill."

Blonde Woman Speaks Up.

Mrs. Thompson, much frightened, refused to take the money, and the blonde woman spoke up.

"Joe," she said, "make her take the money or she'll call somebody. Give her the money to make her keep her mouth shut."

The man called Joe stared at the maid a few seconds, then remarked: "She'll keep her mouth shut or I'll come back and get her."

The couple then went to their car and raced away. Mrs. Thompson went to the telephone and called a neighbor, Mrs. T. L. G. Deuell, wife of a Chicago bond broker. Deuell arrived home soon afterward and he called Chief Baade.

Dark Glasses and Slacks.

Mrs. Thompson described the blonde woman as having long hair worn in a halo braid. She wore dark glasses and slacks. The man called Joe she described as a good looking fellow with dark hair and black eyes.

Mrs. De Tarnowsky's husband, Alexis, a captain in the army corps of engineers, reported a week ago that she had been missing from their home since the latter part of July. In addition to their baby, Sandra, they have a son, George, 4, who is at the Barrington home, and a second daughter, Marie, 14, who is visiting an aunt in Richmond, Va.

James McMullen, 27 years old, 4349 South Christiana avenue, whose wife, Dorothy, 27, and their two children, Geraldine, 6, and Barbara, 5, have been missing from home since Aug. 14, told Brighton Park police yesterday that she had asserted about a month ago that she would kill herself and the children rather than undergo an operation her physician said was necessary. McMullen said he had communicated with sisters of his wife at Bloomington, Ill., and San Diego, Cal., but that neither had heard from her. McMullen is a loader employed by the Chicago By-Products corporation, 3500 South Pulaski road.

PROBE FRAUDS IN 45 CHICAGO WAR INDUSTRIES

Forty-five Chicago firms supplying essential material to the United States army and navy are under investigation for war frauds, it was disclosed here yesterday by Tom Clark, assistant United States attorney general in charge of the anti-trust division and chief of the war frauds unit of the department of justice.

Clark, here from Washington to attend a regional meeting of United States attorneys, declared in an interview that makers of airplane parts were prominent among the firms undergoing investigation. He said about half the cases involved so-called "money frauds," such as pay roll padding, collusion in bidding for contracts, or fictitious fees, and the other half involved defective material. He predicted that indictments would be returned "in at least 25 per cent of the cases by fall."

Clark also disclosed that branch offices under the Chicago regional office of the anti-trust division recently have been set up in Detroit and Cleveland, to handle investigations of war frauds in those areas.

COUNTY LOSES PLEA FOR CASH TO PAY 6,000

Treasurer Refuses Any Advance to Board.

Cook county officials yesterday said they were striving desperately to avoid payless pay days, beginning soon, for the county's 6,000 employes.

At a conference the members of the county board were informed by County Treasurer Victor L. Schlaeger that he would not advance any money for pay roll purposes from special funds under his control.

The treasurer last night said that the tax collections had been good thus far and that the county had large funds in prospect from delinquent taxes.

Refuses to Advance Money.

"The county is the fiscal agent," Schlaeger said. "The treasurer is only the collector. When funds are due to the county I will pay them. I will not advance any money. There are large items in the county board's revenue estimates which apparently will not turn out 100 per cent.

"These estimated items cannot be considered as justifying any advances."

Those at the conference included Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board; Commissioners Daniel Ryan and Maurice F. Kavanagh, Schlaeger, and Lee J. Howard, county auditor.

Smith is reported to have told the conferees that $625,000 would have to be obtained from some source to meet the pay rolls due on Sept. 10.

Delinquent Taxes Sought.

Kavanagh said last night that much of the discussion at the meeting was directed at the possibility of collecting delinquent taxes. He and the other members of the board have argued that the county income from fees and other items appearing at the end of the year would put the county in good financial shape.

The county's financial situation is complicated by the fact that the board is preparing to sell a bond issue of between 8 and 10 million dollars to pay off its bills due and unpaid on Dec. 1, 1942. County officials have felt that disclosure of their cash position might be a detriment to the sale of these bonds.

Schlaeger said he did not believe a disclosure of the cash position would injure the sale. Even if it did hurt, he said, bondholders are certainly entitled to know what was back of their investment.

REVIVED BY FIREMEN.

Overcome by gas with which he was fumigating a box car at 4014 Fullerton avenue yesterday, George Ford, 17 years old, 9030 South Hoyne avenue, was revived after 20 minutes' work by firemen of rescue squad 6 under Capt. James Lahey.

VETERANS ASK PROSECUTION OF KIMMEL, SHORT

San Diego, Calif., Aug. 25 (AP).—The San Diego council, Veterans of Foreign Wars, in a resolution, has urged early court martial of Adm. Husband E. Kimmel and Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short on charges of gross negligence in connection with the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, Dec. 7, 1941.

A Presidential commission headed by Chief Justice Owen J. Roberts concluded there was a "dereliction of duty" by Kimmel and Short in not conferring with one another on joint defense matters at Pearl Harbor. Both men were retired on half pay.

The veterans group resolution said the two will become immune from prosecution under the statute of limitations if not tried before Dec. 7, 1944.

FOR WANT OF A SHOE, A CHICAGO TEMPER IS LOST

And Some Japs Go to Join Their Ancestors.

[Clay Gowran, Tribune correspondent, was with the American troops who took Viru harbor, New Georgia, July 1. In this dispatch, delayed in reaching The Tribune, he tells an interesting yarn about a Chicagoan.]

BY CLAY GOWRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOUTH PACIFIC HDQ., Aug. 15 [delayed].—One member of a grim, exhausted, half starved, little band of marine raiders which struggled out of the jungle to meet and smash a unit of Japanese troops at Viru Harbor was Pvt. Charles Rios, 21 years old, of 2604 East 106th street, Chicago.

Pvt. Charles Rios.

As we moved into the battle thru a steady, cold rain that dawn of July 1, Rios was as tired and sick as any of us. His feet and legs were shredded flesh from the long miles thru the mangrove swamps where the sucking mud reached a man's waist.

His Browning automatic rifle had cut a bleeding groove into his shoulder. For four days he had kept going on tiny bits of cheese and chocolate, washed down with dirty water from jungle streams.

Fight for Four Hours.

Shortly after 11 a. m. we struck the unsuspecting Japs. For four hours we fought our way forward, inch by inch, against the guns until the last Jap chose the 150 foot cliffs as the easiest way to die for his emperor, and Viru Harbor was ours.

It was during the last half hour that Rios got it. With a buddy, he was after a Jap heavy machine gun. Carefully, they sneaked their way up for the kill, but the Jap saw them first. The machine gun flamed as its lead ripped into a fallen log which was their only protection.

The Right Instant.

A bullet struck the heel of Rios' right shoe and tore the shoe completely off. Screaming his rage at an enemy mean enough to ruin his only shoes, Rios jumped to his feet and ran forward, his Browning roaring.

The gods were with this crazy Chicagoan—the instant he chose to charge was the instant the Jap gunners were changing ammunition belts. After the new belt was ready they had joined their ancestors.

An hour later Rios was sitting in the mud, alternately eating Jap salmon and struggling to force a pair of Jap sandals onto his swollen feet. He was still plenty mad about those shoes.

THREE BROTHERS IN ARMY.

Charles Rios worked at the Wisconsin Steel company before he joined the marines in October, 1942. He was born in San Antonio, Tex., and was brought to Chicago by his family when he was about 7 years old. He attended Bowen High school here. He has three brothers in the army and another about to join. His mother, Mrs. Amelia Rios, has eight children.

THREE AIR BASES IN FRANCE HIT BY U.S., RAF BOMBERS

LONDON, Aug. 25 (AP).—In the lull between heavy bomber blows American and R. A. F. medium bombers today concentrated for the second successive day on westernmost German air fields in France, showering explosives on three bases and one power station.

United States 8th air force Marauders hit the power station at Rouen and the Tricqueville air field. R. A. F. Mitchells struck at the Bernay St. Martin airdrome and R. A. F. Bostons the air field at Beaumont le Roger.

Few enemy fighters showed themselves and one of these was downed by an R. C. A. F. squadron.

A bomb burst across the dispersal area at Tricqueville looked like mushrooms, said Maj. Frederick E. Fair, 1248 West 83d street, Chicago. It was the "fifth trip and quietest" for Staff Sgt. Ralph E. Miller, also of Chicago, tail gunner of the Chickawaw Chief II., piloted by Capt. Francis F. Rezaback, Chicago.

[The federal communications commission reported in New York that the main radio in the Berlin area, Deutschlandsender, had gone off the air last night along with the Nazi operated Calais and Paris radios in France, indicating the possible presence of allied bombers.]

royal fighting figures and has been torpedoed at least four times while on active duty in this war. He also saw sea service in the last war.

"Kelly and Mountbatten."

At the start of the war he commanded the 5th destroyer flotilla in the H. M. S. Kelly.

"Kelly and Mountbatten" became a famous firm. Twice the Kelly was badly damaged, once by mine and once by torpedo. Mountbatten got her back both times. His crew described him as a "damned cheerful bloke" in rough action and offered to fight any one who hinted that his advancement was the result of royal ties.

The Kelly finally went down off Crete in April, 1941. Mountbatten got the D. S. O. and command of the Illustrious, then under repair in the United States. But he returned to London suddenly to assume a new secret command which proved to be the direction of combined operations. As vice admiral and honorary lieutenant general and air vice marshal, he directed the increasing number of raids on the continent and handled the training of the Commandos.

Gets Mixed Command.

In India, Mountbatten will find himself in command of a truly allied force—American airmen, British and Indian ground forces, and some Chinese troops. Ahead of them in Burma lie Japanese forces estimated at four to five divisions, and limited air strength. However, the enemy can—and normally does—draw on bases in Indo China for air strength needed in Burma, since the planes can be flown over in a matter of hours.

Mountbatten himself will of course name his deputies and staff, but it was held likely here that Maj. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, recently named air officer in the China-Burma-India theater after serving as chief of the air staff in Washington, will be his air commander.

Gen. Stilwell at present commands all American army forces in the China-Burma-India area, but Mountbatten's appointment obviously supersedes him in Burma and India.

Chiang Boss in China.

However, Mountbatten's jurisdiction does not extend to China, where Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek exercises supreme authority, with Stilwell as his chief of staff. This leaves out of Mountbatten's command also the United States 14th air force, commanded by Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault—altho Chennault's forces are part of Stratemeyer's command.

The 10th air force in India—commanded by Brig. Gen. Howard C. Davidson, who recently succeeded Maj. Gen. Clayton L. Bissell—will be part of Mountbatten's forces, and by coördination of plans, the 14th air force undoubtedly will be used for support in northern Burma, probably in conjunction with Chinese forces used against that flank of the enemy under Chinese command.

Because of the complicated political situation in Asia, the exact scope of the various commands probably will never be quite clear on paper.

CITY BUILDINGS IN N. Y. TO USE PRISON LABOR

New York, Aug. 25 (AP).—Mayor Fiorello La Guardia said today that because of the man power shortage New York City would make use of labor from city prisons in public buildings after Sept. 1.

Prisoners assigned to work outside their institutions will be dressed in civilian clothes, the mayor said, and if sleeping accommodations cannot be arranged at the places where they work they will be placed in rooms somewhere outside the prisons, so they will not be required to return to their cells at night. He said the prisoners would be paid wages.

REDS BEAT LAST WINTER'S MARK IN UKRAINE PUSH

Take 60 Villages; Widen Donetz Basin Breach.

LONDON, Aug. 26 [Thursday]—(AP).—Russian troops eclipsed last winter's counter-offensive mark yesterday by capturing Zenkov, deep in Ukraine, 85 miles northwest of fallen Kharkov, and widened their breach in the enemy's Donetz basin lines, where they killed 2,500 Germans, Moscow announced early today. The report said 60 Ukraine villages were retaken.

Surging swiftly thru Kharkov, the Russians fanned out to the west and south to threaten Poltava and Lozovays, 75 miles to the southwest and south, respectively, the announcement said. Savage German counterattacks had failed to halt the steady Russian drive toward the Dnieper river bend, it was said.

Cuts Nazi Escape Route.

Only limited gains were made on the Bryansk front, the communique said, but Russian bombers set afire German trains in attacks on Novozybkov and Unecha on the railway running westward to Gomel.

Soviet airmen also were striking at enemy airdromes and troop concentrations below Kharkov in the ambitious Russian effort to crush the entire German line in southern Russia and trap thousands of Germans in the Donetz basin salient.

Assert Hundreds Slain.

In storming Zenkov, deep in the Ukraine, the Russian said their troops killed hundreds of enemy troops. Six hundred also were killed south of Kharkov. But the heaviest toll was exacted in the basin fighting south of Izyum and southwest of Voroshilovgrad, said the bulletin, recorded by the soviet monitor.

The Red army was declared to have captured several localities, "considerably improved their positions," and knocked out scores of German tanks and planes.

Zenkov, a rail city, is 25 miles south and slightly west of recaptured Lebedin, the previous high-water mark achieved by the Red army last winter. It is 23 miles southwest of Akhtyrka, and 42 miles northwest of Poltava, the big German base on the approaches to the Dnieper river bend.

Report 98 Planes Felled.

In Tuesday's fighting the Russians said their troops on all fronts knocked out 104 German tanks and shot down 98 planes.

The German report, broadcast by Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press, called the fighting "the big battle of defense in the east." It said Nazi forces took a heavy toll of the Russian attackers.

FORTRESS FLYER CALLED PERFECT SCHOOLBOY TYPE

New York, Aug. 25 (AP).—Lt. Michael Mahoney, 25 years old, reported today to have flown recently in three Flying Fortress raids on Nazi air fields in France, is known in New York's model agencies as "the perfect high school grocery boy type," the New York Sun says.

His wife, the former Ruth Eileen Birne, also a model, displayed advertising pictures of him today. One showed him as a garage attendant, another as a steel worker, still another as a tousle haired, freckle faced youngster riding a bicycle loaded down with vegetables and groceries.

Mrs. Mahoney said her husband posed for a number of "kid pictures" altho he was older than he looked. He enlisted in the army three years ago and went overseas in June.

BOMBARDIER ON MEMPHIS BELLE HAS A BIG DAY

Hits Target, Then Gets That Man.

(In three earlier instalments crewmen of the Memphis Belle, a famous Flying Fortress, told how the bomber undertook a daylight raid on the Focke-Wulf aircraft factory at Bremen, Germany. Now the bombardier tells of his part in the mission.)

BY CAPT. VINCENT B. EVANS
[Bombardier.]
[Copyright: 1943: By True Magazine.]

I sat up there in the nose of the Fort like an over-wound clock. The job of the other nine men in our crew was to get me to the target so I could drop a load of indigestible eggs. From the moment we took off the strain of waiting got greater and greater. Now it was almost unbearable.

While we were still over the North sea I put in a few minutes thinking about my wife, my little boy, and my home in Fort Worth. They are my good luck charm. I put them out of mind and got down to the business at hand. I take a lot of good natured kidding about being the highest paid man in the crew because my work only takes a minute. Even if that were the case—which it isn't—then I, still wouldn't be overpaid. That's a terrible minute.

Dying, He Drops Bombs.

I always have in front of me the example that my good friend, Lt. Jack Mathis, a fellow Texan, set for all the bombardiers in the service. We were on a mission over occupied Europe when his ship, making its bombing run, was hit by a shell. Jack got the full force of the blow and it knocked him, dying, off his chair. But Jack had a job to do, dying or not, and with his last ounce of strength he climbed back into his seat, guided the plane over the target, and released the bombs. Then he fell dead.

We were over the outskirts of Bremen now and ready to start our bombing run when Capt. Bob Morgan, the pilot, yelled: "Fighter at half past ten." [Flyers use the face of the clock to indicate direction: The nose of the ship is 12 o'clock and the tail 6 o'clock.] That was me. I grabbed the machine gun, swung it to the left just in time to see a Yellow Nose [Focke-Wulf 190 from Goering's squadron] come pounding down like the hammers of hell. The Nazi pilot held his fire until he was almost on top of me and then let go with a short burst. I let fly at him. We both missed. When he finally peeled off he was so close that I felt I could reach out and slap him over the head. As his ship went by I saw his number. It was 14, a famous Nazi daredevil.

It's Fast, Hard Work.

We were in a heavy cloud punctuated with flashes of red. It was the only one our weather man had missed predicting. To give it the official name coined by our tail gunner, it's flakulo-nimbus. I had a line on the aiming point. I pressed the release and yelled: "Bomb bay doors open!"

The crew had stopped worrying about the fighters and were not sweating out the flak. A few pieces hit the Memphis Belle and tore holes in her sides.

"Follow the P. D. I.," I called to the pilot. I control this with the bombsight and it checks the course for the ship. We were just three-quarters of a minute off the aiming point. For the first 30 seconds I worked like blazes making the big course correction. The anti-aircraft guns below were also working like blazes. In a bombing run the plane flies straight and level and they can get a good line on her flight.

In the final five seconds I made the fine correction. The whole crew really sweats out these last few seconds. I got the aiming point in the precise center of the bombsight and pulled the salvo handle. Five 1,000 pounders spun down toward the final assembly plant of the Focke-Wulf factory.

I yelled: "Bombs away." Ninety per cent of the tension in the ship was gone. Our work was done. All we had to do now was to get home.

Starts Up Camera.

The radioman flicked the switch which started up the automatic camera in the ship's under belly. We rarely see where our own bombs hit and we don't really know what damage we've done until the pictures are developed back at the base.

The moment I yelled, "Bombs away," Bob Morgan pulled the Memphis Belle into a chandelle—a sudden and steep leap upward—to get out of the ack-ack range. The bomb bay doors were still open and they acted as a drag to slow down our speed. I kept the doors open so that the other planes in our group which were making their runs singly and unloading their bombs could catch up and fall into formation behind us for the run home.

Everybody in Place.

Tail gunner Quinlan [Staff Sergt. John P. Quinlan, Yonkers, N. Y.] acts as observer for the pilot officer when we are the lead plane. He called back that the group was intact and in position. I closed the bomb bay doors and we picked up speed as we headed due north out of the flak area. The very moment we left it a Yellow Nose came hurtling down on my side. He tried to get a line on us with tracer bullets and then uncorked his 20-mm. cannon Sunday punch. Somehow he didn't quite make it. He came so close we almost crashed before he peeled off. As he did I caught his number. It was 14 again.

I cursed softly under my breath. That guy acted like he really meant it! He pulled out of his dive, gained altitude and started down for another run.

And No. 14 Gets His.

I swiveled my gun around, got him glued in the sights and held him there as he came in. Four stuttering guns of fire appeared on his wing tips. I held my fire until he was only 1,000 yards away. Then I let him have a full second burst.

Plane No. 14 of Goering's own Yellow Nose squadron blew up. It just disintegrated. It burst into flame and a big blob of fire seemed to hang motionless in the sky for a split second and then debris—bits of wing, fuselage, tail, and motor—fell away and began to spin downward, leaving a trail of black smoke.

"Fighter plane down at 10 o'clock," I said.

[Bloom Photo.]
LINA BASQUETTE.

Muroc air base, Cal., Aug. 25 (AP).—Lina Basquette, actress of the silent screen era, became so distraught at an army court martial today that the courtroom was cleared as she came to the climax of her testimony against Pvt. George Paul Rimke, 22, of Cleveland, O., charged with raping her. Rimke pleaded innocent.

Miss Basquette testified she gave the soldier a lift in her automobile in Burbank. She said Rimke took over the wheel after they had driven a while and parked the car on a Burbank street. She said he then took the ignition keys out and lunged at her.

Miss Basquette told the army court that she became hysterical at that time and did not know whether she retained consciousness or not. She said she believed he forced her into the back seat.

It was at this point in her testimony that the courtroom was cleared of spectators.

After regaining her composure the witness resumed her testimony and said it was apparently during her period of unconsciousness that the alleged act of intimacy occurred. She testified she later was forced from her car and the soldier drove away.

Rimke, at a night session of the hearing, admitted that he had been intimate with the actress, but denied he raped her after threatening her life. Rinke testified Miss Basquette voluntarily went from the front to the rear seat of the automobile and disrobed.

The former actress said her husband, Henry Mollison, a British actor, was a prisoner of war in Germany and she did not know if he was alive. Miss Basquette, 34, is the mother of a 9 year old son.

BEAUTICIAN DIES SUDDENLY.

Miss Margaret Kasper, 52 years old, a beauty operator in Mandel Brothers department store, suffered a heart attack and died a few minutes later in the store's first aid station. She lived at 913 Wellington avenue.

FORMER CHICAGO WOMAN HELD IN SPY ROUNDUP

Countess Von Moltke Is Called Alien.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 25 [Special].—The federal bureau of investigation announced here today that Countess Marianna von Moltke, 46 year old former Chicagoan, and Mrs. Emma Leonhardt, 57, are being held at immigration headquarters here as enemy aliens following their seizure in yesterday's spy roundup.

The two women are slated to appear before the immigration department's enemy alien board for a hearing to determine whether they should be sent to an internment camp, it was said.

Unable to furnish $50,000 bonds on espionage charges, three other persons caught in the roundup were held tonight in the county jail and a fourth, Mrs. Theresa Behrens, 44, was sent to the city receiving hospital in what Turnkey William Mowrey described as a precautionary measure against suicide.

Man Segregated in Jail.

The others are the glamorous Miss Grace Buchanan-Dineen, 34, described by the FBI as the key figure in the conspiracy; Bertrand Hoffman, 27, a member of the merchant marine, and Dr. Fred William Thomas, 44, a surgeon. Mowrey said Dr. Thomas has been placed in segregated quarters in the jail because of a furore created among other prisoners who objected to being incarcerated with "a Nazi."

John S. Bugas, head of the Detroit FBI office, said that the FBI is in possession of a small green and black book obtained from Miss Buchanan-Dineen contining the names of some 200 persons in approximately 30 cities thruout the United States. He said the names were given her before she left Germany in 1941 but declined to predict whether other arrests may be made.

Outlines Suspects' Work.

Bugas gave an outline of activities of the spy ring, stating that the home of Mrs. Leonhardt at 3521 Garland avenue was a headquarters for the spy activities. He said Mrs. Leonhardt, whose husband was a one time Detroit Bund leader and whose daughter is married to a high official in Nazi Germany, was referred to as "mamma" by her associates.

He said Miss Buchanan-Dineen arrived in Detroit with Gestapo credentials and got in touch with Mrs. Von Moltke, who introduced her to various "potentially valuable contacts," and who furnished her with an address in Switzerland for use in forwarding information to the German Gestapo.

The FBI said that for a considerable period Miss Buchanan-Dineen had operated under its surveillance and that all information furnished her was cleared thru the FBI and scrutinized by the army and navy intelligence services.

RESIDED IN CHICAGO.

Countess Marianna von Moltke lived in Chicago for several years and was business manager of Poetry magazine under the late Miss Harriet Monroe, poetess, former associates recalled yesterday.

The countess was described by Miss Geraldine Udell, present business manager of the magazine, as a short, blonde, heavy set woman, who would now be in her late 40s. She claimed to be Italian from a prominent, old family, but spoke glowingly of her travels on the continent and her sojourns in Germany, Miss Udell said.

"The countess worked for the magazine from August, 1929, to March, 1930, in a part time position," she explained. "She shied away from politics, and I don't believe that she was interested in the Nazi movement at that time."

It was during this same interval that the countess' husband, Count Heinrich Joachim von Moltke, descendant of a famous Prussian field general who was a strategist in the Franco-Prussian war, taught German at the Francis Parker school.

The Von Moltkes lived for a few weeks in 1929 in the home of Gustav Carus, 2120 Sedgwick street.

The family came to America in 1927, leaving a young son, Heinrich Joachim von Moltke Jr., in Germany. After they established residence here at 110 East 65th street, the boy, then 7 years old, traveled across the ocean alone and joined them.

DIES OF AUTO INJURIES.

An unidentified Negro about 45 years old died in County hospital yesterday of injuries suffered Aug. 16 when struck at State and 31st streets by an automobile driven by William Massey, 52, of 2301 North Pulaski road.

DECIDE HULL'S TONE INDICATES WELLES IS OUT

Press Told There Is Nothing 'Today.'

Washington, D. C. Aug. 25.—Secretary of State Cordell Hull, returning from the Quebec conference today, left little doubt in the minds of newspaper men that Sumner Welles has resigned as undersecretary and that Hull would have something to say about the subject later.

[These developments in Washington yesterday were confirmatory of a story published Aug. 12 in The Tribune that Welles shortly would give up his post as undersecretary of state as the loser in a long feud with Hull.]

Hull surprised a press conference by saying he would not discuss the Welles matter today and emphasized the word "today." That he would make some later statement was the obvious implication.

New Assignment Expected.

Meanwhile it was learned that Welles considers his loyalty to President Roosevelt has been unimpaired by the reported resignation and that he will accept any assignment from the executive to go anywhere. This attitude gave credence to rumors that he would be given an important post.

Hull, when asked if reports were true that he had told the President recently that either he or Welles must resign, replied that he never used that kind of language about anybody, anywhere.

Implies Statement Later.

Hull added that he might say, however, that he had nothing "today" on that general subject.

"I seem to catch an emphasis on 'today,'" a newspaper man ventured. Hull said he might have emphasized that word.

Those at the press conference deduced from further answers that the President would doubtless deal with the Welles matter, probably at his next press conference, and that Hull would explain his own position about the same time.

NEWSREEL MAN SAYS SICILY WAR WAS LIKE MOVIE

Home after 20 months of filming the war in the European and North African theaters, Jack Barnett, Fox newsreel cameraman, yesterday described the invasion of Sicily as the nearest thing possible to a Hollywood picture version of war.

Jack Barnett.

"There was action every moment," Barnett said. "It made no difference which way you looked you could see something—planes fighting in the air, bombs bursting on the ground, guns firing in the distance, and mortars lobbing shells over hills. Pattern bombing by American Flying Fortresses is the most devastating thing that can be imagined. Nothing is left standing and few persons are left alive."

Barnett went to Ireland to film American troops in training in January, 1942, then to England for a short time and next to Africa, where he worked almost daily with Jack Thompson, Tribune war correspondent.

Barnett will spend a month in Chicago with his wife and daughter, Jacqueline, 7 years old, then he expects to return to Sicily.

MACHINE GUNS BACK NAZI RULE IN COPENHAGEN

Full Military Control in Prospect; Riots Grow.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug. 25 (AP).—With Nazi machine guns reported spotted at strategic points, Copenhagen tonight awaited the climax of a 10 day series of sabotage acts and clashes between Danes and German soldiers.

As the people's revolt against German occupation and war use of Denmark mounted, the Stockholm newspaper Allehanda speculated whether the Germans planned to institute military control, intern King Christian and strip the Danish government of its powers.

German Ambassador Werner Best met with Danish officials in Copenhagen during the day to discuss ways to halt the growing strife.

Nazis Fearful of King.

The king still is the most popular figure in Denmark, and there seemed little likelihood here that the Germans would risk stirring still further revolt among the people by interning the monarch.

However, the newspaper Aftontidningen reported that great tenseness still prevailed in Copenhagen, with only a spark needed to touch off a terrific outbreak, and that the Germans had mounted machine guns at key points thruout the city.

Reports from Denmark also said that nine acts of sabotage took place in the capital city in the 24 hour period ending last midnight.

More Factories Blasted.

Besides an explosion in the huge forum hall which was being fitted to house the growing influx of German troops, already placed at 50,000, blasts were loosed in a factory making electrical parts for German airplanes and in another manufacturing radio apparatus for the Nazis. The wood fuel supply in the harbor also was set afire.

In another Danish factory making armaments for Germany workers were told by the Germans that they must work and sleep in the plant—an effort to stymie the Danish saboteurs who have been careful to operate so as not to endanger the lives of Danish workers.

'Battle of Britain Sunday' Proclaimed for Sept. 26

LONDON, Aug. 26 [Thursday] (AP).—King George today proclaimed Sunday, Sept. 26, as "Battle of Britain Sunday" to commemorate the "deeds of the royal air force and civil defense workers during that trial of bomb and fire in 1940.

TELLS HOW YANK STRATEGY SPED SICILY INVASION

Palermo Won in 2d Week of Drive to Coast.

[Following is the third of a series of five stories reviewing the planning, strategy, tactics, and course of the Sicilian campaign. The Tribune's correspondent, John Thompson, was the first American writer to reach Sicily. He accompanied the paratroopers. He followed thru the entire campaign, in the field and at allied headquarters.]

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 25.—The second week of the Sicilian invasion found the 15th army group under Gen. Harold Alexander well established ashore, with the British 8th army being supplied thru Syracuse and Augusta, while the American 7th army was still without a decent port and was bringing its supplies in over beaches.

The British 78th division had landed and was coming up behind in support of the Canadians who were driving north on the 8th army's flank. The rest of the 8th army troops had run into strong German defensive positions in the Catania plain which took excellent advantage of the thousands of irrigation ditches and the many tributary streams and dry washes of the Cornatunga river.

8th Army Fiercely Opposed.

The frontal assault of Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery, commander of the British 8th army, on Catania, which was important as a rail and air center and a port, was meeting fierce opposition, the type of defense making use of tanks on a wide scale impossible. At the same time it appeared that Italian resistance in the western part of the island was ready to collapse.

Meanwhile, the Canadians, as well as the American 1st division, were fighting their way north, while the American 45th division had been taken out of the line shortly after the capture of Comiso and swung behind the front into a position on the left flank of the 1st division.

The Canadians had rested two days at Modica to recover from severe sunburn, having spent the winter in Britain. Then they had gone on to take Caltagirone and Grammichele. They were now meeting up with the German armored grenadiers who were bitterly contesting every hill and making the Canadians' progress slower.

Canadians Whip Nazis.

The Canadians defeated the Germans on the hills before Enna, using a full division of artillery for the first time in an attack which was greatly aided by the Americans who actually took the town. On July 22 the Canadians took Leonforte after a two day fight with the Germans, who battled from caves in the hills. Then the Canadians made a turning movement to the east, heading down the road to Agira and Adrano.

To the left of the Canadians our own veteran 1st division was also fighting its way north alongside the 45th, which operated on the 1st's western flank. Both divisions were given the job of slashing thru to the northern coast, but the 1st, as so often happened in the past, ran into a stubborn German rearguard.

The terrain was now beginning to be extremely mountainous. Almost all advances were confined to narrow roads and it was only with difficulty that flanking movements were carried out.

Move Into Enna.

At Caltanissetta was one of the stiffest fights and the 1st division entered the town only after it had been reduced to rubble by artillery. It then moved into Enna, the defenses of that town having been weakened by the Canadians' defeat of the Germans on the high ground to the southeast. Liaison, incidentally, between the American and the Canadian divisions proved excellent.

Hampered only by sporadic Italian defenses, the American 45th division made better headway and broke thru to the north coast near Termini-Imerese, east of Palermo. It then turned to the east. The American 3d division, which had landed with three regiments abreast near Licata, by this time had taken Agrigento. This town had formidable defenses, all of which pointed to the sea, and it fell fairly easily.

Two Divisions in 2d Corps.

The 1st and 45th divisions now comprised the 2d corps under the command of Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley. Lt. Gen. George S. Patton Jr., commander of the American 7th army, now organized a provisional corps under his deputy commander, Maj. Gen. Geoffrey Keyes, a tankman, giving him the 3d, the 2d armored and the 82d airborne divisions. The 82d had been taken out of the line at Gela and marched along the coast to come up on the left flank of the 3d, while the 2d armored was moved from the 3d's back at Campobello and also sent along the southern coast road in the direction of the Marsala plain, but behind the infantry.

By this time a combat team from the American 9th division had landed and gone on into Castelvetrano—the rest of the division came in later near Gela to move north and eventually relieve the 1st. The provisional corps now proceeded in this fashion.

Move on Palermo.

The 3d division, moving swiftly and meeting little determined resistance, altho the country offered ideal defensive positions, struck north thru Ribera and Corleone toward Palermo. The airborne troops, by a forced march which wore the soles off some of the paratroopers' boots, arrived north of San Margherita and were held there. Then Patton executed a wide flanking movement, a cavalryman's dream, sending the armored division thru Castelvetrano and then abruptly northeast thru San Ninfa, Camporeale, San Giusseppe, and Monreale and into Palermo.

It was an expensive maneuver for the armored division which was eager for a fight, but which found nothing except a few guns which held them up outside Monreale for a few hours. However, the rough mountain roads took their toll of the rubber half-track treads, while the 150 mile dash burned up quantities of gasoline.

Port Falls Quickly.

On July 22 Palermo fell like an overripe fruit. Maj. Gen. Hugh J. Gaffey's 2d armored division tanks entered the city in the evening only to discover that Maj. Gen. Lucian K. Truscott's 3d division had beaten them into the city by several hours, while the 45th division farther east, claimed to have sent a patrol into the city before either of the other divisions. From the type of soldiers "defending" the city, Palermo could have been captured by a battalion.

While the bulk of the provisional corps was converging on Palermo, the airborne troops marched thru Salemi, had a few skirmishes and two days after Palermo was captured they took Trapani on the west coast. This important port fell in a swift battle outside the city in which the paratroopers and their supporting artillery captured a strongly defended 2,500 foot mountain.

Hold Two-Thirds of Isle.

By the end of the second week the allies held two-thirds of the island. The total number of prisoners captured had risen to 42,000 by the American 7th army and 8,000 by the British 8th, the bulk of whom were Italians, while thousands more had changed into civilian clothes and gone home to the hills. Many thousands of the enemy had been killed and it looked as if the allied drive which had gathered speed rapidly would move onto a swift conclusion of the campaign. But the tough mountains of the northeast and the equally tough Germans who were now reënforced by the 29th armored grenadier division and a parachute regiment, were going to make a difference.

Waste Paper Helps Rout Axis Forces

Enemy routs by Allied forces are being completed with the aid of ammunition and supplies made from your waste paper! Old boxes, bags, newspapers, and especially brown papers and containers are being converted into bomb bands, parachute flares, and other military equipment. Heavy war demands have caused a critical shortage of wood pulp, so the waste paper you save is needed to help equip our fighting forces. CANADIAN ARMY'S CHIEF VISITS HIS TROOPS IN SICILY

BY ROSS MUNRO.
[Canadian Press War Correspondent.]
[Distributed by the Associated Press.]

WITH THE CANADIAN TROOPS IN SICILY, Aug. 22 [delayed].—Lt. Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Canadian commander, overseas, has arrived in Sicily to visit the Canadian troops now resting and getting back into top shape after their campaign, it was announced today.

The general came from North Africa by plane late yesterday and spent the night at divisional headquarters, where he had long talks with senior staff officers of the Canadian forces.

This morning he began a tour of every Canadian formation and later he will visit the various sectors where the Canadians were in action.

McNaughton is expected to have conferences with Gen. Harold L. Alexander and Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery before he leaves Sicily, probably in a week or so.

[Alan Randal, Canadian Press staff writer, said in a dispatch from London on Aug. 12 that "Canadians no longer are fighting in Sicily and it is believed in London that they are the subject of Canadian-British discussions on how they should be used—as a complete Canadian army or broken up and integrated into British armies in future action." He added that, "from what I have heard Canadian authorities are desirous that their troops be used as a complete army." Randal's dispatch left unanswered the question whether the Canadians had been withdrawn only from the front line or completely from Sicily.]

Reduce Officer Training.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 25 (AP).—Defense Minister J. L. Ralston announced today that the number of army officers to be trained in Canada would be reduced, saying the Canadian army "has passed the expansion stage." Ralston said future requirements would be principally to replace casualties.

LT. ERWIN ARVEY DECORATED FOR ACTION IN SICILY

For gallantry during action in Sicily, Lt. Erwin Arvey, 26 years old, son of Lt. Col. Jacob Arvey, former alderman of the 24th ward, has been awarded the oak leaf cluster. In a letter to his mother, Mrs. Edith Arvey, of the Belden-Stratford hotel, 2300 Lincoln Park West, Lt. Arvey told of the decoration. He also holds another medal for heroism.

Lt. Arvey was wounded in North Africa July 14, but recovered in time to participate in the Sicilian campaign. His father, Lt. Col. Arvey, is stationed somewhere in the Pacific, said Mrs. Arvey. They have another son, Corp. Howard Arvey, who is at Brookley field, Ala.

Lt. Arvey was born in Chicago and was graduated from Western Military school at Alton. He attended Northwestern university and the University of California.

ONLY ONE WAR ON, PATTERSON TELLS AUSSIES

BY JACK TURCOTT.
[Correspondent of New York News.]

ALLIED HDQ., Australia, Aug. 25.—An increased flow of arms to the Pacific and other theaters in order to assure the "crushing of the Japanese" was pledged tonight by Robert P. Patterson, undersecretary of war. Patterson and Lt. Gen. William S. Knudsen, war department production director, arrived here by plane today on an inspection tour of South Pacific bases.

Patterson declared "blows will not be long delayed," but he refused to discuss the actual allotments in aircraft, munitions, and man power planned for Gen. MacArthur's forces. He also refused to comment on the question whether MacArthur will be commander in chief when the war moves westward.

"I sometimes get the impression that there is the feeling that we think this is a side show and that the main show is Europe," he said in a formal statement.

"I should like to correct that impression—if it exists. There are not two wars going on."

7,000 Planes a Month.

Patterson explained the presence of officers from the supply branches by saying the supply factor is one of the most important. He added America's growing production already turns out monthly more than 7,000 airplanes, 18,000,000 rounds of artillery ammunition, more than 1,700,000,000 rounds of small arms ammunition, 66,000 machine guns, and 2,500 75-millimeter field guns.

"The momentum of this mighty production is rolling forward with such purpose that we shall not be long bringing it with increasing force against our common enemy here," he added.

Evidence is piling up that the Japs are sending in considerable forces to bolster the Bougainville and Buka Island areas in the Solomons, the last remaining bulwarks against the allies' eventual northwestward drive to Rabaul.

Australian and American reconnaissance pilots have been reporting strengthening defenses in both island districts, but yesterday's sighting of a 10 ship convoy and a cruiser in the Solomons sea north of Buka is the clearest indication that the enemy is rushing reënforcements, probably from Kavieng, New Ireland.

The convoy was seen by roving reconnaissance planes 42 miles northwest of Buka, heading northward. The cruiser was sighted northeast of Buka but disappeared under a smoke screen.

U. S. TROOPS BATTLE JAPS ONE MILE FROM SALAMAUA AIRPORT

ALLIED HDQ. IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 26 [Thursday]—(AP).—American and Australian jungle troops now are within a mile of the Salamaua, New Guinea, airdrome, a spokesman for Gen. MacArthur disclosed today. This point of nearest approach is at Kennedy's Crossing at the southwest end of the air strip.

Along the Francisco river, which flows south of the air strip into Bayern bay, the only Japanese still holding out below the river are at Dot inlet on the coast.

The only semblance of a line held by the enemy begins at the inlet and runs to Nuk Nuk, directly south of the air field. Along that line the enemy has made several counter-attacks.

At a point two miles inland, Australians succeeded two days ago in crossing the river to take up positions directly west of the long-sought airdrome. Today the spokesman said allied troops north of the river were encountering rather weak resistance.

Capture of the airdrome by jungle troops would put the allies within easy fighter plane range of big enemy bases on New Britain.

Today's official war bulletin reported no major changes either on New Guinea or New Georgia and said bad weather greatly limited air activity.

ROBS LOOP BUS STATION.

Creighton Warren, 38 years old, ticket agent at Trailways bus depot, 20 East Randolph street, reported to police that a bandit who concealed a revolver in a newspaper, robbed him of $30 early this morning.

ITALIAN REVOLT TERMED WEDGE AGAINST NAZIISM

An Italian revolution of democratic-socialist character has been in the making since before the fall of Tunis, Prof. Giuseppe A. Borgese told the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations yesterday in the Palmer House. There were numerous strikes, especially in North Italy, before Tunis, and as recently as June 13 the Pope received 13,000 workingmen and asked them not to start a revolt, said Borgese, Italian born American citizen who has been professor of Italian literature at the University of Chicago.

"July 25 [the fall of Mussolini] was not the outbreak, but the suppression of the revolution for the time being," he said.

"This popular revolution was repressed by the palace revolution which substituted for the old fascism of Mussolini the neo-fascism of the king and Badoglio, in the hope of negotiating neutrality with the allies while averting the allied menace from the southern borders of Germany—in other terms, of returning Fascist Italy to the position of pro-German 'nonbelligerency' she had occupied from September, 1939, to June 1940."

"If we consent to moderate revolutions in Europe, some kind of order may be maintained, some kind of progress will be maintained," Borgese said. "If we repress or thwart them, we open Europe to chaotic upheavals and to an era of a totalitarianism of the left which may mean for a long time to come the end of all Anglo-American influence in the old world."

Milan Editor Executed with Mussolini Nephew

BERNE, Switzerland, Aug. 25.—It was announced officially today from Milan that Aldo Borella, former editor of the Corriere della Sera, was executed with Vito Mussolini, nephew of Benito, and Mario Appelius for participation in the siege of the Popolo d'Italia building, during which 10 Italian soldiers were killed.

CHECK UP ON YOUR FURNACE Now!

Is your furnace ailing? Are the joints or connections loose? Are the gas passages and flues choked? Is there any soot or fly ash on the heating surfaces? Do the dampers need adjusting? Are there any broken grates or warped doors? It's time right now to check up on your furnace and find out—so you can get it in first-class working order before you fire up for the winter. A "tight" furnace, in good repair, uses less coal—keeps the fire longer—and is a comfort to the whole family. Examine your furnace now—get it in good shape—and conserve coal—particularly this winter.

YANK BOMBS RIP STERN OFF BIG ITALIAN WARSHIP

Attacks Vessel Hiding in Cove Near Sapri.

Rome Not Open City

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25 (AP).—Rome is not yet an open city so far as the United States government is concerned, Secretary of State Cordell Hull told his press conference today.

Hull was asked whether the government had received thru the Vatican or a neutral nation a proposal of the Italian government to recognize Rome as an open city.

He replied that there had been some discussion of that subject. But he emphasized that Rome has not yet been ascertained to be an open city.

A U. S. AIR BASE IN SICILY, Aug. 25 (AP).—An intrepid American pilot in an Invader fighter-bomber [A-36] was credited today with the probable destruction of a large Italian warship believed to be a cruiser.

Capt. Striegel [top] and Lt. Claus.

The flyer was Capt. Paul A. Striegel of Jefferson City, Mo. He saw the vessel anchored in a cove while he was leading a flight of Invaders Tuesday to bomb Sapri, just above the toe of Italy, and attacked it in the face of heavy anti-aircraft fire to lay explosives on the deck near the stern.

Second Pilot Guns Ship.

2d Lt. James L. Griswold of Maywood, Cal., who later joined Striegel, also shot up the vessel, silencing anti-aircraft batteries.

"I saw the ship hidden in a cove about three miles to the south just as we reached Sapri," Striegel said. "It was too late to switch targets without confusing the other pilots so I took them on in [to Sapri]. I pulled out of a dive with bombs still aboard, turned back to the coast and sneaked up on the ship from behind a mountain.

"It's guns were late in firing, but they were blazing all over the deck by the time I got close. I had mine open full blast all during the dive.

"I let the bombs go and could feel the explosion as I zoomed up over the mast. Looking back, I could see a burst of yellowish flame coming out of the middle just behind the rear stack. I decided I must have hit a magazine."

A third pilot, 1st Lt. John G. Claus, of 6620 Yale avenue, Chicago, who came over to see what happened, thought the vessel was sinking with most of her stern blown off. "It was way too long to be a destroyer," he reported.

Bomb Rail Lines.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 25 (AP).—Wellington bombers ripped dwindling rail links south of Naples last night in widespread raids on southern Italy's communications, it was announced today, and the big new French "expeditionary force" in Africa was told by its commander, Gen. Alphonse Juin, to be ready for the assault of Europe "tomorrow with our American friends."

Rail facilities at Sapri, Castrovillari, and Sibari were pounded in the new assaults, carried out with no challenge by axis fighters. A steel plant was bombed at Torre Annunziata.

Pantless Italian Flees Boudoir; AMG Rescues His Trousers

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PALERMO, Sicily, Aug. 25.—A flustered Sicilian in his early 30s came to the AMG [allied military government] office one day. He wore a gaudy silk shirt, but instead of trousers he had a dirty gunny sack wrapped around his legs. He said the army had requisitioned his apartment that morning.

Giuseppe was not complaining about that, but please, couldn't he have permission to enter his rooms long enough to get a pair of pants?

He was too chivalrous or abashed to give the full details of his Casanovan romp the night before, but did admit that he had to dive from a dark balcony when the neighborhood shoe maker returned home without warning.

The understanding AMG officer procured several pairs of Giuseppe's pants and cautioned him to pick spots more carefully in the future.

Diplomas a Problem.

This was one of the incidents which lend variety to AMG activities in Sicily. There have been others somewhat humorous in this transition period from Fascism to freedom.

The president of the University of Palermo visited AMG with a delicate problem. It seemed last June's graduation class, which had not gotten its diplomas before, were getting them now. The diplomas for several years carried the inscription that they were presented on behalf of "Victor Emmanuel, king of Italy and emperor of Ethiopia." The only parchments the university still had contained that legend, and would AMG mind if they were used?

The AMG representative said there were no objection if the graduates wanted the diplomas bearing that phrase. In the future the diplomas will be given in the name of the university and not the sovereign.

Speed Surprises Sicilians.

One of AMG's chores in restoring public utilities such as water and electricity, involved repairing an aqueduct which had been bombed. The contractor said that would require three weeks.

"That's too long," the AMG official told him. "Why not put on several shifts of workers instead of only one?"

"The Fascists never gave instructions like that," the contractor remarked. "How do you Americans think of those things?"

The aqueduct was repaired in eight days. The editor of Sicilia Liberate called that an amazing achievement.

Some Sicilians were so trained to Fascist obedience that they gave the salute when they first met the AMG officials. The latter laughed and told them that was no longer necessary or desirable.

Handshake Wins O. K.

One young Palermian asked if handshakes were permissible, and when assured they were, he went around pumping every one's hand.

A bishop said he was certain that Mussolini had committed suicide.

"He always told the people that when he could no longer go forward he would kill himself," the bishop told an AMG man. "So that is what he must have done." His listener reminded him that Mussolini said lots of things he didn't do.

AMG had one rather embarrassing moment when it was asked to fix prices in houses of ill fame. An AMG representative, approached on that subject, slid out of it by saying he had no experts on the staff who could judiciously determine such rates.

AMGOT CLIPS NAME TO AMG; AVOIDS USE OF OFFENSIVE WORD

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25 (AP).—Retreating quietly in the wake of widespread criticism, AMGOT has taken a 40 per cent reduction in name—from now on it's just AMG.

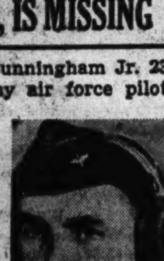
AMGOT—allied military government in occupied territories—first got public notice when it followed the combat troops into Sicily. In no time at all, somebody discovered that AMGOT was an unprintable word in Turkish, the axis radio made gleeful reference to it, American commentators bemoaned the unfortunate choice.

Actually, military officials in this country had protested before the name was made public. Unfamiliar with Turkish, they objected simply that it had unpleasant connotations reminiscent of such names as Gestapo and GPU [Nazi and Russian secret police, respectively].

The shortened form of AMGOT showed up in an announcement that preservation of art treasures is a part of AMG's job.

CHICAGO ARMY FLYER, ST. IGNATIUS SCHOOL ALUMNUS, IS MISSING

Lt. William J. Cunningham Jr. 23 years old, an army air force pilot and son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Cunningham of 9854 Walden parkway, yesterday was reported missing in action. Lt. Cunningham was born in Pensacola, Fla., but has lived in Chicago virtually all his life. He is a graduate of St. Ignatius High school. He was inducted into the army April 6, 1942, received his commission the following Nov. 25, and went overseas last March. His father is a member of the Board of Trade police department.



Lt. W. J. Cunningham Jr.

DRIVER, 18, HELD AS CAR INJURES 3 ON SIDEWALK

Englewood police last night arrested Richard Wheaton, 18 years old, of 948 West 61st street, and charged him with reckless driving and operating a car without a driver's license after his automobile jumped a curb in front of 406 West 60th street and injured three children.

Englewood hospital attendants said the three were Barbara Bolton, 5, and her brother, William, 7, of 404 West 60th street, who received minor injuries, and Ernest Young, 8, a Negro, 356 West 60th street, who suffered a fractured knee.

Charles Miller, 64 years old, of 6547 Artesian avenue, died in Swedish Covenant hospital yesterday of injuries suffered Tuesday when he was struck by an automobile at Granville and Maplewood avenues. The auto was driven by Lester C. Reagan, 39, of 6210 North Washtenaw avenue.

VOICE RINGS OUT AT SEA; RESCUE COMES QUICKLY

Evanston Officer, in Need, Meets a Friend.

Lt. Robert Beisang, 24 years old, 407 Custer avenue, Evanston, yesterday told how a friend's familiarity with his voice may have speeded the rescue of 100 men, including himself, from the sunken cruiser Helena. Lt. Beisang, a graduate of the naval R. O. T. C. at Northwestern university and the veteran of 14 naval engagements in the Pacific, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony S. Beisang, for the first time in two years.

Lt. Robert Beisang.

Four Jap Destroyers Attack.

The Helena, to which Lt. Beisang was assigned in the summer of 1941, was sunk in the battle of Kula gulf last July 7. Four Japanese destroyers, Lt. Beisang said, made torpedo attacks upon an American task force in Kula gulf. The Japanese destroyers were sunk, but the Helena suffered a hit and it sank rapidly.

"I was below decks with telephone lines severed," Lt. Beisang said. "I did not hear the order to abandon ship. When I came up several hundred shipmates already were in the water."

Hundred Men on Three Rafts.

The group in which Lt. Beisang found himself after four hours of drifting consisted of 100 men on three rafts. An American destroyer approached the group. Lt. Beisang shouted. Aboard the destroyer was Ensign George Carlson, a fraternity brother of the lieutenant. Beisang said Carlson recognized his voice and told the commander of the ship, who ordered rescue operations.

Lt. Beisang first was subjected to enemy fire at Pearl Harbor, when the Helena was damaged by a Japanese torpedo that also blew the mine layer Ogalla out of the water. The two ships were side by side.

Lt. Beisang said he also had participated in the battles of the Coral sea, Savo sound, Cape Esperance, and Guadalcanal.

AVERAGE DRIVER TO GET RECAPS OF SYNTHETIC

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25 (AP).—The synthetic rubber program paid off to the average American motorist today for the first time—in better recap material for the tires on the family car.

Previously restricted to grade F camelback, made of reclaimed rubber, private car tires hereafter may be recapped with grade C synthetic.

The office of price administration announced the change with the statement that William M. Jeffers, rubber director, had reported Buna-S synthetic production is now big enough to release the higher grade.

Prior to today's order, grade C camelback was limited to use on commercial vehicle tires. Grade A camelback, previously reserved for recapping the largest truck and bus tires, may now be obtained for new treads on all trucks and buses, altho it is still subject to rationing, OPA officials said.

Marry and Fight

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

New York, Aug. 25 (AP).—Tommy Manville, married today for the seventh time, showed up at El Morocco night club tonight without his wife—and with several scratches on his face.

Manville, accompanied by two plain clothes detectives, said he and his bride, the former Macie Marie [Sunny] Ainsworth, 19, "had a fight" and that he didn't know where she was.

The marriage of the wealthy asbestos heir and the show girl, who is from Matagorda, Tex., took place with previous announcement, Miss Ainsworth having broken their engagement two weeks ago on the grounds they were not well enough acquainted.

7TH ARMY'S FAME SHALL NEVER DIE—GEN. PATTON

PALERMO, Sicily, Aug. 25 (AP).—Lt. Gen. George S. Patton Jr., in orders congratulating his 7th army on the Sicilian victory, told them today "your fame shall never die."

"You have destroyed the prestige of the enemy," he said.

"Born at sea, baptized in blood, and crowned with victory in the course of 38 days of incessant battle and unceasing labor, you have added a glorious chapter to the history of the war," his message said.

"Pitted against the best the Germans and Italians could offer, you have been unfailingly successful.

"The engineers performed prodigies in construction and maintenance of impossible roads over impassable country. The services of maintenance and supply performed a miracle. The signal corps laid over 10,000 miles of wire and the medical department evacuated and cared for our sick and wounded.

"On all occasions the navy has given generous and gallant support. Thruout the operation our air force has kept the sky clear and tirelessly supported the operation of the ground troops."

SHOW'S VISITORS TO WATCH ARMY USE ITS 'EYES'

To emphasize the newest scientific miracles in the field of camera reconnaissance—the "eyes" of the army—tomorrow will be "photographic day" at the air power show sponsored by the Army Air Forces Materiel command and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in Tribune Square.

For the first time the public will be permitted to see exactly how reconnaissance film is used, processed and printed under combat conditions and extreme weather hazards in all the theaters of war.

Every day visitors at the show may view hundreds of examples of the air forces photographic equipment, hear its functions explained and peer into laboratories where film is processed and printed. But tomorrow they will be allowed to see this equipment in operation.

Four enlisted specialists from the photographic laboratory engineering division of the materiel command at Wright field, Dayton, O., will be present to answer questions.

SEAPLANE FLOPS ON FOX LAKE; 4 FLYERS RESCUED

Four flyers, one of them an officer, were rescued from the wings of their partly submerged twin motored seaplane late yesterday after it turned over in Fox lake, Lake county, while practicing landings, sheriff's deputies of Lake county reported.

Residents of the lake front saw the plane hit the water tail first, somersault, and land on its back. A minute or two later the four men were seen scrambling onto the wings. Joseph Moulis put out from the east shore in a cabin cruiser and took them off. Servants at the estate of Otto W. Lehmann said that a few minutes after the men were rescued the plane sank in about 20 feet of water.

One of the flyers suffered a cut arm but none appeared to have suffered serious injuries.

Ensign N. G. Meisel, pilot of a naval training plane from Glenview naval air station, and an enlisted man were uninjured last night in a forced landing at Foster avenue and Lake Michigan. The plane was not damaged.

HEALTH QUIZ

	YES	NO
Do you have headaches?	☐	☐
Do you lack pep or vigor?	☐	☐
Do you get irritable easily?	☐	☐
Do you feel depressed—nervous?	☐	☐

Do you feel headachy—depressed—irritable—tired—due to a sluggish, constipated condition? Do you want faster and more effective all-around relief than you can get from an ordinary simple laxative alone? Then, as medical science proves, you should do two things:

1. Get liver bile flowing freely.
2. Clear out the intestinal tract.

To do both, take double-acting Carter's Little Liver Pills tonight. The first thing Carter's usually do while you're comfortably asleep is to increase the flow of liver bile—a vital digestive juice. This helps to digest your food properly. This first Carter action alone may make you feel much better when you wake up!

Then, Carter's second action helps relieve the sluggish condition that may easily be at the bottom of all your headachy, depressed, tired feeling.

Carter's double action is due to their special formula. Thousands know how well they work. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today—only 25¢ at any druggist's. Take as directed. You'll be glad you did.

Old Wrapping Paper Helps Load Invasion Barges

Your old wrapping paper, boxes, bags, and all forms of waste paper are being converted into Victory containers, carrying medical and food supplies to our distant fighting fronts. Due to the shortage of wood pulp, waste paper is now used as a substitute in the manufacture of essential war equipment. All patriotic citizens are urged to save every scrap of waste paper and waste basket accumulations, especially brown papers and containers. Flatten out boxes, stack newspapers, magazines, and loose waste basket paper into neat bundles. To sell your salvage, or give it to charitable or other organizations, call a collector at STAte 8787.

A POST-WAR RING OF STEEL AROUND U. S. IS PROPOSED

5 Ocean Navy and Island Bases Urged.

New York, Aug. 25 [Special].—An impregnable post-war system of national defenses, including a five ocean navy and the acquisition and fortification of such areas as might become spearheads for the invasion of the Americas, was proposed today by Clarence Budington Kelland, author and Republican national committeeman from Arizona.

Clarence Budington Kelland.

Speaking before the law committee of the New York county Republican committee at the National Republican club, Kelland called for permanent occupation of such Pacific islands as may be needed to transform the Pacific ocean into an American lake, and for our possession of Casablanca, Dakar, and the islands of the Caribbean now in the possession of our allies. He also demanded permanent air and naval bases in Iceland, Greenland, and Bermuda.

A "Circle of Gibraltars."

These plans to "ring the land with a mighty circle of Gibraltars" were grouped by Kelland in what he called a "fifth zone of safety" after proposing four other safety zones embodying post-war coöperation with other nations to maintain peace.

Emphasizing that "we will collaborate, but we will not amalgamate," Kelland said that his program for establishment of five zones of safety will be presented at the Sept. 6 and 7 meeting of the Republican post-war advisory council at Mackinac Island, Mich. He asserted the strong defenses envisioned in his fifth zone are necessary because the collaboration program outlined in the first four zones may fail, "leaving the United States alone to face a hostile world."

"Come war or peace, come upheaval or revolution, come whirlwind or convulsion, come hell or high water, the United States must and shall be made impregnable," he said, adding that we will not become a part of a Utopian superstate, a partner in Union Now, or a tail wagging at the end of any dog.

Trusteeship Proposed.

For his first zone of safety, Kelland proposed a trusteeship composed of the United States, Great Britain, Russia, and China to "administer the territories and people and economy of our enemies, the bankrupt nations of the earth, and of other nations who shall find themselves in similar plight by reason of the war."

Other points in his program were:

Second zone of safety: A concord among the victor nations "for offensive or defensive joint action directed against any nation threatening to breach the peace."

Third zone: A permanent defensive alliance between the United States and Great Britain openly declaring to the world that the two nations will act as one in case of attack upon either by any nation or combination of nations.

Fourth zone: An entente among the nations of North America and South America, both military and economic, expressing a policy of American solidarity against any non-American nation threatening the territorial rights of any American nation.

REP. FISH URGES G.O.P. TO DRAFT GEN. M'ARTHUR

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 25 (AP).—Rep. Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.] tonight urged the Republican party to draft Gen. MacArthur as its candidate for President in a "win-the-war" platform with a one term plank.

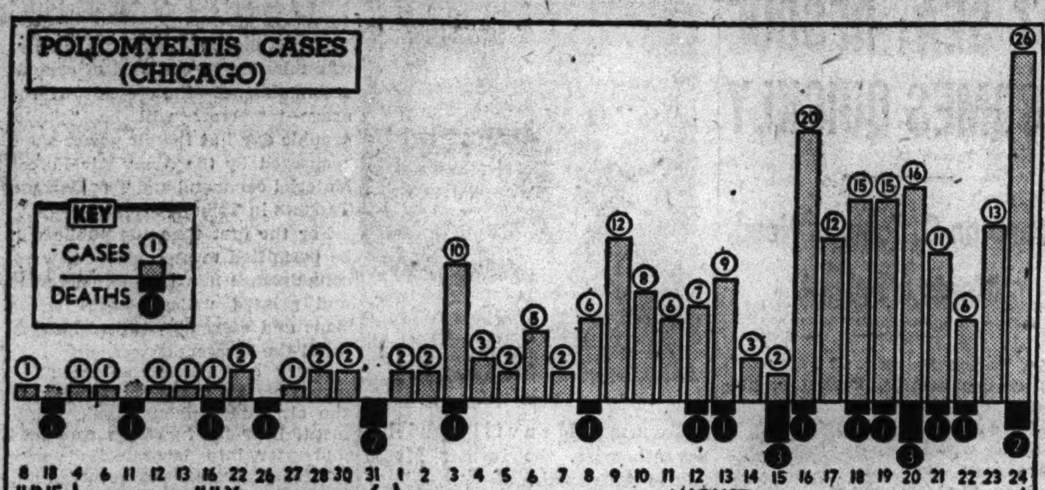
Fish, who represents President Roosevelt's home district, declared at a reorganization meeting of the Orange county Republican committee:

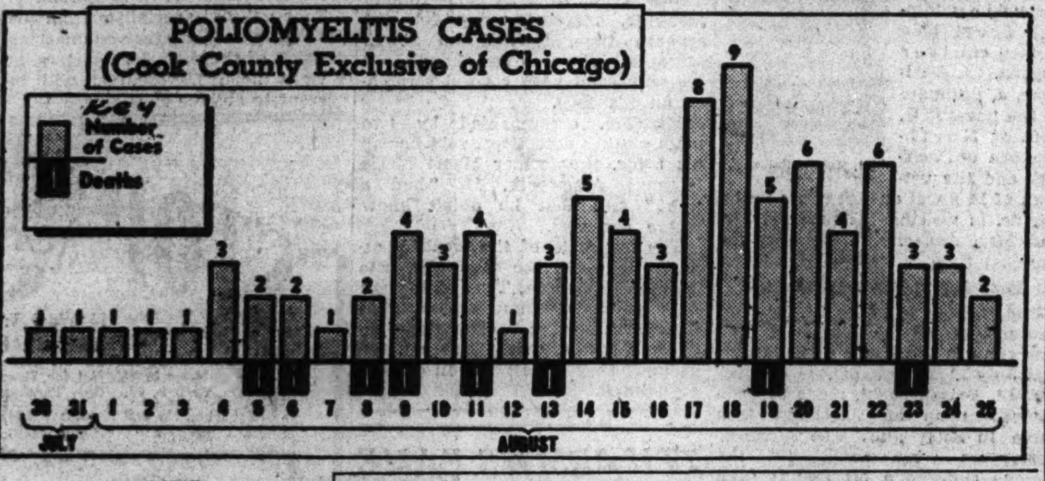
"I am in favor of drafting Gen. MacArthur as the Republican candidate for President and commander in chief of our armed forces on a win-the-war platform and on a one term plank as opposed to a fourth term and to military dictatorship."

Fish declared he had spoken to "leading Republicans and Democrats thruout the nation and they are practically unanimous that Gen. MacArthur would sweep all sections of the county.

"It would not even be necessary for him to return [from his Southwest Pacific command] to take part in the campaign," Fish asserted.

Infantile Paralysis Cases and Deaths in City and County





POLIOMYELITIS DECLINE LIKELY AROUND SEPT. 11

More Cases Listed in City and County.

Chicago's outbreak of poliomyelitis is "the worst in the city's history" but should start to decline by Sept. 11, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, said yesterday. Official figures listed 26 new cases in the city, bringing the total since July 1 to 226. There were two new deaths, increasing the total fatalities to 23.

In Cook county outside Chicago, Dr. Edward A. Piszczek, county health director, reported two new cases in Berwyn. These increased the county total to 88 cases. There have been eight deaths.

The trend of the epidemic is variable, Dr. Bundesen said, in forecasting that the peak would not be reached until early September. "In 1917 the disease did not advance until Sept. 4 and the peak was Oct. 4," he said. In the 1937 outbreak, the advance was from Aug. 14 to Sept. 11. He added that there were 59 cases reported on Oct. 16 of that year.

Won't End Abruptly.

Dr. Bundesen and Dr. Piszczek warned that the disease does not end abruptly with early frosts.

A board of health bulletin defining the work of Dr. Joseph L. Melnick, Yale university virologist, said that Dr. Melnick had examined waters of Lake Michigan and "feels that there is little chance of the virus being found in the waters."

The statement said both Dr. Melnick and Dr. Bundesen are "testing the efficacy of the Chicago sewage disposal systems insofar as their capacity for the removal of poliomyelitis virus from sewage is concerned."

A study of the origins of the disease is under way thru the coöperation of boys recently quarantined in the Glenwood Manual Training school, Dr. Piszczek said. Four cases developed at the school.

Take Specimens from Boys.

"We are taking specimens from 25 boys," said Dr. Piszczek, "and if any of these exposed boys develops the disease we will have the first finding of how long the virus works in the body before striking."

Whereas bacteriologists have blamed the housefly as an important carrier of poliomyelitis, Dr. Charles T. Brues of the biological laboratories of Harvard university, contended, in an article published in February, 1942, that the case against the fly had not been proved. Dr. Brues' article appeared in the Feb. 13, 1942, issue of Science, publication of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Dr. Brues' article was a reply to a report by Dr. A. N. Sabin and Dr. Robert Ward of tests made in Cleveland, O., that traced the polio virus to flies. Dr. Brues agreed that it is highly probably that insects carry poliomyelitis, but said that Sabin and Ward had not proved the species. He then presented evidence which, he said, put "strong suspicion" upon rodents, especially cotton rats, and their attendant fleas as carriers of the disease.

Funds for Rehabilitation.

At the headquarters of the Cook county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc., it was said that most funds allotted here are for rehabilitation work.

Chicago and Cook county workers last year raised $260,000. The chapter announced that half the funds would be devoted to work against the disease here.

Investigators for the Illinois department of public health are compiling detailed information about all paralysis victims. The questionnaires list sources of water, milk, whether dairy products are produced on the premises where persons are ill, and a history of medical symptoms and reactions.

TAFT TOSSES BRICKER'S HAT IN G. O. P. RING

Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio is "definitely" a candidate for the Republican nomination for President, and is now planning his campaign with G. O. P. leaders during a vacation in the Black Hills, Sen. Robert P. Taft [R., O.] said here yesterday.

Sen. Taft also disclosed his own intention of seeking reëlection next year, and said he planned to start stumping his own state next week with a series of eight speeches. He said he had no Presidential aspirations of his own and that he believed Bricker was rapidly growing stronger with party leaders as well as the rank and file.

"Gov. Bricker's campaign is shaping up nicely," he said at a press conference in the Drake hotel at the annual convention of the American Bar association, which he is scheduled to address this morning.

Sen. Taft said he believed there would be so little difference between Democratic and Republican foreign issues that the 1944 election would be fought out on domestic policy questions, "unless [Vice President] Henry Wallace's theory of a planned economy for the world—a global New Deal—protrudes itself into the domestic scene."

"The domestic issues are quite clear," he said. "It is simply a case of whether we are to have a government by congress or by New Deal bureaus."

MAN FOUND ON STREET DIES.

A man identified thru papers as Frank Sherman, 50 years old, of 423 South Halsted street, died in County hospital yesterday after being found unconscious in front of 815 Maxwell street Tuesday night.

ASSERTS JAPS FREED BY WRA ARE ALL LOYAL

Dies Group Member in Minority Report.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25 (AP).—Asserting that there had been no report of subversive activity growing out of the release of 16,000 Japanese-Americans from custody, Rep. Herman P. Eberharter [D., Pa.] called today for an end to what he described as "unfair criticism" of the war relocation authority.

Eberharter made a minority report dissenting from the majority findings of a three man Dies subcommittee on un-American activities which investigated Japanese relocation centers.

He said he agreed with Chairman John M. Costello [D., Cal.] and Karl E. Mundt [R., S. D.] in their recommendation for immediate segregation of disloyal Japanese from the loyal in the relocation centers, but saw no need of the special board from government intelligence agencies which the majority suggested should pass on applications for release.

"It is worthy to note," Eberharter said, "that of all the evacuees who have been released on both seasonal and indefinite leave by the WRA, numbering more than 16,000, no report of disloyalty or subversive activity has been made to the authority or to this subcommittee."

The majority report, released earlier this week, charged that the WRA had freed 23 young members of the Botoku-Kai, which Costello and Mundt called a subversive branch of the Japanese Black Dragon society.

Reporting food costs in the relocation centers averaged 40 cents a day per person, Eberharter said the evidence "completely rebutted" charges that the Japanese were eating better than the average American.

NEW DEAL STUNG BY FARLEY COUP IN N. Y. ELECTION

Haskell Nomination Laid to Walker Error.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—New Dealers today were smarting under a stinging defeat suffered in the curtain raiser of a bitter political battle for the post of lieutenant governor of New York, which is expected to be a weathervane on fourth term sentiment in the Empire state.

Lt. Gen. Haskell.

Lithgow Osborn, executive officer of the office of foreign relief and rehabilitation, which is headed by former Gov. Herbert Lehman of New York, lost the Democratic nomination practically without contest to Lt. Gen. William N. Haskell, distinguished retired army officer. Osborne was the New Deal choice, while Haskell is suspected of being the protege of James A. Farley, President maker, who broke with Mr. Roosevelt on the third term and has no intention of making up on the fourth term.

Walker Is Blamed.

New Dealers place the blame for the defeat on the shoulders of Frank Walker, postmaster general and chairman of the Democratic national committee, whose secret activity in behalf of Osborne aroused the anger of the state Democratic organization and led to the nomination of Haskell by acclamation.

Walker crept into New York City last week-end and arranged a meeting with leaders, including Edward J. [Paving Blocks] Flynn, Bronx leader and former chairman of the national committee; Frank Kelly, Brooklyn leader, and Michael J. Kennedy, Tammany leader, to discuss the Osborne candidacy.

Slighted Farley.

Walker did not invite Farley, who is the state Democratic chairman, to the meeting. The slight to Farley and other Democratic leaders, according to observers returned from New York, killed Osborne's chances and led to the nomination of Haskell. As a New Deal face saving gesture, Flynn reported that he had talked to President Roosevelt at Quebec and that the latter had approved Haskell.

Even if the President had not supported Haskell, the general would have been nominated, observers said. The President was forced to put his approval on the party choice or face a disastrous interparty fight such as that which brought him the greatest political defeat of his career a year ago.

At that time, Farley obtained the Democratic gubernatorial nomination of John Bennett, former New York attorney general, over the President's choice, Sen. James Mead. Bennett's defeat in the election and the victory of the Republican candidate, Thomas E. Dewey, was not considered a defeat for Farley, but for the President because he had weakened the party by his insistence on Mead.

FINED AS DISORDERLY.

John Harrison, 38 years old, Negro, who was released a week ago after serving five years in the Joliet penitentiary for rape, was fined $100 and costs yesterday by Judge John J. Griffin on a disorderly conduct charge.

THE QUESTION.

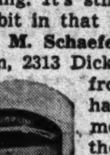
Which exhibit in the museum draws the most people?

WHERE ASKED.

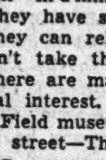
Field Museum and Museum of Science and Industry.

THE ANSWERS.

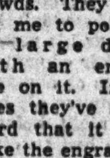
Nicholas Opitz, Field museum, 6925 Lowe avenue—The three panda bears that we have in the zoology hall still attract large crowds. When we first brought Mei-mei here the crowds were so great that we had to rope off a trail for the visitors and keep them moving. It's still the most popular exhibit in that hall.



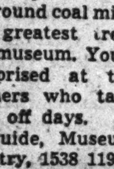
C. M. Schaefer, guide, Field museum, 2313 Dickens avenue—People from great distances have come in, handed me the tickets, and then have asked me to direct them to the Egyptian mummies. After they have seen them they can relax. It doesn't take them long to learn that there are many other things of equal interest.



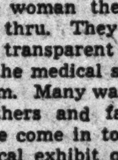
John Olsen, guide, Field museum, 6508 South Mozart street—There are many glittering attractions in the gem room that draw the crowds. They always ask me to point out the large diamond with an engraved face on it. In most cases they've already heard that it took five years to make the engraving.



Francis Lewis, mine engineer, Museum of Science and Industry, 6136 Woodlawn avenue—From 1,000 to 1,500 people a day convince me that the 30 minute trip thru the underground coal mine is the greatest treat in the museum. You'd be surprised at the number of coal miners who take trips thru it on their off days.



Mildred Palcich, guide, Museum of Science and Industry, 1538 119th street, Whiting, Ind.—Many visitors come in here and ask to see the woman they can see thru. They mean the transparent figure in the medical science room. Many war time mothers and fathers-to-be come in to study the embryological exhibit on the second floor.



Dorothy Bebb, guide, Museum of Science and Industry, 1652 West 102d street—Mothers and wives have a hard time to make their sons and husbands leave the exhibit of the miniature Santa Fe railroad system. They stand for hours to watch the small electric trains.

M'KEOUGH PLANS TO QUIT OPA FOR CAMPAIGN WORK

Raymond S. McKeough said yesterday that he will resign as regional administrator of the office of price administration in order to take an active part in the 1944 political campaign. The Democratic nominee for United States senator in 1942, McKeough said the Hatch act will make it necessary for him to step out of the OPA.

McKeough said he did not know whether he would be a candidate. Aside from the fact that tradition awards next year's senate vacancy to a downstater, some Democratic leaders were disappointed in his 1942 campaign and are not likely to welcome him as ticket leader.

The OPA administrator praised Benjamin S. Adamowski, who was McKeough's teammate as nominee for congressman at large. Adamowski has no wish to run for this office again and says he has no intention of seeking any other elective job next year. Some Democrats are telling Adamowski that he should run for state's attorney if the incumbent, Thomas J. Courtney, does not want a fourth term.

STATE LEADERS OF DEMOCRATIC YOUTHS GATHER

With their ranks reduced by the war, the Young Democratic Clubs of America yesterday opened a meeting of state leaders in lieu of a sixth biennial national convention. Most of the 100 delegates appeared to be beyond draft age. They included many holders of Democratic jobs in state and local governments.

Resolutions on a variety of subjects will feature a business session in the Morrison hotel today.

FLORSHEIM SHOES

Designed and Built

FOR LONGER RATIONED WEAR

The VIKING $12.50

The VIKING $13

The ECLIPSE $10.50

Here's why

FLORSHEIM SHOES GIVE YOU LONGER RATIONED WEAR

Stout "Stormy Leather" Uppers

Longer Wearing Florsheim "Flexcel" Soles
"Flexcel" Soles are the Florsheim answer to wartime sole-leather conservation. Not an inferior substitute . . . Not "just as good" . . . but actually the most flexible, longest-lasting sole you ever wore.

51 Years of Quality Shoemaking Experience
Today every skilled Florsheim worker has a weather eye on quality. Every man is a fault-finder in his own right—for Florsheim, to a man believes that:

—the Best Post-War Plan We Know for Tomorrow Is to Make Today's Florsheim Shoes Last Longer

Your Ration Book tells you how many . . .
Florsheim Quality tells you what kind

Today's wartime living has given new meaning to value—a new measure to economy. Ration points rival dollars . . . performance has priority over price. In shoes, it's the mileage you get, as well as the money you save, that determines your choice . . . and that's why more and more men are insisting that the one pair of shoes they may buy be the finest pair they can own—FLORSHEIM SHOES.

To the makers of Florsheim Shoes, rationing is a challenge—a chance to prove that finer shoes can still be made! Today's Florsheims don't live a "stamp-to-stamp" existence; they're designed and built to last—to give you more for your money, more for your stamp 18. So, if you must buy shoes buy better shoes . . . buy Florsheims—and give your next shoe ration stamp to your family, for you won't need it. Most Styles $10.50 and $11

"Luck of the Devil"

By Elizabeth York Miller

SYNOPSIS: After the siege of Dunkirk, Ronnie Banks rifles the person of a lifeless figure. On his arrival in London he evades his comrades, examines the stolen note cases, finds money, a card with an intriguing address, and letters, and immediately takes possession of Alan Conyers' flat and identity. He engages in a romance with a wealthy Argentine widow, Maria de Santos, who lives next door. On a visit to his mother, who adores him, he learns of the death of his son. Maria suggests an early marriage and life in Argentina. The military police are searching for the deserter. Ronnie's wife, Goldie, goes to see his mother and realizes Ronnie has been to see her. June Merrill, Alan Conyers' English cousin, calls to make the acquaintance of her American cousin and invites him for a week-end. Ronnie is captivated by her. Maria surprises them and makes a jealous scene, which convinces Ronnie life with her would be too trying. Ronnie has an unexpected encounter with his lance corporal but proves he is Alan Conyers. He then withdraws Conyers' money from the bank and spends the week-end at Merrills', courting June. After loaning John Merrill 50 pounds, he claims a kiss from June, who resents his behavior. The real Alan Conyers appears at Priory cottage, his memory gone. The only clue to his identity is the name and address of John Merrill, who he hopes can help him. Mention of the real Alan's home town upsets the sick man.

INSTALMENT XVI.
MARIA'S PLANS.

Matters were strained that evening. John Merrill, the old chatterer, would talk of nothing but the man who had lost his memory, and Ronnie got no chance to be alone with June.

At last he significantly got in a few words to remind Cousin Jack that he mustn't lose his memory, too, and forget he had the wherewithal to meet that note he had backed for his ex-clerk.

But it was an unfortunate reminder, for immediately June laid aside her knitting and begged to be excused.

"Monday is always a busy day with me," she added, "and I like to make an early start. What time do you want your breakfast, Cousin Alan?"

There was a suggestion of "Here's your hat, what's your hurry?" in her question, and her father stared at her with surprise.

"Whatever suits you, suits me," said Ronnie, as affably as he could manage. "I must make an early start, too."

She was still in a huff with him, but he expected she would get over it. She'll have to, because of that 50 pounds he had lent her father. Even if he did leave Priory cottage early tomorrow she was going to see him back again quite soon.

Whereas before his fear of getting found out had proved groundless and everything had gone as smooth as butter, in some insidious way the situation had changed.

He traced it back to the afternoon at Mum's—only Thursday, that was—when somebody beat a tattoo on the door knocker and it had seemed to him wise to take an immediate departure over the back garden wall.

Had he known it was Goldie so impatiently demanding admittance, he would have been even more apprehensive than he was, for whatever disagreeable experiences he had suffered in the past could all be laid at Goldie's door. If Mum was his Good Angel, Goldie was certainly the other thing.

After the getaway over the wall had followed the pleasure of finding June Merrill ringing his bell, a pleasure and a joy so exquisite that even now the memory of that moment gave him a pang of sweet pain.

June was sweetly polite when they parted next morning, even suffering a kiss, it seemed, gladly.

"We mustn't lose sight of you, my boy," her father added, patting his shoulder affectionately.

Then with a stifled groan Ronnie steeled himself to what was before him.

Never of a realistic turn of mind, this was no easy task. He had always shirked facing facts, if they happened to be disagreeable. Only Mum knew and sympathized with him in this respect. As far as possible she had shielded and protected him from every evil thing that threatened him, but it was not possible for her to protect him from Maria de Santos, nor was it possible for her to stay the hand of time on his behalf or insure him against a certain man recovering a lost memory.

The thing to do, of course, was to face Maria and get it over.

To his surprise, she received him with a display of cheerful amiability that was vastly puzzling.

"So, you are back!" she exclaimed, embracing him warmly. "You are looking well, my Alan. And I have had no time, really, to miss you very much. You will be surprised when you hear all I have been doing while you were basking at the seaside."

Alan pricked up his ears. A huge wardrobe trunk gave him a clue to her intentions, and he regarded her with tender, regretful fondness.

"Maria, can it be possible that you're going to desert me?" he cried.

"And would it be so strange if I did?" she replied. "Do you deserve any less after your treatment of me?"

She waved a roguish forefinger at him.

"Women are all alike," he said with simulated bitterness. "O, well, my love, it was good while it lasted—something to remember all my life. I can tell you. One of these days I'll drop in at your ranch to pay you a little call—only, of course, I'll be certain to find a second husband on the premises, and that would be dashed awkward for you, Maria."

"Go h'on!" she cried. "Your little joke, eh, Alan?"

"I don't see where the joke comes in," he said plaintively.

She sobered down. "No—it is stupid to jest about serious things," she said. "Listen while I tell you, my Alan. It is all arranged for Thursday week — only you must come with me to the consulate and to the travel bureau, for they require your passport, my treasure."

"Eh—what's that?" Ronnie demanded.

"We will be married on Thursday week," Maria told him. "And what do you think? How fortunate I have been! Only imagine, we can get passage direct to Buenos Aires, and no need to bother with airplanes. That means I can take all my new clothes and the souvenirs of London I want to keep straight onto the boat with us. The only trouble—and it is nothing, really—we won't know the date of sailing or the steamship until almost at the last moment. This sickening war, again."

Instead of doing anything drastic, he murmured: "You sure can step on it, honey, once you get going."

"Step on it?" she asked.

"Move fast," he explained.

"O, yes! We are not so lazy, we Argentinos, as people think. We keep our wits, my treasure."

She wasn't even troubling, now, to make him think she hadn't done it on purpose to keep him tightly shackled to her. The woman must be a fool to imagine she could get away with a thing like that.

"I think, my Alan, you will play no more silly tricks on me with your pink and white English Miss," she said complacently. "And your week-end rest cures at the seaside. Ha!"

Showing her horns and her cloven hoofs now, was she?

"If that's what you think of me, I wonder you're so damn anxious to marry me," he shouted.

"Yes—but I am ver' funny in some ways," said Maria. Under her breath she said something in Spanish, that sounded like an insult. "Run away, now, I am busy. We will meet at dinner time."

SEN. REYNOLDS PREDICTS DELAY ON WHEELER BILL

Predicting that the senate would not get to work on consideration of the Wheeler bill to prohibit the drafting of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers until after Oct. 1, despite the fact that sessions will be resumed Sept. 14, Sen. Robert R. Reynolds [D., N. C.] said yesterday that he was opposed to the announced intention of selective service.

Sen. Reynolds stopped briefly in fairs committee, which he heads, probably would want to hear more on the subject of war man power from Paul McNutt, head of WMC, and Maj. Gen. Lewis Hershey, director of selective service.

Sen. Reynolds stopped briefly in Chicago on his way to Colorado and other western states to complete inspection of military installations started several weeks ago. He was accompanied by Mrs. Reynolds, the former Evelyn Walsh McLean of Washington.

"Two of the most important subjects which will become the concern of congress," said Sen Reynolds are food and man power. The European nations have been led to believe that the United States is the bread basket of the world and when those peoples are released they are going to expect us to feed them just as the people of Sicily and North Africa are being fed by the allies.

300 TONS ATTEND REUNION TODAY; 100 NOW AT WAR

Three hundred Tons, some long and some short, some underweight and some overweight, will gather today for their 47th annual reunion in Dolton park, Dolton. Absent from their midst will be 100 members of the family who are in the army, the navy, the marines, and the coast guard.

According to Mrs. Nellie Ton Jansen, the youngest daughter of old Jan Ton, the pioneer of the family in America and historian of the Ton Family association for 30 years, awards will be given to the youngest and the oldest members present and to the person from the farthest distance. A war bond will be given to the most recently married couple. Mrs. George Eenigenburgh of Lansing, Mich., 90 years old, is expected to win the prize for the oldest member.

The Tons, the nation's largest incorporated family, number some 1,500 members. They meet annually, on Queen Wilhemina's birthday, in Illinois and in California, where a large branch of the family is located.

JAP SUBMARINE SHOWN IN LOOP DRAWS THRONGS

A two-man Jap suicide submarine, whose American-made motors and batteries drove it from a mother ship to its death on a reef outside Pearl Harbor, drew thousands of spectators during a one day exhibition at Madison and State streets yesterday.

The submarine, one of America's greatest war trophies, has been inspected by more than a million persons since it went on tour in Illinois Aug. 12, said Donald D. McKiernan, special events chairman for the Illinois war finance committee. He estimated that 40,000 would peer into the submarine during its Chicago visit. Children bought 25 cent war stamps and adults $1 stamps to look into the craft. The submarine, carried on a specially made truck trailer, will tour the north shore towns today and then enter Wisconsin.

In Illinois, the submarine has been on display in 66 cities. War stamp and bond sales on the Illinois tour total more than 24 million dollars.

DADS MUST GO, M'NUTT INSISTS, DEFENDING EDICT

Hints Man Power Law May Be Necessary.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—Man Power Commissioner Paul V. McNutt took to the air tonight to defend the Oct. 1 draft of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers and hinted broadly that drastic national service legislation may become necessary to offset serious labor shortages in war industries.

"We can no longer exclusively rely on the voluntary coöperation of worker and management to solve the problem of labor turnover," he declared in a radio speech. "The American people, acting thru their war time government, must begin now to exercise a more positive control."

McNutt said this is the reason for the recent promulgation of employment standards by the management-labor committee of the war man power commission outlawing job transfers which do not aid the war program. According to present schedules, he added, these standards will be in effect everywhere in the country by Oct. 15 thru local stabilization plans.

Bills Now Pending.

National labor draft legislation, which would remove the last vestiges of voluntary participation in the war program by the nation's workers, is already pending in congress but has never reached the floor of either house. The measures were introduced by Sen. Warren R. Austin [R., Vt.] and Rep. James W. Wadsworth [R., N. Y.], both outspoken champions of New Deal war policies. Wadsworth was co-author of the original military conscription law.

Under the legislation, all Americans would become subject to conscription for work in war plants at the direction of administration bureaucrats, a situation comparable to that existing in any of the enemy dictator nations.

McNutt's speech was the first direct reply by the administration to the storm of criticism which was aroused by announcement of the fathers' draft. He asserted bluntly that sooner or later "by the very arithmetic of our man power problem" the taking of fathers for military service was inevitable.

All Single Men First.

"There is no other way, if we are to achieve the size of the armed forces ordered by the commander in chief, and for which funds have been authorized by the congress of the United States," he said. "In spite of this, no father should be drafted until all single men are gone."

The mention of funds voted for the fighting services was seen as a dig at congress where there is vigorous objection to the drafting of fathers. It was a reminder to the legislators that they have already provided the money to support an army and navy of the size demanded by the administration and which must include fathers to reach the present goal.

Many members of the House and Senate have promised to press for action to forestall the taking of fathers when they reconvene after their summer recess on Sept. 14.

446,000 Due for Call.

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, has announced that 446,000 fathers can expect to be called to the colors by the end of the year. In his speech, McNutt said that the total man power needs for the next 12 months beginning July 1 are 3,600,000 more men and women for industry and the army and navy, including 907,000 men for the fighting services between Oct. 1 and Dec. 31 of this year.

McNutt warned that there are now 55 labor shortage areas in the United States, including both skilled and unskilled workers. As a result, he asserted, plane plants, shipyards, and munitions factories are falling behind their schedules.

He urged persons not employed to seek war jobs and he declared that fathers possessing critical skills but not using them at present should seek work in the war program or a supporting civilian activity. Those who do not by Oct. 1 will lose their right of draft deferments, McNutt added.

"No man is a slacker simply because he is not in uniform," McNutt asserted. "The only slackers are men—and women, too—who could get jobs to serve the war effort and do not even try to get them."

PURSE SNATCHERS FOILED.

Miss La Vern Benson, 17 years old, 1773 Ainslie street, screamed when two youthful purse snatchers grabbed her handbag at Lawrence and Ashland avenues early yesterday. The pair dropped the bag when pursued by a passerby and escaped between two buildings.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

B. K. T. writes: "Some time ago I applied for a commission in the navy and didn't have just the qualifications required for a commission as a specialist, but I was told if it were not for my eyes being a little under the minimum I could qualify for general sea duty."

ANSWER: It appears you are in luck, for the navy recently altered some of the requirements for general sea duty officers. The maximum age limit has been increased from 30 to 35 and the minimum uncorrected vision has been lowered from 18/20 in each eye to 15/20 [somewhere between 20/25 and 20/30 Snellen]. If men are generally well qualified in other respects, it is doubtful whether the navy will reject an applicant again as long as the physical difficulty is not too much at variance. At any rate, it will do no harm to try again. Men under 35 who have had considerable experience handling men are badly needed by the navy for general service officers.

C. A. G. asks: "Can you tell me the origin and significance of the diamond shaped insignia of the finance corps?"

ANSWER: We have directed inquiries to the army war college library and to the heraldic division of the quartermaster corps, and so far combined efforts have failed to uncover the significance. The device was adopted officially by the pay corps in 1896 and the pay corps was absorbed by the quartermaster corps in 1910. The new finance corps was established in 1920, and in that year the diamond was reëstablished as the official insignia.

J. B. L. writes: "I am employed in the construction field. I can operate power cranes, shovels, bulldozers, and most other pieces of heavy equipment used in construction work. Can you give me an idea of how I'd rate in the Seabees?"

ANSWER: It would be better if you conferred with the Seabee recruiting office at 321 South Plymouth court, but the chances are that the least you would receive would be machinist's mate first class, with base pay of $114 and 20 per cent for overseas service, plus certain other allowances. More than likely you will receive a chief petty officer's rating at $138 plus 20 per cent and allowances.

M. W. H. asks: "I have a dependent mother for whom I maintain a home and I've recently been promoted to staff sergeant. Can I get a rental allowance for mother or is this allowance only for a wife?"

ANSWER: Ask your finance officer for form 618. Fill it out and have it sent to the adjutant general's office. Your mother will receive form 619 and when it is returned and approved she will receive $37.50 monthly.

Navy Officer of Urbana Awarded Legion of Merit

For meritorious service against the Japanese in the Solomon Islands, Lt. Comdr. Gerald L. Huff of Urbana, Ill., has been awarded the Legion of Merit, it was announced yesterday by the 9th naval district office. Comdr. Huff won the medal for outstanding service as tactical officer and assistant operations officer on the staff of a task force in the Solomons from Dec. 12, 1942, until March 31, 1943.

R. H. Moore, Bloomington, Is Victim of Plane Crash

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 25 (AP).—A flyer killed yesterday when his plane crashed into the ocean five miles offshore was identified by the navy today as Richard Harold Moore, aviation radioman third class, of Bloomington, Ill. The body has not been recovered.

SEVER RED TAPE; MAIL PACKAGES FOR BATAAN MEN

Tribune Clears Way for Prisoner Relief.

The Bataan Relief Organization of Illinois and the Maywood Bataan clan were notified by THE TRIBUNE yesterday that all packages for prisoners of war held by Japan, which lack official mailing licenses, should be sent to New York immediately for passage by the New York postmaster. They should be addressed to the boys "Via New York."

The Washington bureau of THE TRIBUNE appealed to Col. H. F. Breese, chief of the prisoner of war information bureau in the provost marshal's office, when it appeared that government bungling was to deny these war prisoners packages from home. The deadline for mailing is tomorrow.

Packages Previously Refused.

The news was received enthusiastically by Mrs. Lucy Palermo, president of the relief organization, and others in the group. Many of them had their packages ready to be mailed, and were holding them only for the necessary label. The postoffice previously had declined to accept packages lacking this mailing license, on the ground that regulations prohibited it.

"We can't begin to say how relieved we all are," she said from the organization's headquarters in room 1200 at 123 West Madison street.

Many Without Labels.

"I know of at least 30 mothers here who hadn't received labels. Like myself, they will be thrilled to hear what THE TRIBUNE has accomplished in our behalf."

Lt. John Peterson of the Maywood police department, who heads the Maywood Bataan clan, expressed the appreciation of Maywood for the change in regulations. "I am indeed glad," he said, "that government bungling wasn't permitted to deprive Maywood's boys of packages from here."

Meanwhile, there was new word from the men who are held by Japan. Grant Jordan, 1610 Sheridan road, North Chicago, a war plant foreman, said that he heard several shortwave broadcasts from Japan in which three Illinois soldiers spoke. They were: Capt. Frank John Grady of Maywood, John Paxton, 1423 North Central avenue, and Ralph L. Hill, Lawrenceville, Ill.

LT. DEVEREAUX, FORMER FBI AID HERE, IS MISSING

Lt. [j. g.] William S. Devereaux, who headed the Chicago office of the federal bureau of investigation from September, 1936, to August, 1941, was reported yesterday by the navy as missing after a plane crash on Aug. 5, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Devereaux of Omaha, Neb., have been informed, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Lt. W. S. Devereaux.

When Devereaux resigned from the Chicago office of the FBI he said he intended to "take a long rest." He enlisted in the navy in March, 1942, several months later. He is 31 years old.

Devereaux became one of the youngest members of the FBI when, at the age of 23 and just out of the University of Nebraska law school, he was given an appointment in 1935. He became head of the FBI office in Miami, Fla., and also served in New York, Newark, N. J., Cleveland, O., and Richmond, Va., before being made head of the Chicago office.

THE POST-WAR BOOM.

When peace comes, 8½ million men from the armed forces will be demobilized, and 6 million industrial workers will be discharged by industry. These are the estimates of the United States department of labor.

On the face of it there will be close to 15 million men out of work—that is, there would be if new demands for labor are not created by the ending of the war. But converting soldiers into civilians will make many jobs. First of all there will be a big market for the apparel manufacturing and distributing industries. Every boy is coming back with money in his pocket to buy at least a Sunday suit, an every day suit, an overcoat and two pairs of shoes. The textile mills, clothing factories, and retail stores have no conversion problem.

There will be, as there has been after every war, a large increase in the number of marriages, in contemplation of which men in service generally are saving money to buy furniture.

Every family will want a new automobile, which means that 20 million can be sold as rapidly as they can be made, which means four years of good business in one of the most volatile of our industries. A similar pent-up demand for washing machines, electric refrigerators, ironers, water heaters, lawn mowers, and other consumer durable goods will make itself felt.

A shortage of housing facilities now exists which is not being relieved by any construction now being done or in immediate contemplation. On top of the normal demand for dwellings there will be the demand created by the vast number of war deferred marriages. A whopping boom in residential building is certain to come after the war.

The domestic demand for consumers' goods—food, gasoline, beer, candy, reading matter, and all the other things now restricted—will come back to normal. All of the rest of the world expects to be freed from want with American provisions, and something will be done along this line. It is only the amount to be furnished and the duration of our generosity that is in dispute.

The wherewithal will be abundant. All the people of the country taken together had 7 billions in cash when the war began in 1939.

The amount of cash has just passed 18 billions and is rising at the rate of 5 billions a year. By the end of 1944 there will be over 25 billions, or 18 billions more than when the war started.

In the middle of the year there was outstanding 21 billion dollars in war savings bonds, convertible into cash, and purchased by many people with the expectation of turning them in as soon as the war was over and peace time goods again were available. This amount has increased 11 billions in a year and by the end of next year will approximate 40 billion dollars.

And there is more. The bond drives, such as the one that is to begin shortly, are concentrating now upon the sale of bonds to individuals. Private investors at the end of May owned more than 20 billion dollars of United States government securities aside from war savings bonds. That amount will be surely increased to 40 billions if the war lasts to the end of 1944. After the last war, private investors scrambled to unload their bonds to buy things denied them during the war. The same thing is to be expected after this war.

Railroad equipment is in greater need of replacement than ever before, and the railroads by reason of the reduction of debt during the war will be in good shape to borrow the necessary funds. Industrial concerns and public utilities likewise are wearing out equipment and will seek to buy replacements as soon as the restrictions on buying are lifted. That corporations have huge cash balances to their credit at the banks was recently revealed in a study by the federal reserve board. Depreciation reserves are an important factor in the rise in business balances at the banks, which is proceeding at the rate of 10 billion dollars a year.

Surely in the face of all this dammed-up spending power no one can seriously contend that when the war ends there will be a serious depression, unless the government makes the mistake of spending vast amounts for transcontinental highways, hydro-electric projects, and other make-work activities. Nothing more ill-considered can be imagined than for the government to embark upon more public works programs when a business boom is about to get under way. And yet that seems to be exactly what Mr. Roosevelt and his planners have in mind.

Rather than accentuate the inevitable post-war boom, the government ought to be seeking ways to hold it in check. One of the most obvious steps is to make more goods available now. Wilfred Sykes, president of the Inland Steel corporation and chairman of the post-war committee of the National Association of Manufacturers, said it well the other day, when he declared, "The way to mitigate inflation if you have turned loose too much money is to make as much goods as you can as soon as possible."

Right now would be a good time to make a beginning along that line. Last month Undersecretary of War Patterson in announcing the closing down of eight of the largest and newest munitions plants said that he hoped there would not be too much criticism because of the unemployment caused in the affected communities. One way to avoid the criticism would be to put the released workers to work at once making more plentiful the things for which money can be spent.

MR. RHODES' AGENTS.

Cecil Rhodes was a great Englishman, and like all great Englishmen completely devoted to his own nation. He made the extension of the British dominion in South Africa his life work. He believed without reservation in the British empire as a power for good in the world and in his remarkable will made provision for the use of his fortune to extend that influence. The Rhodes scholarships have been a tremendous asset to the British empire. Their value to the nations on whose people they have been bestowed has been dubious, a result with which Mr. Rhodes was naturally unconcerned.

Rep. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas is the author of the slick termed resolution seeking to pledge congress in advance to a world super-government. He is a Rhodes scholar. Rep. Robert Hale of Maine is touring the country, making speeches on behalf of the similar Ball-Burton-Hatch resolution, pending in the senate. He is another Rhodes scholar. Such Rhodes scholars as Herbert Agar and Elmer Davis were in the forefront of the campaign to drag us into the war before Pearl Harbor.

No Rhodes scholar can escape the suspicion of being, consciously or unconsciously, an alien agent. All of them have been subsidized by foreign money. The fact that they boast of the subsidy they received rather than attempt to conceal it is not important. The scholarships were created to corrupt Americans and it is obvious that they have been successful in part—to what extent we do not know.

All of the Rhodes scholars in this country should declare themselves. If they still possess loyalty to the American Union, they should state the fact and make it apparent by their public acts. If their allegiance has been subverted, they should have the public decency to admit it and present themselves honestly as British agents and not as American citizens.

THE JAPANESE CULT OF INVINCIBILITY.

The fact that the Japanese eastward movement, in the invasion of the Aleutians and the attack on Midway, was strategically sound, at least in part, need not obscure another idea which would reveal a weakness in Japanese military mentality.

The Jap occupation of Kiska and Attu blocked the northern approach to Japan for a year. The Japanese can regard the expenditure of men and material as justified by the results, altho they have now been thrown out. There is reason to believe, however, that there was more in the minds of the Japanese commanders when they struck at Midway and Dutch Harbor and landed elsewhere in the Aleutians than a delaying action.

The admiral, now dead, who said he would dictate peace terms in the White House was thought to be talking thru his hat, but he may very well have meant it and have believed it possible. We are thought to have underestimated the magnitude of our task in this war and yet we know that our naval opinion for years has been that operations in Japanese waters would be extraordinarily difficult and hazardous, and the issue doubtful.

The Japanese seem to have had no such reservations in their ideas of what could be done in American waters, and seem actually to have believed they could land their finest divisions on the California coast. In fact, some of our own extremists years ago thought that we might be holding a front along the Rocky mountains if we didn't take better care of our defenses. Japanese generals and admirals have said that the United States was a nonmilitary nation and couldn't possibly prevail against a people with a thousand years of military tradition, with the warrior spirit and with armed forces supremely devoted to their cause and sacrificial to the last degree. They thought they were taking on a nation of softies who had no military conceptions, whose men would be merely armed civilians without martial ardor or warlike traditions.

Such a miscalculation is one which we could wish an enemy to form. A misjudgment of such a nature, trusting to invincibility on one side and inherited and cultivated incompetence on the other, will have consequences not to be desired by the combatant who thought too much of himself and too little of the other fellow.

The fact is the Japanese had always beaten the white man, on land and on sea, until they undertook to beat the Americans. They may have attributed their unbroken line of successes too much to their own superiority and too little to certain disadvantages under which their opponents fought. Nevertheless, their armies and their navy had proved invincible in these previous encounters with the whites, and they based their egotistic calculations upon them.

When they caught their American opponents unprepared and unready, their success continued. Now the tide has turned. They are meeting Americans trained and equipped for fighting them and they are getting beaten. They are suffering all the penalties of surprise, and we should not give them time to recover.

FATHER OF FIVE, 36, FACES DRAFT.

[Washington Times-Herald.]

Stuart Day, 36, a drug clerk and soda jerk on Nantucket Island, Mass., has five children, but has been ordered to report for draft examination Aug. 27 because he "has not changed to essential war work."

Dispensing medicine and food sounds like an essential occupation to us. That question aside, the government goes about things the wrong and timorous way when it tries to scare men into war industries by threats of drafting them if they don't move over. If we are so hard up for war plant man power, why not be honest and hardboiled about it and pass a law enabling the government to draft men into war plants just as it drafts them into the army?

Meanwhile, our best remaining reservoir of fighter material—the 17 year old group of some one and one-half to two million tiger cubs who could be made into top-flight warriors with a year's training in this country—is still by-passed while we prepare to draft several hundred thousand fathers.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 14.

1. The word "humus" should make one think primarily of a Bone. Cloud Soil Musical Instrument.
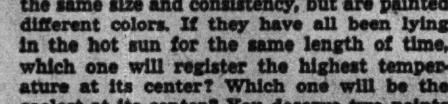
2. What is the mating of a welded joint called?
Puddle Seam Lock Contact.
3. When the Spaniards conquered Mexico, they found the native Indians using rubber for making Waterproof Shoes Balloons Slingshots Umbrellas
4. The idling speed of an automobile is approximately 200 r.p.m. 450 r.p.m. 850 r.p.m. 1,000 r.p.m.
5. Which one of the following berries is smallest when ripe?
Elderberry Blueberry Cranberry Dewberry.
6. The five iron balls depicted herewith are of the same size and consistency, but are painted different colors. If they have all been lying in the hot sun for the same length of time, which one will register the highest temperature at its center? Which one will be the coolest at its center? You deserve two points for answering the first question correctly and three points for doing the same with the latter question.



Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6 average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

WORDS AND THEIR USES.

The American language of the burocratic era is enjoying a dim-out in which it is possible for any bright young fellow to get along with only two verbs, "check" and "clear."

* * *

Any transaction involving the national government is no longer indorsed, sanctioned, permitted, O. K.'d, granted, approved, authorized, allowed, conceded, released, consented to, yielded, acquiesced in, agreed to, acceded to, assented to, complied with, accepted, tolerated, recognized, or vouchsafed. By no means; it is simply "cleared."

* * *

Nothing has to be investigated, watched, studied, looked into, compared, verified, followed up, confirmed, ascertained, made sure of, learned, discovered, inquired into, seen to, examined, scanned, scrutinized, inspected, taken care of, reconnoitered, or overhauled. No, indeed; your conscience will be easy if it is merely "checked."

* * *

O! say can you check by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we cleared at the twilight's last gleaming?

* * *

What is the difference between a church spire and a church steeple? After looking it up we tried the question on a pair of architects and they floundered. Well, a spire tapers steeply, is of a pyramidal form, generally octagonal or hexagonal, and rises from a tower or its equivalent. A steeple also rises from a church tower, diminishes by stories or setbacks, and is surmounted by a small cupola, spire, or pinnacle.

* * *

From this it would appear that steeples are in the minority. A large majority of American churches have spires, loosely called steeples. For a fine collection of steeples, all different, see Sir Christopher Wren's numerous parish churches in London.

GARDEN WEDDING.

The cherry boughs and poplars overlean
This sunken garden hidden from the street,
With spraying fountain lessening the heat
When sunbeams pierce the swaying boughs between.
Who made her happy parents' lives complete
Until the time that they had both foreseen.

White carpet all the garden now divides;
Two persons stand beneath illumined bells
As friendly people line the garden sides.
Then vows are said; her hand the ring receives;
The starlit garden echoes fond farewells.

The Duke Has Laundry Trouble.

Hon. Linemaster: I betcha I ketch 7 kinds of hell when tha Mama gets home from her trip. Tha way we settled my 2 weeks vacation was that her and tha kids wood take tha 1st week an when they get back I go. This plan was jake with me, cause it covers up a "multitude of dins." Well, I'm up to Wednesday an what I been thru I wood'n wish on Mussolini or Willkie either.

When I was a kid my mother yoosta get up at 5 in tha morning an have a weeks laundry on tha clothes line before noon. Yesterday tha laundry picker-upper bangs on tha back door an wants to know if tha wash is ready. I was tole to gather it for tha jerk but it slipped my mind, so I tole him to wait 5 minutes an he slips me a high-brow snooty à la "time and tide waits for no man, so why shood I?" an while we're lookin daggers at each other I tells him that if its all tha same to him in tha future I wood like my collars cleaned instead of sharpened.

To which he replys "nutz to you," and I tole him he's fired and that from here on in he's no longer high priest of tha Royal Bakrak linens. Then he tells me it aint me that's firing him, but that it's him firing me an that as far as I was concerned I was all washed up but that my laundry wood'n be; with that I slams the door in his puss [gosh, what a fool I was].

An hour later I starts poundin tha pavements lookin fer a good samaritan to relieve me of my bundle. Tha 1st laundry store says "no new customers"; didn' even add "sorry." In tha next dump a fresh punk asks me where have I been keeping myself tha last 10 years. The following jernt I pretty near had luck; he'd do tha work but it wood take 3 weeks. I tole him I wear 3 shirts a week, not 3 weeks a shirt.

Then I gets me a idea. I will dig up a Chinese joint, who wood appreciate gettin a new a/c. Before I makes my request I figger a little salve might help so I tells tha chink that there's an extra paper out saying 182 more Jap ships has been sunk an his answer is, "You live in neighbullhood?" and I tells him about a mile up tha street, an he says "Tly Cholly Sing Chin."

Cholly takes care of me but tells me it's gotta be wet wash. Now what tha hell am I gonna do when he hands me a sack of ½ wet junk. Woe is me.

TOMORROW'S MYSTERY.

We know not what will come tomorrow;
It may bring joy, it may bring sorrow,
It may bring love, it may bring hate,
Or yet the stings of cruel fate;
It may bring poverty or wealth,
Or illness, death, or robust health.
Yet we're relieved from bitter sorrow
To know not what will come tomorrow.

The Puff and Flick System.

Mebbe you'd like to know why fellows quit smoking cigarets and how they come to do it. All you gotta do is get a seat on top of the bus and watch a girl light one of the extra long contraptions. The following takes place:

Puff, flick, flick, puff, flick, flick, flick, puff, flick, flick, flick, puff, flick, flick, flick, puff, flick, flick, flick, puff, flick, puff, flick, flick, puff, flick, puff, flick, flick, puff, flick, flick, puff, flick, flick, puff, flick, flick, puff, flick, flick, puff, flick, flick, flick, puff, flick, flick, puff, flick, flick, puff, flick, flick, puff, flick, flick, puff, flick, flick, puff, flick, flick, puff—the last one. Score: 18 puffs, 38 flicks; average, 2.1111 flicks per puff.

If the English trade unions want to abolish the "old school tie," all they need to do is to adopt "old union ties" of the same patterns.

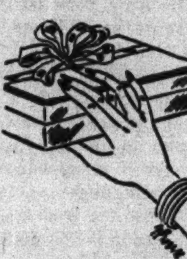
NAIL POLISH—ARE YOU ONE IN A MILLION?

THE present day custom of painting the nails came into vogue about 15 years ago. The first chemical employed was collodion. More recently a solution of cellulose nitrate has been substituted. Other products add flexibility and luster.



Similar lacquers are used widely in arts and in industry. Thus numerous articles such as jewelry, furniture, hair pins, pencils, glass beads, imitation leather, waterproof fabrics, etc., are protected with a thin coating.

Little fault can be found with the ingredients themselves. Tested singly and in combination, they are not toxic. But, as with many another substance, an idiosyncrasy may exist.

When this rare but striking susceptibility is observed, the eruptions are first noted about the eyelids. Later, the neck, cheeks, nose, shoulders, lips, and corners of the mouth may become involved. In other words, areas touched by the nails are affected. Common habits, such as fingering the features, adjusting the collar or the neckline of the dress, etc., are thought to be responsible. Sometimes a new pair of glasses, the bows of which are covered with this material, will explain blemishes around the ears. Hair pins likewise may bring irritation of the scalp.

According to one authority, this form of skin inflammation has been known to the Chinese for over 2,000 years. Orientals utilized the sap of a species of poison sumac and the oily fraction proved exceedingly troublesome. The cure was crabmeat but the author does not tell us whether the remedy was to be eaten or applied locally.

In one Pennsylvania hospital 16 cases of dermatitis were traced to nail polish. All recovered as soon as the cosmetic was omitted or a different brand adopted. Irritation was allayed with dressings soaked in witch hazel or thru gentle scrubbing with strong soap to remove the toxin. There seems to be a close relationship between this type of allergy and that which is caused by poison ivy and poison oak. In other words, any one extremely susceptible to ivy is more likely to respond.

On one occasion a woman used lacquer to stop a "run" in her stocking. Eczema developed over the site with characteristic itching, oozing, and scaling. Another patient exhibited eczemalike eruptions on the face, eyelids, chin, and neck. Subsequently, lesions appeared behind the ears and beneath the arms. Patch tests disclosed that she reacted to five different varieties of nail polish, some more strongly than others. Eliminating the chief offender was followed by prompt recession.

Only a relatively small number of the millions who are addicted to this beautifier will be disturbed. The point is, however, that if one is allergic, an innocent brand may be found which should not be changed without further testing. While in general these preparations cannot harm the nails, nevertheless, when they come into contact with a sensitive epidermis, trouble may occur.

FLATULENCE.

A. L. writes: Does the throbbing of nerves in the stomach cause a person to be always full of gas?

REPLY.

Nerves don't throb — they cry out with pain. You probably feel the beating of the abdominal aorta, which keeps time with the contractions of the heart. Poor circulation to the gastric pouch is one of the explanations of the presence of gas.

WEAKNESS AND DEGENERATION.

G. H. writes: How do myasthenia gravis and multiple sclerosis differ?

REPLY.

In the former, the messages sent by the nerves fail to reach the muscles. There is a break in the circuit. In the latter, degeneration has seized upon the spinal cord. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflets on these two diseases.

PAUNCHY.

M. V. writes: Many people, especially men, have bulging stomachs. Is this caused by too much eating and drinking?

REPLY.

Yes—quite too much—possibly both. In addition, lack of exercise and poor posture should be considered.

DIGESTIVE UPSET.

S. S. writes: What causes me to have a gnawing, hollow feeling in the stomach immediately after eating?

REPLY.

Travel Problem Note.

New York, Aug. 25.—Tappe, the exclusive dressmaker, was standing in line at the Grand Central station a few weeks ago waiting to buy a ticket when he looked at the clock, looked at the line, and decided he would miss his train. He gazed frantically around the station and finally spied a wheel chair in a far corner. He rushed for it, sat down, and propelled himself back toward the window.

The crowd at the window parted like magic. The ticket seller, solicitous and helpful, shooed other passengers out of the way and did a pretzel curve out the window to help him. He had handed over his money and was about to receive his change when out of the waiting line suddenly popped three of his customers.

"O, Mr. Tappe," they cried. "How did it happen?"

None would believe his deprecating little mutterings that it really was nothing, nothing at all, just a little fall, don't you know. The more questions they asked, the more he muttered, and the more involved he became. At last, with a frantic, supplicant glance at the clock, he saw that he had to run for his train.

"My train," he gasped.

His customers were very nice about it. They insisted upon finding a redcap to push him to the train. He had to pay the redcap $2.

Memories of a Modest Man.

George Gershwin died 10 years ago last month, as any one who listened to the radio or went to a concert in July knows, for Gershwin melodies crowded everything except Mussolini's retreat off the air lanes. His old friend, Bennett Cerf, wrote a memorial piece in a recent issue of the Saturday Review of Literature in which he recounted many anecdotes of Gershwin and his family. One of the more amusing deals with a trip Gershwin and Oscar Levant made to Pittsburgh. Gershwin took it for granted that the lower berth of the compartment was his due, and before turning out the light Levant peered over the edge of the upper to see Gershwin sprawled below puffing calmly on a cigar. "Do you know what this picture represents?" Gershwin began pleasantly when he saw Levant's distorted face. "It's the difference between talent and genius!" . . . Mr. Cerf says Gershwin reached his greatest height of indignation once in Havana when a lovely Cuban miss failed to keep a luncheon engagement with him. Later that day he ran into her at a yacht club and cried, "Hey, do you know you stood me up today?" "O, I meant to phone you and tell you I couldn't come," the pretty miss explained, "but do you know something? I simply couldn't remember your name!" "George," concluded Mr. Cerf, "didn't recover for days."

Monograph Explained.

From Henry, the barkeep, comes explanation of the occasional queer behavior of bartenders who warn their customers against their Martinis because of the inferior quality of gin but press Tom Collinses, also made with gin, upon them. In a typical Martini, gin is mixed with dry vermouth and the mixture chilled by stirring in a mixing glass full of cubed ice. It is then poured into a glass and an olive added, oil of lemon often used to bring out the flavor of the cocktail. The drink suffers little from dilution and the quality of its ingredients is readily discernible. In a Tom Collins the quality of the gin is so well hidden by dilution in mixing and by the addition of lemon juice and sugar that only a real connoisseur could detect the use of inferior gin. Iced herb tea for us, Henry.

WHAT TO DO WITH NEW DEAL LAWYERS.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 20.—Under Man Power Commissioner McNutt's classification of essential and nonessential occupations, where does he place the various New Deal economists and lawyers in Washington and other parts of the country?

Surely they cannot be classified as necessary for national defense or necessary for civilian morale and unity, when about all they have done is to delay and obstruct war and needlessly confuse and create dissension among civilians with their continued conflicting directives.

Would they not be of far greater value to the country if they were employed on farms, in mines, forests, and industry, where they would learn something of the laws of supply and demand, actual economics and business procedure and the laws of nature or better yet, be drafted for front line service, where they would learn for the first time in their lives to obey promptly, short, clear commands, instead of attempting thru verbose directives to tell 130,000,000 citizens how they should conduct themselves and their business before they have the experience to know what they were talking about?

There are enough of these in the country to fill up a couple or three armies and release fathers with children from the draft. E. L. Messler.

BOND BALLYHOO.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—I just finished reading your editorial, Forced Savings, and various methods devised for increasing the sale of bonds. More bonds can be sold than at present on a voluntary basis, but bond sales will not be increased by putting an extremely loud calliope on State street, racing it up and down with a laughing, grimacing, shabbily dressed man at the keyboard. Neither will bond buying be increased by some unknown movie actress bestowing a kiss upon buyers, nor a well known one either, as is being done at the present time. This war is a serious thing and not a laughing, movie stunt. I would suggest that all asinine methods be discarded and some sane, dignified method used to increase bond buying. Miss Carmen Jehn.

A GIFT FOR THE PRINCE OF GRAUSTARK?

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 19.—We are asked to buy an extra dollar's worth of war stamps to help build the Shangri-la, a new aircraft carrier which we are told will help bomb Japan and Tokio again.

What assurance have we that the Shangri-la will be used to help get our boys out of Jap prisons and to help bomb Tokio? How do we know that Mr. Roosevelt won't give the boat to some visiting princess or queen? From the record, he seems much inclined to give away what doesn't belong to him but belongs to the people of this country. G. C. D.

SOLUTION.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—What we need here in this country is more festivals. That certainly would abolish all "isms" and will bring out the one and only—the best American patriotism.

Billy Bird.

THEN WHY DO THEY VOTE REPUBLICAN?

Dunlap, Ia., Aug. 19.—In a statement made by Mr. Marvin Jones about growing food you claim to see an admission that the administration has been going up the wrong street for more than a decade. You have intentionally given a warped and strained construction to the statement.

You said further that nearly every one in this country except the crackpot planners knew it, and that the farmers themselves knew it. The fact is the farmers are entirely too intelligent to accept your construction or your beliefs.

The farmers, as well as all other persons who are really seeking the truth, know that thru the farm program they have been able to reëstablish themselves as self-supporting citizens and to assume a decent place in our national life, and were so able even before the war started. They know that the program has helped them to rebuild the fertility of their soil, and operating under the program, grow more crops on fewer acres, so that in the fall of 1942 this nation had the greatest carry-over of corn, wheat, hogs and cattle, and the greatest supply of these products in the history of our nation. And we know that their better soil and better farming practices will continue raising and producing crops and meat for the war. Financial and industrial institutions, during the Democrat regime, all were on a sounder basis than in 1932 and early 1933. Thos J. Buckley.

WHO'LL COME OVER ON IT THIS TIME?

Evanston, Ill., Aug. 19.—I am told that the hull of the historical Mayflower has been located some 35 miles outside of London. To move same to Chicago would be of great interest to tourists and others, as well as adding another attraction to our city. My interest is only that of a past globe trotter. J. C. Seyl.

ONE OF NATURE'S PROBLEMS.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—At the fireworks display at the Music Festival, Donald Duck laid an egg which turned out to be Mussolini. Could it be possible his wife works at a war plant and doesn't have time to lay her own eggs?

Puzzled.

UNCOLLECTED WAGES.

Chicago, Aug. 23 [Legal Friend of the People].—I held a job for three days and then quit because it was too strenuous for me. I have been unable to collect for the work done. Am I not entitled to compensation? G. H.

The 1937 wage payment law [Ill. Rev. Statutes, Chap. 48, Sec. 39G] requires payment in full [1] in case of discharge, within five days; [2] in case of quitting, on next pay day unless employe gave five days' notice, in which case payment in full at time of quitting. This does not apply to commissions or to wages in excess of $100.

In case of wilful refusal to pay, wages continue for 10 days and employer may be fined $25 to $200.

NANCY TRICKED BY DE MARIGNY, LAWYER AVERS

Tells of Accusations He Made at Conference.

NASSAU, Bahamas, Aug. 25 (AP).—A Palm Beach [Fla.] attorney testified today that Alfred de Marigny married Nancy Oakes, daughter of the man he is accused of killing, without the knowledge and consent of her parents. De Marigny then was 33 years old; Nancy, 18.

Walter W. Foskett, who had been Harry Oakes' friend and attorney for many years before the multi-millionaire baronet was bludgeoned and burned to death last month, told of accusing the handsome De Marigny of "taking advantage of a child" when he married the red haired girl in May, 1942.

Foskett was the only witness today at a preliminary hearing for De Marigny, who is charged with murder.

Nancy Winks at Mate.

Nancy, seated in the courtroom, winked at her husband while Foskett was describing De Marigny's complaints over the treatment he received from the Oakes family.

Near the end of the testimony Foskett said he had prepared Oakes' last will and testament on Feb. 15, 1943. He did not reveal the terms of the document.

Foskett said De Marigny called at his office in Palm Beach last February and "told me that there was some estrangement between him and the Oakes family."

Sought Better Relations.

De Marigny asked Foskett, the attorney continued, "to use my influence with Lady Oakes to establish more cordial relations between them."

"I told De Marigny that it was a personal matter which he should attend to himself," Foskett added. "I told him that I disapproved of the manner in which he married Nancy. I felt he had taken advantage of a child and married her without the knowledge and consent of her parents."

They discussed a letter which Foskett said was addressed by De Marigny's former wife, Ruth, to Mrs. Oakes, and which Foskett said he opened and read as he was empowered to do either for Oakes or his wife.

Discussed Letter.

Foskett said he told De Marigny of charges made against him in the letter and quoted De Marigny as saying the statements in the letter were untrue, and offering to go to New York to obtain evidence to refute them.

A previous witness, Capt. E. W. Melchen of the Miami police, had testified that De Marigny was incensed because he said Foskett read the letter, which he described as "filthy," to Mrs. Oakes and Nancy.

Mrs. Oakes may be called to testify tomorrow as the preliminary hearing nears a conclusion.

FIGHT TO CURB DIVORCE GOES TO SUPREME COURT

Suit to test the legality of divorces granted in the City courts of Calumet City and Chicago Heights to nonresidents of the municipalities was filed in the Illinois Supreme court at Springfield yesterday by Elmer J. Schnackenberg of Chicago, speaker of the house of representatives and a leading advocate of divorce law reforms.

Schnackenberg, who contends that the city courts are intended solely to handle the legal affairs of the residents of the two cities or matters arising within their jurisdiction, is basing his test on an appeal from a Chicago Circuit court ruling in which Judge Thomas J. Lynch refused to annul the marriage of John F. Cullen, 10365 Avenue G, and Helen Stevens Cullen of 8118 Indiana avenue.

In that case, Schnackenberg argued that Cullen was entitled to an annulment because his wife's divorce in the Calumet City court from Paul Stevens was not valid and she was, in fact, still married to Stevens when she went thru the marriage ceremony with Cullen.

BLAME GATEMAN AFTER DRIVER'S DEATH IN CRASH

A Lake county coroner's jury held yesterday that negligence on the part of the gateman, Thomas Kondoff, 57 years old, 713 South Genesee street, Waukegan, caused a crossing accident Monday in which William Leskie, 61, of 127 Pleasant avenue, Highwood, was injured fatally when his milk truck was hit by a Chicago and North Western train at Washington street and Railway avenue in Highwood.

Motorist Fined After Crash with Fire Department Car

Peter Falcone, 37 years old, 1337 Division street, whose automobile collided with a fire department automobile at Roosevelt road and Loomis street July 15, yesterday was found guilty of reckless driving and failing to have a safety sticker on his auto. He was fined $22 and costs by Judge William V. Daly in Safety court. Chief Earl J. Bauer of the 7th battalion and his driver, Lt. Timothy Loftus, were injured in the collision.

GIRL, 20, DEAD AFTER REFUSAL OF PENICILLIN

Had 19 Transfusions for Blood Disease.

Miss Marie Barker, 20 years old, victim of staphylococcus septicemia [a blood disease], lost a gallant fight for life last night in St. Luke's hospital. Death came shortly before 6 p. m. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Barker, 6618 Stony Island avenue, were present.

Miss Marie Barker.

Late last night plans were made for a post-mortem examination today in the hope of determining, among other medical data, whether the new bacteria killing drug, penicillin, might have saved her life. She was denied its use.

Penicillin, a newly discovered drug derived from mold, has proved to be highly effective in healing battle wounds and, therefore, the extremely small supply is controled by the army and navy.

Appeal to President.

Shortly after Miss Barker was stricken with the blood ailment six weeks ago, her physician, Dr. N. F. Fisher, and her uncle, H. W. Plomann, 11930 Wallace street, endeavored to obtain penicillin for her. Plomann directed an appeal to President Roosevelt, who referred it to the national council on medical research. The plea was refused. A second refusal came from Dr. Chester Keefer of the Massachusetts Memorial hospital, Boston, thru whom the civilian supply of the drug is distributed.

Dr. Fisher said that Dr. Keefer based his refusal upon the fact that Miss Barker had had in childhood a heart ailment indicating the existence of bacterial endocarditis, which penicillin has failed to cure. Dr. Fisher said, tho, that the lapse of time since Miss Barker's childhood illness might render penicillin effective.

Engaged to Wed Sergeant.

Citing her engagement to be married to Sgt. Elmer Peters, stationed at Camp Stewart, Ga., Miss Barker asserted her desire to recover and wrote a personal appeal to Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President, for aid.

Nineteen blood transfusions were given to Miss Barker in the hope of saving her life.

In addition to her parents, Miss Barker is survived by two brothers and a sister. The funeral will be held at 9 a. m. Saturday from the chapel at 67th street and Dorchester avenue to St. Cyril's church.

PERJURY CHARGE IN JOHNSON CASE NEARS DEADLINE

William Goldstein, attorney who is accused by William R. Johnson, once Chicago's most widely known gambler, with having committed perjury when the lawyer testified against Johnson in an income tax evasion case in Federal court three years ago, cannot be prosecuted on the charge if he is not indicted before Monday, Charles R. Barrett, attorney for Johnson, said yesterday.

Johnson has filed 60 affidavits with the United States attorney's office, Barrett said, but so far as he knows only two of the witnesses offered against Goldstein have been questioned. J. Albert Woll, United States attorney, said yesterday that he could not state what his office was doing in the matter.

"The statute of limitations runs three years and unless Goldstein is indicted before Aug. 30—which is Monday—no prosecution will be possible on the charges that he swore falsely in most of his testimony against Johnson," Barrett said. "The United States attorney's office said they intended to investigate the charges, but I haven't heard of their intentions being carried out."

U. S. MUST HOLD AIR SUPREMACY, NATION WARNED

Retain Islands and Bases, Rep. Randolph Urges.

circle routes which are the global airways of the future.

"By the great circle, much of Europe is closer to Chicago than to most of the Atlantic seaboard, just as much of Asia is nearer to it than to the Pacific coast. I predict that Chicago will be one of the world's leading air terminals, but there will be others just as important to be built thruout America.

Destined for Air Center.

"Today Chicago is a great railroad and manufacturing center, but it is hundreds of miles from the nearest seaport. Tomorrow, it well may be the hub of a world-wide aerial network thru which traffic from much of America is routed to remote destinations all over the globe."

Turning to post-war aviation, Randolph said he approached the problem "as an American, and only as an American." He spoke of a bill he introduced three years ago, directing the President to begin negotiations with Britain and France for acquisition of their lands off the Atlantic seaboard in partial payment of their debts from the first World war.

"The measure did not pass," he said. "However, I am today more certain than ever that these islands, which are geographically part of our domain, should come under our jurisdiction, and that we should begin negotiations for their acquisition immediately. I do not believe in piracy, but, on the other hand, I do not believe we should permit our just claims to be dismissed with a suave smile by the owners who rightly can thank us for their continued free existence."

Ships Traded for Leases.

Under an arrangement with Britain, the United States in March, 1941, in exchange for 50 destroyers, was given 99 year leases on a number of bases in the West Indies and in Newfoundland and British Guiana.

Randolph said Greenland was not mentioned in his 1940 resolution, because in the Virgin Islands transaction we had waived all claim to that arctic country.

"Today, however, the picture has changed," he said. "We were forced to assume de facto sovereignty of Greenland when Hitler swallowed Denmark and Greenland rapidly has come to have enormous strategic value to the United States.

"First, it is today our only secure source of cryolite, an aluminum compond essential in extracting aluminum from bauxite. Second, its 700,000 square miles of smooth ice cap make it a perfect intermediary base for air transport between the United States and Europe, in peace or in war. Third, by routing flights over Greenland, there is no overwater hop longer than 500 miles."

WORLD LAW FABRIC

Associate Justice Rutledge, after declaring that "there is now among the united nations and within each of them, a vastly preponderant will for a permanent structure of law in the world for the maintenance of peace," outlined some of the things he had in mind concerning such an institution. Any such structure, he said, must include at least China, the British Commonwealth, Russia, and the United States.

"If any one of these remains aloof," he said, "there can be no real assurance of success. For each will have the power, when the conflict ends, if it maintains its strength, to defy the others."

Would Admit Foes Later.

The jurist declared that small nations would find their only security in adherence to such a union. He warned that "defeated nations cannot be kept in perpetual subjection, however exhausted they may be temporarily when fighting ends. When Germany and Japan recuperate after their defeat, he said, they should be admitted after a probationary period which will demonstrate their will for peace.

In discussing "some type of federated system" Justice Rutledge said that "the situation must provide instruments for decision on conflicts arising among the member nations; and effective sanctions for enforcement when decisions have been rendered. The creation of machinery for enforcement presents the most serious problem.

Durable Peace Long Job.

Institutions of peace cannot be made by a treaty, the jurist declared. "Durable peace," he said, "is not the work of a moment or a month or a year. It is rather an unending effort, a continuous process. Eternal vigilance is the price of peace as it is of liberty."

The jurist urged that the next peace treaty should impose no "mandate" on any conquered area in the hands of a victor nation. "What we propose," he said, "and what the world must have, is the rule of law, and that means limited authority, equal to the essential task and no more."

TELLS OF CO-OPERATION

In his address on "Law and Liberty" Mr. Somervell spoke of parliament's passage of the United States [visiting forces] act, dealing with the position of members of American forces in Britain who might commit offenses against the ordinary law.

"Naturally," the attorney general of England and Wales said, "there was never any question as to the right of your army to try its own members by court-martial. On the other hand, one important principle embodied in that phrase, 'the rule of law,' is that a soldier is subject, like any other citizen, to the ordinary law.

"The act gives your authorities exclusive jurisdiction over members of your forces for all offenses against the local law. I would like to say how satisfactorily the arrangement has worked, how complete and harmonious has been the coöperation between your authorities and ours, and how remarkably few cases of serious crime have occurred."

HAILS 'SOLVENT' ALLY

Canada is a "solvent partner" of the United States, and is now helping whip the Japs, Justice McLaurin told the delegates.

"It is not generally known, but now can be told, "he said, "that R. C. A. F. squadrons are actively serving with your air units in the Aleutians, eager to join in the ultimate direct assault on Japan itself."

Canada's system of war finance was praised by the justice.

"Canada," he said, "is the only one of the united nations that has not found it necessary to accept lend-lease assistance from the United States. It has paid cash for all its purchases from other countries. It is now the only debtor nation that has maintained payment of World War I. debts without interruption.

"Last year it made an outright gift of one billion dollars in war supplies to Great Britain, and this year another billion has been allocated for assistance to united nations who cannot pay.

"All controls are rigidly enforced and the current annual Canadian budget for a mere 11½ million Canadians approximates the American budget of 10 years ago. Inflation has been grappled with by heavy taxation and direct borrowing from the public. Controls have prevented any spiral in cost of living. It is gratifying to assure you that you have a solvent partner."

OBITUARIES

Lucius Wheadon Brigham.

Lucius Wheadon Brigham of Woodstock, secretary and treasurer of the Wahl Eversharp company for the last 14 years, died in his home yesterday following an illness of more than two years. He was 50 years old. Mr. Brigham was a member of the Illinois chapter of the Rainbow division war veterans and a member of the board of directors of the Chicago Association of Credit Men. He is survived by his widow, Martha, and two sons, Lucius Jr. and Donald. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. at 1567 Maple avenue, Evanston.

Mrs. Margaret Engels.

Services for Mrs. Margaret Engels, 79 years old, 1939 Birchwood avenue, Wilmette, who died Tuesday, will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow in St. Joseph's church, Wilmette. Mrs. Engels had lived her entire life in Wilmette. In 1934, she and her husband, Joseph, who died three years ago, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. Surviving are 10 children — three sons and seven daughters—21 grandchildren, and 17 great-grandchildren.

William Schimberg.

Services for William Shimberg, 74 years old, retail liquor dealer and real estate operator in Chicago for many years, will be held tomorrow at 10 a. m. in the chapel at 936 East 47th street. Mr. Shimberg, who was born in Lithuania and came to Chicago in 1887, died Tuesday in his home, 5004 Drexel avenue. He is survived by a daughter and two sons.

Daniel F. Murphy.

Services are being arranged for Daniel F. Murphy, 46 years old, Chicago real estate dealer, who died yesterday in Wichita, Kas. Mr. Murphy, who lived at 399 Fullerton parkway and who headed Murphy & Co., realtors, 111 Monroe street, is survived by his mother, seven sisters, and two brothers.

CROWN POINT'S ANNUAL FAIR ATTRACTS CROWD

The 83d annual Lake county [Ind.] fair opened with all its old time color in Crown Point yesterday despite rain. The grounds were crowded with spectators and exhibitors. More than 150,000 are expected to attend before the fair closes Sunday evening, Owen Roper of Hobart, Ind., president of the fair association, said.

Trotting and pacing harness races are scheduled for today and tomorrow afternoons on the fair grounds dirt track. The American Legion will take over Saturday evening to present a patriotic pageant. That afternoon an aerial demonstration will be given by army bombers in the interests of the aviation cadet recruiting campaign. Another aerial show will be presented Sunday by the civil air patrol, featuring parachute jumping.

A horse show, sponsored by the Lake County Saddle club, will be the principal event Sunday afternoon and evening. Nineteen classes will be open for competition and cash prizes, amounting to $1,200.

DR. A. A. SMITH, 59, DIES; MEMBER OF SEMINARY BOARD

The Rev. Dr. Alvin A. Smith, pastor of Rogers Park Presbyterian church since 1930 and a former moderator of the Chicago presbytery, died in his sleep Sunday night in a hotel in Denver, Colo. He had just finished a preaching engagement in an army camp at Leadville, Colo., and was on his way to Estes Park when he was stricken. Dr. Smith was 59 years old. He was graduated from Wheaton college and McCormick Theological seminary. Before coming to Rogers Park he was pastor of churches in Greenfield, Ia.; Grand Island, Neb., and Kansas City, Mo. He was a director of McCormick seminary. Surviving are his widow, Mildred, and a daughter, Mrs. James E. McMahon Jr.

NEGRO CAPTAIN OF POLICE ENDS 36 YEAR CAREER

Capt. John T. Scott, commander of the Stanton avenue police, said to be the only Negro civil service police captain in the United States, will leave the police force tomorrow, one day before his compulsory retirement.

Capt. Scott, who has been on the force 36 years, chose to resign rather than be retired because he joined the police force on Friday, April 19, 1907, and will leave it on Friday. He has earned 17 creditable mentions.

In 1921 he killed a murder suspect in an exchange of shots at 49th and Federal streets. He said he would go to his home at New Troy, Mich., to raise a big war garden.

JURORS CHOSEN TO TRY WOMAN HOME OPERATOR

A jury of seven women and five men was chosen yesterday for the trial of Mrs. Agnes Peele, operator of the Aristocrat Home for the Aged, 566 Stratford place, in the Jury court of Judge William V. Daly. She is charged with assault and battery and assault with a deadly weapon.

Mrs. Peele appeared in court wearing a blue dress, white hat, and blue veil. She was accompanied by her sons, Bernard, and Pvt. Milton, who is on furlough from a Texas army camp.

Late Summer Debut Season Will Start Today with Tea

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE first of the late summer debut parties is the tea which Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. H. Foster Straw are giving at home in Lake Forest this afternoon to introduce to society their daughter, Barbara. Comdr. Straw will be host in absentia because he is overseas, as is the Straws' son, John, who is with the amphibious forces. Among Miss Straw's eight assistants is Miss Edna Noll of Greenwich, Conn., a former classmate at the Ethel Walker school. Miss Straw, her assistants, and their escorts will go to the Onwentsia club for dinner and dancing following the tea. There will be some other parties for the debutante before she leaves for Finch college next month.

Miss Helen Milman and Miss Marion Peter, who also are assisting at Miss Straw's tea, are not on this year's debut list as their parents feel they are too young. Miss Milman, who despite her youth will be returning to the University of Kentucky for her second year, attended Ferry and Kemper halls. She is the daughter of the Ralph E. Milmans, and has two brothers, Thomas, who is working in a defense plant, and Lathrop, who is having his basic training in the army at Fort Bragg.

Miss Peter, daughter of the William F. Peters, returned this week from Philadelphia, where she has been visiting a school friend. She will enter Northwestern university this fall. Her post-deb sisters, Miss Phyllis and Miss Sylvia, are at home.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles W. Young are thinking in terms of a Christmas time party for their younger daughter, Louise, another of Miss Straw's assistants. Miss Young will enter Bradford Junior college this fall. She was graduated from Ferry hall last June.

Miss Deborah Wilder is among the many on this season's debut list for whom no definite party plans have been made. Her parents, the Emory Wilders, are considering a small party at Christmas time for their daughter, who is learning to be a nurses' aid. She will start additional training at Cook County hospital next week. Miss Wilder attended Elgin academy and the Stoneleigh Prospect Hill school in Greenfield, Mass. Her younger sister, Phoebe, is at Kemper hall this year.

Also without definite party plans is Miss Margot Reynolds, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. William Reynolds. She was graduated in June from the Girls' Latin school and will leave on Sunday to enter Sarah Lawrence college.

Wedding News.

The Rev. Gardner MacWhorter will officiate at the marriage of Miss Ann Faherty and Lt. Benjamin Miller Peckham at 5:30 p. m. today in the Astor street residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Faherty. Only the families will be present for the ceremony, and a few close friends have been invited to toast the bride and bridegroom afterward.

Lt. Peckham, a navy doctor stationed with the marines in California, will take his bride to the west coast to live. His mother, Mrs. John William Gross, and brother and sister, George and Polly Gross, are here from Milwaukee for the wedding and were among the guests at a dinner the Fahertys gave last

Smart Two Piece Suit for Career Girl

Precision striped material in black and white (which also comes in brown and white and steel gray and white) is used effectively for this career girl suit in two pieces. The slightly blouse-back jacket has huge harmonizing buttons. The skirt has inverted pleats front and back. A tiny black satin hat, black bag, and gray gloves complete the costume, which is available in a Chicago store. [TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

Designer Puts Extra Zip Into Her Costumes

BY REA SEEGER.

Among the newer successful dress designers is a dynamic personality right here in the middle west. Hannah Shelton snips, cuts, sews, and dreams up smart new clothes for the average American with a slim silhouette and a liking for snappy details. She designs not grimly but felicitously for the spirited members of the clothes conscious set.

Included in this designer's current collections are clever day time dresses, smooth suit costumes, which really are dresses with the appearance of two piece suits, and the smartest of party dresses.

Her day time dresses are slim, distinctive, and simply assembled. Smooth streamline is stressed in the seaming as well as controled trim accents. Most of the day time dresses are distinguished by artful simplicity, with clever details such as buttons down the side and across the shoulders, slit pockets, and pockets that double for trim as well as service.

Vivid colors have been used for dress parade or afternoon models. Some have effective bits of fur trim or restrained embroidery or beading. Others feature two or three colors worked in contrast in the same dress. They are all typical young America—sleek, smooth, and smart.

The models designed for office and career girl wardrobes are outstanding, because they're not even distantly related to such dull, uniform-like outfits as navy blue or black one piecers. Darts, tucks, folds, shirrings, and stitched bands are used effectively. Button-on models and soft dressmaker versions of the shirtwaist outfit provide a handsome choice of what to wear to make a lasting impression in an office or on the campus.

Miss Barbara Mary Weintraub.

Miss Barbara Mary Weintraub's engagement to Lt. Arthur Horwitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Horwitz of Rochester, N. Y., is announced by her father, William Hobart Weintraub of Chicago and New York. Miss Weintraub attends Bennington college. Lt. Horwitz was graduated from Andover academy and is stationed in the Aleutians.

Drive Is Launched by WAVES to Get Officer Candidates

Qualified women between the ages of 20 and 49 are being sought as officer candidates in the WAVES, Capt. E. S. Root, director of the office of naval procurement here, said yesterday.

Enlisted WAVES may be recommended and are now being selected for officer training, but the increase in the WAVES enlistments thruout the nation has created many new billets for officers, Capt. Root said.

Officer candidates are needed by the WAVES in the fields of radio, aviation, supply, and administration. A college degree is desired, but two years of college and satisfactory business experience will suffice, Capt. Root said. The WAVES procurement office is in room 1175 in the Board of Trade building.

Sally Receives Several Pleas for Ice Boxes

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

There are five children in the A. family. The father deserted the family three years ago. Since then the mother has depended on a public agency for support. She has only a very small ice box, which is insufficient for her needs. If a reader can provide her with a 75 to 100 pound ice box she will be very grateful. The address is on the west side of the city.

Mrs. P. is an invalid. She has no ice box and would be grateful for a 50 pound box if a reader has one to donate.

Mr. C. has been an invalid for the last 15 years and does not have proper facilities for storing perishable foods and milk. He has asked our assistance in locating a 50 or 75 pound ice box.

Mrs. B. is a widow with one child. She is earning a small salary, but it is insufficient for more than rent and food. She has no ice box, and food and milk are frequently spoiled. If a reader has a small box she would be happy to have it. The address is on the northwest side.

Lecture on Flight to End War Background Series

"Flight—In the Animal World," a lecture illustrated with still and motion pictures, will be presented by Loraine Lloyd at 2:30 p. m. today in the lecture hall of the Field museum. This will close the "Backgrounds of the war" series. The summer series of programs for children sponsored by the James Nelson and Anna Louise Raymond foundation also will close today with two presentations of "Vacation Special," an hour of animated cartoons, at 10 a. m. and 11 a. m. in the James Simpson theater. Thursday is free admission day at the museum.

Thru the Looking Glass

There is no such thing, so far as we know, as an eyebrow or eyelash grower, but we are firmly convinced that the daily use of a good emollient, plus brushing, will help maintain the health of the growth and, indirectly at least, contribute to its luxuriance.

At least, the women we know with long, lustrous lashes and good, abundant, shiny eyebrows, are the ones who have the habit of oiling and brushing both daily. Those with a scanty growth never seem to have the habit—and it strikes us there is a connection between the two sets of circumstances.

It stands to reason that brows and lashes that never know the cleansing, polishing touch of a brush are bound to have their beauty dimmed, if not their actual growth hindered. Face powder and the dust accumulated every day should be carefully brushed away. A little smidge of oil on the brush will aid the cause of luster. The daily brushing and grooming will make the eyes look better—and probably improve the growth, too.

Use a brush that's clean, and use it firmly—not just once over lightly. Get the bristles right down to the skin where the little hairs spring forth. Brush brows upward, straight, then smooth down lightly in the natural line. Brush the upper lashes upward, the lower ones in the direction in which they grow.

And, while you're at it, use a little oil or cream on the eyelids to soften the skin and give it a hint of sheen. It's flattery, and good beauty-business besides. That is usually thin skin that dries and crinkles rather prematurely if you don't watch out.

Women in War Work

—By Kate Massee—

The recent elevation of Capt. Doris E. Epperson of the WAC to the rank of major was announced yesterday. Maj. Epperson at present has the title of field director, and when the WAC is absorbed into the regular army in September, she will bear the title of major in the army corps.

Maj. Doris Epperson.

Maj. Epperson received her commission as first officer in the WAAC last Aug. 29, and came to Chicago last October as WAAC director in the 6th service command. Her husband is Maj. Earl Epperson of the army reserve. Their son, Lt. Earl R. Epperson, is with the ferry command.

Before joining the WAAC, Maj. Epperson was active in library extension work and as a member of the Y. W. C. A. board in her home town, Clinton, Miss.

Forty women who staff the war bond and stamp booths in Evanston will be on hand today from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m. to sell bonds in connection with the display in Fountain square of a two man Jap submarine. Mrs. Otto H. Huebner, chairman of the Evanston women's activities committee, and Mrs. Charles T. Haight, booth committee chairman of the war finance committee of Evanston, will direct sales.

At 10 a. m. Lt. Robert E. Biesang of the navy, who has seen Japanese submarines in action at Pearl Harbor and in Australia, will be interviewed by Merritt R. Laubenheimer, general chairman of the Evanston war finance committee.

To date the women's division of the Evanston committee has sold approximately $485,000 in war bonds and stamps from the six booths maintained in the suburb.

A special group of leaders of women's organizations will meet at 12:15 p. m. today in the Merchant and Manufacturers' club, Merchandise Mart, with the women's executive committee of the Illinois office of public instruction. The session, to be presided over by Mrs. Anne V. Zinser, chairman of the committee, will outline specific action to be taken in the near future by women's clubs in order to reach into as many homes as possible for the purpose of getting home women into war work.

[This department reports on women's war activities and answers questions regarding such activities.]

Late Summer Debut Season Begins Today

night at the Tavern club. Mr. Gross will be best man, and the bride's sister, Mrs. Daniel B. Kennedy Jr., will be her only attendant.

Their Chicago friends are interested in the marriage yesterday of Miss Elizabeth Schriber, daughter of the Rufus Kellogg Schribers of Oshkosh, Wis., to Ensign Robert Curtis Brand, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Curtis Brand, also of Oshkosh, where the ceremony took place in the Trinity Episcopal church, with a reception following at the Schriber home. Ensign Brand will report to the east coast next month.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Bryant of Evanston announce the marriage on Aug. 21 of their daughter, Maribelle, to Lt. Charles C. L. McNair of the army. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents, with only relatives and a few close friends present. Miss Nancy Bryant and David McNair were the only attendants. The bride attended Penn Hall and she and Lt. McNair, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eben O. McNair Jr., also of Evanston, were graduated from the University of Illinois. He prepared at the Asheville school. Lt. and Mrs. McNair now are at Camp Lee, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Lefler of the Orrington hotel, Evanston, announce the marriage on Aug. 18 of their daughter, Barbara Jane, to James William Frid Jr. of Buffalo, N. Y. The ceremony took place in the chapel of the First Methodist church, Evanston. Mr. Frid and his bride went north on a wedding trip.

Engagements.

Mr. and Mrs. David A. Gubbins of Kenilworth have announced the engagement of their daughter, Carolyn Margaret, to Allen Fargo of the navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Fargo of Glencoe. Miss Gubbins attended Penn hall and the Academy of Fine Arts and is a provisional member of the Evanston Junior league. Mr. Fargo attended Amherst college and now is stationed at Norfolk, Va.

Mrs. Dorothy W. Weed of Evanston announces the engagement of her daughter, Dorothy Jacqueline, to Aviation Cadet John D. Ivy, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Ivy of Birmingham, Ala. Miss Weed and her fiancé met while he was stationed at an army air forces college training detachment at Knox college, Galesburg, to which Miss Weed will return for her last year next month. She plans to visit Cadet Ivy in San Antonio, Tex., where he is stationed in pre-flight school, before returning to Knox.

Here and There.

Mrs. Walter Cherry Jr. is entertaining at supper at the Indian Hill club tonight for Miss Marcia Ennis, who is to be married on Sept. 9 in New York to Lt. John Bradford Stevens of the navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Evarts C. Stevens of Wallingford, Conn. Miss Ennis and her mother, Mrs. Smith Ennis, will go east on Tuesday, and Mrs. Cherry will go east later to serve as a bridesmaid at the wedding, which will take place at 4:30 p. m. in the chapel of St. Bartholomew's church. A reception will follow.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Hickock Schell Jr. [Marjorie Elizabeth Bertha] became the parents of a son, their third child, on Aug. 21 in Doctors' hospital in New York. The baby is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Bertha. Mrs. Bertha is in New Canaan, Conn., at the home of her son-in-law and daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. William Walker McLaury [Catherine McDermott] announce the birth of a daughter at Passavant hospital. The baby has been named Mary Nye after her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Walker Galley McLaury.

Cryptographers to Open Convention Here Sept. 4

The 11th annual convention of the American Cryptographers' association will be held Sept. 4 to 7 at the Morrison hotel, with the Chicago Cryptographers' club in the host role. Four hundred new members, the largest new membership group in the history of the association, will be welcomed at the convention, to be given over largely to the transaction of business. Three members of the Chicago club are among the incumbent national officers: Raymond L. Thompson, president; Mrs. C. P. Proudfit, second vice president, and Miss Margaret Guderian, secretary.

Accessories for Baby

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

A trio of accessories for the newest member of the family is easily, quickly, and inexpensively crocheted. The jacket, composed of simple stitches, may be created of soft baby wool. The bootees are designed so simply that the novice may attempt them without fear. The cap is another example of perfect needlework which requires little time to complete.

For instructions in crocheting the infant's accessories, No. 861, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1943: By Ely Culbertson.]

Defending against slam contracts, signal cards often become more important than ever, not only advising partner which suit to guard but helping him to stay out of ruinous end-plays. For example:

South, dealer.

NORTH
♠ J 4
♥ A J 2
♦ 5 3

WEST
♠ K 10 8 6 5 2
♥ K 10 7 3
♦ 9
♣ 7 3

EAST
♠ Q 7 3
♥ 9 8 5
♦ K J 10 8 7 4 2

SOUTH
♥ Q 6 4
♦ A Q 6
♣ A K 9 8 6

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	1 spade	3 clubs	3 diam.
4 no trump*	Pass	5 diam.	Pass
6 clubs	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the singleton diamond. Declarer won with the queen, drew trumps in two rounds, then cashed the diamond ace and ruffed a diamond in dummy. He then led the spade four to the ace and returned the spade 9. At this point West found himself in a terrible dilemma. From his point of view, declarer's original holding might have been A-Q-9 of spades and a low doubleton in hearts. East had played the spade 3 on the ace, hence there was no indication as to the position of the spade queen. Perhaps West should have made a better guess, but the fact remains that he could not solve the problem to his own satisfaction and finally put up the spade king in the hope that his partner had the heart queen and that a heart could be taken for the setting trick. This, however, was not to be. On a heart return from West, declarer ducked in dummy and won with the queen, then took another heart finesse to the A-J. The result would have been the same if West, after winning with the spade king, had returned another spade. Declarer would have discarded a heart from dummy while ruffing in his own hand, then would have taken a simple heart finesse against the king.

East could have made matters much easier for his partner by playing the seven instead of the three on the spade lead from dummy. It should not have been difficult to foresee that West might want to know the location of the spade queen.

Got Athlete's Foot? —Use Lysol

1 — Soak feet 15 minutes in a lukewarm Lysol solution (1 teaspoon of Lysol to each quart water) every day for one week. Dry thoroughly without rinsing. Repeat every 2 or 3 days for some weeks afterwards.

2 — To help prevent reinfection, have the good wife soak socks, bath mats, towels for 1 hour in Lysol solution (same strength) before laundering. Also wipe inside of shoes, especially seams, with same Lysol solution on cotton swab.

3 — Don't let it spread! Protect other members of your family from Athlete's Foot by washing bathroom floor regularly with Lysol in cleaning water. (2½ tablespoons to 1 gallon water.) Lysol is soapy in nature, helps clean. Lysol deodorizes, too.

4 — Avoid walking barefoot at all times! Severe or stubborn cases may require a doctor's attention. Lysol costs little because it's so concentrated—you dilute it for use. Get Lysol today, at any drug counter.

Choose Fresh Corn Wisely; Cook Properly

Spinach Sandwich Filling.
[For 10 sandwiches.]

3 cups shredded, raw spinach
1 stalk celery, minced
2 hard-cooked eggs, finely chopped
½ cup grated nippy cheese
4 or 5 chopped green onions
Salt and pepper to taste
½ cup mayonnaise [about]

Combine spinach and celery. Mix remaining ingredients. Add to spinach, mixing well. Add more dressing if needed to hold greens together. Lettuce, Swiss chard, or other greens may be substituted for spinach, if desired.

At last sweet corn has come down to a price we can afford to pay. In some stores it has been selling for 25 cents a dozen ears. Not a bad price for these times, especially if the corn is good.

Corn loses freshness and flavor [also vitamins] faster than any other vegetable I can think of, if many hours pass between picking and cooking. The best corn is broken from the stalks immediately before the steam or hot water bath which prepares it for the table. We can't all have gardens full of golden bantam corn, but we can be careful in buying corn to choose ears which are fresh.

Many times grocers lose money on corn because of the manhandling which customers give it in their search for tender ears. It isn't necessary to strip an ear of corn clear to the base to determine its quality. When the husks are once peeled back, corn soon stales and wilts. Your grocer will appreciate it if you pull back a few husks just far enough to peek at the quality of the kernel, then replace them if the kernels are underdeveloped or a little too large and firm for your taste. Some one else might choose the ears you leave, if you leave them in good condition. Tastes in corn vary—some persons prefer young, tender, milky kernels, and others want fully developed ears.

Steam or boil corn on the cob for 7 or 8 minutes, and serve hot. Leftover corn may be cut from the cob and served this way.

Fried Corn.
[Serves four.]

2 cups cooked corn, cut from cob
¼ cup chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
3 tablespoons margarine or bacon drippings
¼ cup cream
Salt, pepper

Add corn, green pepper, onion, and pimiento to fat and saute for 5 minutes or slightly longer. Add cream, salt and pepper to taste. Heat a minute longer and serve. Fresh cut corn may be used instead of the cooked kernels.

Corn in the can is rationed at 16 to 20 points in blue stamps, so it's a pleasure to be able to use the fresh vegetable. This chowder is unusually good, I think.

Corn Chowder.
[Serves four.]

2 strips bacon, diced
1 large onion, diced
3 tablespoons flour
2 cups corn, cut from cob
1 quart milk
Salt, pepper
2 tablespoons minced parsley

Cook bacon gently until most of the fat has cooked out. Add onion and continue cooking until onion is soft. Do not let onion fry crisp. Blend in flour, then add milk gradually, stirring and cooking until smooth and thickened. Add corn and salt and pepper to taste. Heat thoroly, add parsley and serve at once.

Looking at Hollywood

—By Hedda Hopper—

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 25.—If you haven't read "Roughly Speaking," by Louise Randall Pierson, you've missed something that robbed me of a night's sleep—but the laughs made up for it. Louise is out here now, working on the screen play for Warner Brothers. She's established with her husband and children in a hotel three miles from the studio [couldn't find a house] and living from ration card to mouth, as aren't we all? The point is that she and Bette Davis have found each other, and now Bette's crazy to play the lead in the Pierson story and get her teeth into something human. What Bette wants at Warners she gets—sometimes—and it's going to be a mighty relief to the Davis fans to see her out of those anemic, neurotic roles where she's the gal you love to hate. . . . Of evenings Bette often can be found romping with the Piersons. Thus, by purest happenstance, and no doing of the studio's or anyone else, Bette, the Oscar winning tragedienne, has snatched what she considers the juiciest acting plum of her career. Sometimes our moguls of the cinema, like Malvolio, have greatness thrust upon them.

Bette Davis.

Something to Pout About.

You've heard of bleats from actors before, but see if this isn't the bleat to end all bleats: George Sanders rose to glory on the film lots being the meanest kind of a bozo the scripters could think up. A veritable prince of heels, he set feminine hearts a-flutter as the heavy in "Rebecca," and he's been trying to get heavier with each picture. . . . Now his lot, Twentieth Century-Fox, is heaping the supreme insult on him. To relieve the homicidal horror of "The Lodger," a little biographical item about a character called Jack the Ripper, the studio has cooked up a romance between Sanders, a Scotland Yard dick, and Merle Oberon, a dancer with those let's-fall-in-love eyes. Sanders frankly is in a towering rage, threatening a one man insurrection. . . . "Here," he says, and perhaps with some justice, "I've spent the best years of my life building up a reputation as a low scorpion, and with one pretty kiss they want to tear me down. Understand, I've nothing against Miss Oberon, and if I had any ambitions to be a screen lover, I might even pick her out. But I want to be a heel, darn it." Something to pout about, what?

Nazi in Ship's Clothing.

Tonio Selwart has escaped from the Nazi uniforms he's had to wear in the five pictures he's appeared in since quitting Broadway. In "Tampico" we'll see him as a civilian snake aboard an oil tanker—but still a Nazi agent. . . . Joseph Cotten had meditated trying some of his scene stealing tricks with Charles Boyer in "Gaslight." Then he remembered that he's living in a house he rented from Boyer. . . . Brian Aherne plotted a bit of plain and fancy scene theft from Rosalind Russell in "Ten Per Cent Woman," ostentatiously crossing his knees as the camera ground. "Last time I observed that maneuver," Rosalind said to him, "it was pulled off by a couple of Follies girls—who had knees." "Okay, okay, I know when I'm licked," Aherne hastily apologized. Rosalind, too, has dimples over her patella.

Here's That Gal Again.

Helen Broderick, who has been giving practically her full time to Red Cross and canteen work for the last year and a half, returns to films as Donald O'Connor's mother in "The Third Glory," a story of show business. Helen tells me her son, Brod, a top actor before putting on a uniform, is a corporal stationed at Yale, where he's instructing classes in gunnery and jujitsu. Brod's wife, Kay Griffith, is back at New Haven, too. . . . If and when Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker hits Los Angeles on a tour of the airplane plants, Winnie Sheehan will firmly steer him away from the Twentieth Century-Fox studio, where that Rickenbacker picture is rapidly being whipped into shape. I understand from Howard Emmett Rogers that the big surprise of the Rick film will be its laughs. . . . Description of a new leading man being groomed by Columbia as a romantic triple threat guy: "He's a sort of Viking caught and tamed by Gertie Lawrence to toss off smart cracks from Moss Hart's typewriter." The guy is Willard Parker, debuting in "Ten Per Cent Woman." . . . And there's a quickie producer in town who says: "I don't want it good, I want it this afternoon."

Parade of the Stars.

Hollywood's old jigsaw puzzle of trying to fit its stars into the right niches goes on and on, with an occasional ten-strike. Pola Negri is up for Henry Blanke's "Coffin for Dmitrios," with a role written in for her that's reminiscent of her triumph in "Passion," the film that sold her to Hollywood in the first place. . . . And Ben Bogeaus, I hear, is angling to bring back Vera Zorina for the feminine lead in "The Bridge of San Luis Rey." Lynn Bari also has been asked to test for the role. Incidentally the studios are becoming more and more aware of the Bari, a smart little actress who grew up in picture town and never has had a job outside of a studio. Maybe that's why the talent seekers have had such a hard time finding her—she's been right under their noses. . . . Emily Kimbrough said to Diana Lynn, who plays her in "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay": "Thanks so much for letting me see what I should have looked like."

Diana Lynn.

From Rudy to Lou.

An ornate Arab ring worn by Rudolph Valentino in "The Sheik" was contributed by a former associate of the great lover to be presented to the purchaser of the biggest war bond of the week at the Ambassador. Lou Costello heard about it and altho he was "bonded" to the hilt, he scraped together another 10 grand and made the buy. I'm happy to report that he got the sheik's ring, a beautiful piece of jeweler's craftsmanship. "From sheik to freak in one generation," piped Lou.

Adult Teaser Often Unable to 'Take It'

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"What's the matter, Jim?"

"O, I'm in the doghouse with my dad. And I didn't do anything." Jim replied, with a glum face, to his best friend. "You know how swell my dad is, but he's an awful tease and sometimes he fixes up practical jokes that are pretty rough ones. The last made me feel like a sap before the family at supper last Sunday when I'd asked Sue Brown. I got pretty sore, I guess, so I fixed up a little joke on dad and sprang it just now when he was talking to his friends out at the war garden. And did he get mad! If he'd been the whipping kind he'd have whaled me all right. Dad can dish it out but he can't take it." And Jim relapsed into glumness again.

The other afternoon I saw a jolly scene, a father playing with his children, all of them getting more and more nonsensical.

They'd gotten to the point of calling each other silly names, each vying with the other. Then, getting wilder and wilder, one of the children used one of those expressions, in innocence and fun, which affronted the sophisticated, grownup ears of his father. Suddenly a cloud descended. Father's expression changed.

"Now you've gone too far," he said, and delivered a lecture. All the hilarity and happiness went out of the atmosphere, and the children were like little deflated balloons.

Another time, mother, who was jolly and strong, was "roughing" with the children. In their exuberance one of the children wound up by delivering a resounding whack where mother thought he shouldn't. Her dignity, which she herself had laid aside, was hurt.

"Now that is disrespectful," she said. "You always go too far." Once again the joy of life went out for the children, wilted by the displeasure of their mother.

Children are bewildered by these abrupt changes of attitude in their grownups. "Children always go too far," we say. Yes, they certainly do, if you start something. Only to them it isn't going too far. They don't know where to stop before offending our sense of dignity. They can't appreciate at all the fine line that we draw, and we can hardly expect them to.

Art Institute School's Exhibit Will Feature Service Men's Works

A feature of the annual exhibit of work by students of The School of the Art Institute of Chicago, which opens on Thursday, Sept. 2, in the east wing galleries, will be a group of paintings and sketches by former students now in service. Drawings and paintings already have been received from camps in this country and Hawaii, and pictures are expected from former students serving overseas, altho it is uncertain whether the latter will arrive in time for the exhibit's opening.

Every department in the day, evening, summer, and junior schools will be represented in the exhibit. Examples of advertising design, dress design, photography, and industrial art will be shown, as well as figure and portrait painting and life and still life painting.

The art education department will feature weaving and various craft exhibits, and the junior school will display examples of clay modeling and drawing produced by children's classes, composed of youngsters from 5 years old to high school age.

War Workers' Special Need Is Cleanliness

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY
[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The factory front usually means manual labor. The woman who is doing a man's job often finds herself working among grease and dirt, and she should fight against the temptation to grow sloppy and careless about cleanliness.

No matter how tired she is, she should not permit herself to omit the daily shower or bath. Perspiration problems have increased, and she needs to take greater care than ever. Fortunately, there are many deodorants on the market. They can be applied in only a few seconds' time. Often an aircraft worker must work in close quarters, but if she has taken daily precautions against perspiration odors, she has no worries.

We don't need to warn you against using perfume or even toilet water in factory jobs. We did hear of one girl who used such strong perfumes, her fellow workers could hardly bear to work near her.

Underclothes, of course, should be washed daily. Work suits should be aired at night and washed frequently. Slacks that must be sent to the cleaners will prove costly. If a girl can't resist them, she should sun and air them often.

For her own sake, she should try to look as neat as possible. A workman's apron will protect her from a great deal of unnecessary grime. A little dusting before sitting down and care about kneeling may help her look as fresh at the end of the day as she did at the starting whistle.

Keep Up Spirit on Home Front by Hard Work

BY DORIS BLAKE.
[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The postman is an important person these days; he carries happiness and disappointment on his rounds. When he fails to bring an expected, longed-for letter day after day, this column often hears of it.

"He hasn't written me for two months."

"I'm sure he's still in the country, but I haven't heard a word."

"Two of his letters came back to me marked 'wrong address.' Why didn't he let me know when he was transferred?"

"Surely he could find time to write as often as I write him?"

The postman is important, but it is wise not to concentrate on him too much. There often are good reasons why mail is delayed. The long weeks or months of waiting for a letter are less dreary and shorter if you do your waiting actively.

If you aren't definitely engaged to the soldier there is no reason why you shouldn't have other dates. Maybe you are sure he is the one man for you even tho he hasn't proposed. With a little social life, you can keep your charm in practice, when you're not busy with war work.

Of course, if you have promised not to date other men, or if you are a wife, you'll choose a different type of activity. You'll take a job and do your part in hastening the war's end and your sweetheart's return, or you'll sign up and keep busy on the many voluntary services.

There is nothing like a full, busy life to make time pass quickly between letters. Don't waste yourself in unnecessary worrying. There are many more useful outlets for your energies.

Household Forum

—By Louise Bargelt—

Mrs. A. H. Proctor, Columbus, Wis.—I dislike having my white dish towels stained by wiping pots and pans, so for these I use the cheaper unbleached linen crash toweling. This washes easily and the white ones remain white for glass and china.

Mrs. Mary Deane, Hartford, Mich.—I find that very fine sandpaper takes the place of the metal dishcloth for china or cooking utensils.

Mrs. Fred S., Chicago—I never leave a wire or wooden plant stake with the sharp end exposed. It is too dangerous with children toddling around. If the stake is wire, I bend it into loop, and if the stake is of wood I fit a button or a blunt knob over the sharp end.

WILSON'S WEEKLY Bulletin

Food and Nutrition Consultant to Wilson & Co.

HIDDEN HUNGER—HEALTH'S WORST ENEMY

"But," you say, "hunger is practically unknown in the United States today." Yes, everyone has enough to eat so that he doesn't feel hungry, but does he have the right kind of food? It depends upon how wisely he selects his food, whether all of the needed minerals, vitamins and proteins are supplied in sufficient amounts to keep him in top-notch condition. It is well to remember always that a person may be overweight and physically satisfied with the meals eaten and still suffer from "hidden hunger" if enough of these vital nutrients are not eaten every day.

COMPARISON OF NUTRITIVE VALUE, TWO MENUS OF EQUAL CALORIC VALUE

MENU 1
B-V Bouillon
Creole Pork Liver
Baked Potato, Small
Steamed Spinach Carrot Sticks
Enriched Bread (1 slice)
Butter (1 pat)
Apple Crumble Milk (8 oz.)

MENU 2
Spaghetti with Meat and Tomato Sauce
Head Lettuce Salad
French Dressing
Enriched Bread (2 slices)
Butter (1 pat)
Spice Cake Black Coffee

MENU 1 A SUPER-DUPER

One has only to look at the chart above which one of my associates, a graduate dietitian, prepared for me to see how many more minerals and vitamins one menu may furnish than another one. As you can see, both menus supply the same number of calories, yet Menu 1 is far superior to Menu 2 in protein, minerals and vitamins.

Menu 1 contains many foods noted for their high food value—Wilson's B-V is high in iron and riboflavin; pork liver is rich in iron, niacin, Vitamin A, and complete proteins, and furnishes considerable amounts of thiamin and riboflavin as well—and so on down the whole menu. So altogether, this menu is a super-duper in food value, yet is moderate in cost.

• • •

Apportion Food Throughout Day

Nutritionists usually advise dividing the day's food into ¼ to ⅓ for breakfast, ⅓ for lunch or supper and the remainder for dinner. Although this is ideal, few people eat as large a breakfast as dinner. Granted they did eat ⅓ of the day's requirements for both breakfast and lunch, Menu 2 would still be inadequate for dinner since less than a third of the day's requirements are furnished of calcium, phosphorus, iron, thiamin (Vitamin B), riboflavin (Vitamin B_2) and niacin.

• • •

NO CALORIES WITHOUT VITAMINS

A good rule to follow in selecting food is—"no calories without vitamins." If we eat large amounts of fat and starchy foods, we are likely to satisfy our "hollow hunger" before we have consumed enough proteins, minerals and vitamins. Always remember that the more carbohydrates we eat the more of the Vitamin-B complex we need. More about that another week.

Sincerely, George Rector

Some advertisers don't like left-hand pages or certain days of the week.

There are advocates of the long copy and short copy, beaux arts and buckeye, black display and blond, big ads and little, high frequency and low, signatures that shriek and wind-ups that whisper . . .

They also learn that picking papers for prestige can be pretty poor business. Most good banks have plenty of prestige, expect something more of their accounts.

It had to do a pick and shovel job with the Philadelphia public first, make good as a newspaper. And it did!

The Inquirer never had any advertisers who figured they couldn't go wrong in it; so they invariably checked the results, to be sure they didn't.

The Inquirer has been making friends and impressing advertisers for seven years — not because of what it was, but because of what it does!

And The Inquirer has been the leading medium in Philadelphia for the last seven years . . . merely because it leads more sales dollars back to the advertiser.

"One is enough in Philadelphia" . . . ? One newspaper may be enough in this market — and a three million line margin over the second paper in the first seven months of 1943 . . . indicates that most advertisers know which one!

COLLEGE ALL-STARS DEFEAT REDSKINS, 27-7

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

THE colorful half time ceremonies which have distinguished every All-Star football game since the inaugural contest in 1934 attained a new high in brilliance during the intermission of last night's game in Dyche stadium. . . . The war time motif of the evening was climaxed with a tribute to the nation's women in the services. . . . Ray Dvorak, director of the University of Wisconsin bands, marshaled his force of musicians at the north end of the field before the first half was completed. . . . The lights were darkened as they moved smoothly south up the field to the area between the 25 yard lines. . . . Before they came to a halt, bulbs attached to the bandsmen's hats and the larger instruments burst into a radiant display of color and light. . . . Without a moment's delay, Maestro Dvorak's men shifted from the mass formation in midfield until they had formed the word "Skins" to honor the professional champions from Washington. . . . In another twinkling, they had changed the word to "Stars." . . . The band massed again, swinging up to the north, where they split into two detachments, then turned and marched south again until they met in midfield and formed a huge V. . . . This presently was reënforced on both bars by 60 WACs, 60 WAVES, 60 marines and 60 SPARS. . . . As soon as the uniformed women had completed their contribution to the victory sign, 20 army nurses and as many navy nurses complemented the V by forming a cross above it, all joining in singing "God Bless America." . . . Rear Adm. John Downes, commandant of the 9th naval district, and Col. John F. Davis, chief of staff for the 6th service command, then appeared on a platform set up on the south 30 yard line. . . . Said Adm. Downes: "Men who played in these All-Star games have been serving with great distinction in all theaters of war. . . . Men who were sworn into the navy between the halves of the last two All-Star games have shown the same championship caliber in the grim business of war. . . . Tonight we observe tangible evidence of a new era; women of the services are on this field of honor. . . . Without them the story of battle casualties would be a different and sorrier one, and many vital jobs would go undone. . . . They are truly essential to our victory." . . . Col. Davis then added, "We are winning this war. . . . Every one likes to be on the winning team, and it is inspiring to see the thousands of women from all walks of life who are clamoring to serve their country in uniform."

The weatherman's refusal to coöperate with the sponsors failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the nation's football fans. . . . The gates were opened shortly after 7 o'clock, and the ushers and policemen found hundreds of citizens eager to enter in spite of the rain. . . . The majority had anticipated the elements' misbehavior and came equipped with slickers, umbrellas, and other weather gear. . . . Their spirit was another tribute to the appeal that the game's greatest spectacle holds for its followers. . . . One gent was found barefooted, contentedly smoking a pipe. . . . Scores of the regular fans were high in their praise of the sponsors' decision to shift the annual classic to Northwestern's comfortable and accessible stadium. . . . Transportation facilities to the site clicked smoothly before and after the game. . . . The elevated lines ran a series of express trains to the Central avenue station on a rush hour basis from 5 o'clock until the kickoff at 8:30 p. m., and followed up that service with a fleet of loop bound trains after the game. . . . Many fans used the North Shore Lines to the Central avenue station. . . . In spite of the weather the superior visibility of Dyche stadium's seats was demonstrated as soon as the field lights were turned on at 7:50 o'clock.

The Board of Trade post band of the American Legion, directed by Col. Armin Hand, and the Frank Bennett singers entertained the crowd in the first of the pre-game ceremonies, preceding the entrance of the All-Stars at 8 o'clock. . . . The Glenview naval air station then contributed a smart blend of music and precision drilling, with Lt. Fred Cook commanding the 60 marchers and Chief J. R. Darwin the band. . . . Elmer Layden, president of the National Football league and commissioner of professional football, then appeared on a special stand in midfield and presented the Joe Carr memorial trophy to Don Hutson as the most valuable player in the league in 1942. . . . It was the great Green Bay end's fifth All-Star appearance in 10 years. . . . Don had played once as an All-Star, twice as a Packer, and appeared again last year as the recipient of the Carr trophy for his 1941 performance.

Fielding H. Yost, retired athletic director and football coach of the University of Michigan, and Cadet Bruce Smith of the Navy then followed Commissioner Layden and Hutson to the center stand, with Mr. Yost presenting Bruce with the trophy awarded annually by a vote of newspaper men to the All-Star adjudged most valuable to the Collegians in the preceding year's game. . . . This presentation by the veteran Wolverine to the young ex-Gopher was followed by one of the most impressive ceremonies of the evening—the raising of the Colors. . . . The lights were turned off and a gigantic American flag was unfurled across the north end of the field while the Star Spangled Banner was played. . . . Announcer Ted Canty then introduced each of the starting players individually, with a spotlight being trained on each as he stepped on the field.

The crowd had no trouble in identifying the Redskins individually, for each of the burgundy hued jerseys carried large white numerals, fore and aft. . . . Brig. Gen. George E. Hartman, Col. Glen Jacoby, Col. William Pence, and Maj. Fred McCaw came in from Camp Ellis, Ill. Rear Adm. A. C. Read of the naval air technical command was on hand. . . . George S. May, originator of the All-American golf tournaments at Tam o' Shanter, entertained a party of 35 friends in the west section. . . . Within a few days, George will announce another championship golf event, to be played at his club within less than a month. . . . The Great Lakes delegation included Capt. E. A. Loftquist, chief of staff, and Lt. Comdr. J. Russell Cook, the station's athletic officer. . . . Jimmy Conzelman, former Cardinal coach, watched the game with his new boss, Donald Barnes of the St. Louis Browns. . . . Mayor and Mrs. Edward J. Kelly were also among the spectators. . . . Head Coach Harry Stuhldreher of the All-Stars, and his assistants—Babe Horrell, Lt. Tony Hinkle, Wally Butts, Frank Leahy, and Lynn Waldorf—were guests of the Wake at the Edgewater Beach hotel after the game.

Jack Mara, president of the New York Giants, told friends that the playing days of Tuffy Leemans, former All-Star, are practically over and that the hard running back has been signed as a back field coach. . . . He's already at work on his new duties in the Giants' training camp in Bear Mountain, N. Y. . . . The spirit of the All-Stars is best reflected in the remark one of the collegians made to another just before the kickoff. . . . He said, "Gosh, it's going to be tough to leave all of this, isn't it!" . . . Bob Zimmy, one of the All-Star tackles, was a right disappointed young fellow when team physicians discovered that he was

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Jakie Wade, who has spent the greater portion of the season as one of the ornaments in the White Sox bull pen, stepped into an active role at the request of his boss yesterday and the result, while highly satisfactory for the James Dykes' crowd, was exceedingly painful for Connie Mack's Athletics. The latter thought they had been refreshened no end by the breaking of their 20 game losing streak the previous evening, but Jake's southpawing restored them to their customary state with a 4 to 0 prescription and at the same time boosted the Sox into fourth place, a half game in front of the Detroit Tigers.

Occasional Jake, who now owns two victories for the year against six assessments, handled everything so neatly that he yielded only four hits, and he interspersed these with seven strikeouts. Only one of the visiting artists reached second, this honor falling to Roberto Estalella in the fourth, when his single along with a similar smack by Irving Hall, made the feat possible.

Three Hits for Appling.

The Sox weren't exactly murderous as hitters against Arnie Arntzen, but what they lacked in numbers they made up for either in distance or by concentrated shelling. They peeled off three safe thumps in the first inning for a pair of runs and three more for a lone run in the third and one for the final marker in the fourth. Thereafter they were more or less subdued, possibly indicating the need of a tone-up tonic to restore the energy expended by the six games in the three previous days.

Luke Appling, who in Tuesday's double affair was forced to shave a bit from his healthy batting average, found Arntzen a most delightful opponent. The bronzed Luke helped himself to three singles in four attempts and drove in the first three runs. Following on Luke's heels was Ralph Hodgin with a single and double and a pass, the latter two happenings being hooked up with Luke's first two hits.

Moses Steals No. 41.

The opening incidents in Arntzen's effort for the afternoon were a single by Moses and a pass to Hodgin. They worked a double steal, making 41 burglaries for the former, while Curtright was fanning and Appling singled them across the counter. Hodgin got himself into the third inning incident by doubling to right and Appling again singled him home.

The last Sox run followed a lead-off double by Turner in the fourth. Wade's bunt put him on third and he scrambled home on Moses' fly.

William and Mary Drops Football During the War

TWO HIGHLIGHTS OF A GREAT DUEL

Bob Steuber of Missouri gathers momentum on his 50 yard touchdown dash which put the All-Stars off to a lead over the Washington Redskins in the 10th annual All-Star game last night in Dyche stadium. The speedy half back already has sprinted past George Smith (47), while Willie Wilkin (36) looks on from the background and Otto Graham of Northwestern slows up to take care of Jack Jenkins, the Redskin to the extreme right. BACKS ASTOUND SHAUGHNESSY

Pitt Chief Has Praise for Baugh, Too.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

"Unholy smokes," exclaimed Clark Shaughnessy, the phrase being the strongest in the vocabulary of the famous football coach and T formation master, "I never saw such a collection of backs on any one aggregation."

Then Shaughnessy, almost the only articulate individual in the Washington Redskin dressing room, raised a bony finger and tapped his left hand seven times as he rattled off these names: "Graham, Steuber, Harder, Kennedy, Renfro, Farris, Dobbs," and added as tho he couldn't believe it: "And there are some more, too, I can't think of right now."

This was the tribute of Pitt's new coach to the All-Stars after their crushing 27 to 7 victory last night over the professional champions in Dyche stadium.

Then, still in command of the floor [Owner George Preston hadn't arrived yet] Shaughnessy had some soothing words for the glum, almost speechless Redskins.

"When Sam's Off, He's Off."

"The All-Stars had a tremendous advantage in man power and the Redskins were a little unlucky. They didn't get one break. I thought that Sam Baugh played a wonderful game."

Then he asked Joe Zeno, Washington tackle who was standing near by: "Who's No. 21? What a game he played!"

Informed that No. 21 was Dick Farman, the Redskins' great guard, Shaughnessy asked to be introduced and then congratulated Dick.

Bob McChesney, Redskins' veteran end, was the first player to reach the clubhouse. He came in shaking his head and muttering somewhat like a fighter who has just been dragged to his stool after being counted out.

"When Sam's off, he's off," said Bob, not in criticism of his great teammate, but making an honest statement while still wound up from the heat of battle.

$64 Questions Fly.

"Yeah," answered Jack listlessly. There were $64 questions in the littered dressing room.

Pretty soon Turk Edwards, the assistant coach, came in. Some one asked him what he thought about it.

Dutch Bergman, the Redskins'

COACHES LAUD ALL-STAR PLAY

Collegians Jubilant Over One-Sided Victory.

Jubilant All-Stars roared into their dressing room after administering a 27 to 7 licking to the Washington Redskins at Dyche stadium last night. For the first time in five years the collegians had something to cheer about and they took advantage of it.

The boys surged around their co-captains, Dick Wildung of Minnesota and Al Wistert of Michigan, whose mighty line play had a lot to do with bottling up the Redskins' attack. Congratulations were exchanged on every hand and cries of "nice going," "swell job" reverberated thruout the room.

Coach Praises Boys.

Head Coach Harry Stuhldreher, almost trampled underfoot while getting thru the mass of humanity outside the door, finally got into the dressing quarters and made his way up and down the lockers expressing his appreciation to every player.

"The boys took advantage of every opportunity, was the way in which Stuhldreher summed up the first All-Star victory since the same Washington Redskins were defeated, 28 to 16, in 1938. I think our fine condition had a lot to do with our ability to carry the fight to them right up to the final minute."

Assistant Coach Tony Hinkle of Great Lakes thought the turning point of the game was Otto Graham's 97 yard return of an intercepted pass in the third quarter, which widened the collegians' lead to 20 to 7.

Redskins Lose Punch.

"Washington had driven deep into our territory and was seriously threatening when Graham intercepted Baugh's pass on the 3 yard line," Hinkle said. "After that they didn't seem to have enough punch left to get another march started."

One of the happiest players in the All-Star locker room was Vic Lindskog of Stanford, who was a member of last year's team that lost to the Bears, 21 to 0. "They weren't as tough as the Bears," said the big center, "or maybe it was that we were a lot stronger than last year."

Waldorf Beams on Graham.

Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern, who had been an assistant coach on many of the All-Star teams, beamed proudly as he slapped Graham on the back and offered well meant congratulations to his brilliant star.

Obviously elated over his own touchdown run, Graham thought the neatest performance of the game was Pat Harder's touchdown on a reverse play for the final score of the game. "Pat took the ball out of my hands and really made tracks for the goal line," Otto said. "I can understand now how he gave us so much trouble these last two years."

SPEEDY BACKS BREAK 4-YEAR PRO MONOPOLY

BY WILFRID SMITH.

All-Star speed and passes, a spectacular double-edged sword of victory, crushed the Washington Redskins, 27 to 7, last night in Dyche stadium. The collegians scored in each quarter and after 20 minutes of the battle few in the throng of 48,000 questioned the final result.

The 10th game in the series promoted by the Chicago Tribune Charities, which netted approximately $200,000, will be etched in memory as long as football is played. It was most satisfying to a vast majority, since it ended four years' domination by the National Football league champions. Then, too, this game, which started under unfavorable weather conditions, tested the loyalty of fans whose support has made this event the greatest of its kind in American sport.

Above all, last night's All-Star victory will be remembered because fundamentally it was superior football, a contest in which the most expert college stars performed with greater poise and skill than the post-graduates they conquered.

All-Stars in Every Sense.

The 1943 college men upheld their name of All-Stars. It would be unfair, unquestionably, to single out any player in this team victory. But despite the All-Star coherence on attack and an alert defense, which contributed two of the four touchdowns, the leaders in the victory parade must be given headlines.

There was Bob Steuber of Missouri, the fastest man on a fast team. Steuber returned a punt by Leroy Zimmerman 50 yards thru an astounded Redskin eleven for the Stars' first touchdown. Washington was able to match this score just after the start of the second period. Then came Pat Harder.

The Wisconsin full back, who sparked the Badgers' Western conference play last fall, took a short pass and raced 20 yards to score. He also converted after both college touchdowns and thus the All-Stars led at the intermission, 14 to 7.

Graham Runs 97 Yards.

Now it was Otto Graham's turn. With the Redskins threatening to tie the game early in the third period, the Northwestern star intercepted a pass on his own 3 yard line and went down the east side line behind excellent interference to the Washington goal. This 97 yard sprint, in which he outmaneuvered two tacklers, was as brilliant a run as historic Dyche stadium has seen.

Harder climaxed the All-Stars' scoring in the fourth quarter by running 33 yards for the fourth touchdown. On a cleverly concealed reverse, he took the ball from Graham and sped around the Redskins' right flank to cross the goal line at the northwest corner. This time Graham kicked the point for final tabulation.

This sketch of the scoring plays by no means gives an accurate synopsis of the night of thrills. The All-Stars' last touchdown, which was not at all essential to prove the collegians' superiority, was in itself the fundamental reason for victory. These All-Stars never quit trying.

Baugh's Passes Gain 273 Yards.

Down field blocking, where the effort of one man can be the difference between success and failure, was excellent. And the All-Star line never ceased rushing the Washington passers. Here was the best defense the college men had against the accuracy of Sammy Baugh, who completed 22 passes in 41 attempts. These passes

SCHROEDER WILL DEFEND TENNIS SINGLES CROWN

The champion has been in doubt whether he would be able to compete because his naval duties might call him away but Walter Merrill Hall, chairman of the championship committee, said today Schroeder will be in this area during the tournament.

2D CHICAGOLAND COACHES CLINIC PLANNED TODAY

The second annual Chicagoland area football coaches clinic will be held today at the north end of Soldiers' field. Admission is free.

The program will open at 10 o'clock with Ray Eliot, Illinois football coach, speaking on defensive line play. Doug Mills, athletic director, will discuss the Illinois system of offense an hour later. Illinois line coach, Tony Blazine, will talk on offensive line play at 2 o'clock and Eliot will close the program an hour later with the topic of single and double wing backs.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Beautiful II., an 8 year old horse bred in Argentina, imported from Australia by Louis B. Mayer and now owned by Mrs. E. L. Hopkins, won the $7,500 Meadowland handicap yesterday on the Washington Park turf course.

In beating Blueberry Pie by a length, he set a new track record of 2:03 3-5 for the mile and a quarter on grass. Blue Pennant was third after which Take Wing, Grasshopper II., and Put In completed the field in that order.

This was the fourth and last of the turf course stakes run during the coördinated Arlington Park-Washington Park meeting. Put In won the first two [one of them on Take Wing's disqualification], and Blue Pennant took the third.

Tires but Stays in Front.

Beautiful II. was held at somewhat less than 6 to 1 in yesterday's event, his payoff being $13.60, $5.60, and $3.20 across the board.

Under Jesse Higley's riding, Beautiful II. followed Grasshopper II. around the clubhouse turn, went up alongside the pacesetter in the back stretch, forged ahead on the last turn, opened up a lead of three lengths in the straightaway and then tired but had enough left to stall off Blueberry Pie and Blue Pennant.

Occupy, John Marsch's speedy colt, will go to the post today in the $5,000 Prairie State stake in an effort to regain some of the prestige he lost when his stablemate, Jezrahel, beat him by a narrow margin in the Arlington Futurity.

Woolf Seeks Fourth Victory.

Occupy and another one of his stablemates, Broadcloth, will be tuning up for the rich Washington Park Futurity, which will be run a week from Saturday.

Among the 14 overnight entries for today's six furlong dash are six other Futurity eligibles—Pukka Gin, Albuldo, Wild Rice, Brinks, Bolo's Choice, and American Eagle.

Occupy's chief opposition today is expected to come from a pair of fillies, Doggone and Durazna, and from C. V. Whitney's Pukka Gin. The latter will be ridden by George Wolf, who will be seeking his fourth victory in four stakes since coming to Chicago last week. He won on Alorter, Georgie Drum and Askmenow in the juvenile stakes, the Woodward Memorial and the Beverly handicap, respectively. Doggone and Durazna finished second and third behind Alorter in the juvenile.

If Occupy should deliver a particularly impressive performance in today's event it would tighten up the competition considerably in the Futurity. This full brother of Occupation was beaten by Alorter in the Primer stakes previous to his defeat by his stablemate in the Arlington Futurity.

All-Stars Take Cubs' Minds Off Pittsburgh

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 25.—The Cubs' final 1943 departure from New York was delayed till midnight tonight, and many of the lads thus were afforded an opportunity to get flashes from the All-Star game. A departure time arranged earlier—9:35 o'clock, Chicago time—would have precluded getting the football news hot off the griddle, so the later push off was welcomed by one and all.

The Cubs will open a five game series with the Pirates in Pittsburgh tomorrow. Despite Paul Derringer's home run pitching in one inning of work against the Giants yesterday and his wildness also in blowing his start in Brooklyn, Manager Jim Wilson insisted he would give his old Cincy buddy still another chance to improve his record as a Cub—which, as all fans know, is a most unimposing tabulation.

Derringer, who has become known as Wilson's "suicide pitcher," because his flop as a Cub washes back on Skipper Jim, is scarcely that bad. Wilson's insistance that Derringer would bear down for him, has proved a mistake, but Derringer has pitched a few good games.

The Cubs will play the Pirates in the afternoon tomorrow, will engage in a night game Friday, an afternoon game Saturday and a double header Sunday. Then on to Cincinnati.

WILL MEET GREAT LAKES.

DODGERS BEAT PIRATES, 6-4.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 25 (AP).—The Brooklyn Dodgers collected five runs in the third inning on two hits and a pair of wild throws and went on to whip the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6 to 4, today. DISTRICT GOLF PROGRAM TODAY LISTS 3 EVENTS

The Chicago district golf program today includes three events, the annual golfing outing of the Bowling Proprietors of Greater Chicago, the Oak Park Country club's Auchtermuchty, and the annual tourney of the Chicago Patrolmen's club. The bowlers will gather at St. Andrews in West Chicago, where Chairman Barney Hochstadter has arranged a program that will include a softball game between star bowlers and a team composed of radio and newspaper men, in addition to golfing over the No. 2 course.

President Harry Larson and Athletic Chairman Frank Cronin of the Patrolmen's club anticipated a field of 500 policemen and their guests for the tourney at Itasca. The Auchtermuchty also is assured of another strong field at Oak Park.

ALL-STARS BEAT REDSKINS, 27-7, IN ANNUAL GAME

Graham Makes 97 Yard Runback of Pass.

The men who scored for the All-Stars had mates of equal prominence. None will forget the work of Glenn Dobbs of Tulsa, who completed nine passes in 13 attempts for 116 yards. Dobbs beat Baugh, the old master, at his own specialty, and his rifle shots probably were the principal factor in the third period when Washington definitely was outdistanced.

We must continue the roster of stars. Dick Renfro, the defensive quarter back—Tom Farris came in each time the college men had the ball—deserves mention. So does Bob Kennedy of Washington State, who divined Baugh's intent and never faltered on defense. Others on the list were Steve Filipowicz, Fordham's plunger; Jim Dewar of Indiana, and Charlie Trippi of Georgia, who was a threat at the Washington tackles.

Stars' Line Blocks Well.

Consider, too, the All-Star line men. Here was speed and finesse as well as accurate hard blocking. The co-captains of the Stars, Dick Wildung of Minnesota and Al Wistert of Michigan, never turned in better games. Félix Bucek of Texas A. & M., Garrard Ramsey of William and Mary, Julie Franks of Michigan, and Alex Kapter of Northwestern were outstanding guards.

Vic Lindskog, the Stanford veteran, and Bill Remington of Washington State were standout players at center. And no recitation of All-Star supremacy would be complete without mention of Pete Pihos of Indiana and Bill Huber of Notre Dame. This pair of ends, who were sophomores last season, played aggressively on defense and blocked with precision on attack.

The statistics on rushing showed the All-Stars' superiority in this department, but there is no column of figures to indicate why Washington's air attack was held to one touchdown nor why half of the college scores came from speed and alertness.

Baugh, as was expected, was the spearhead of the Redskins' attack. His tosses were instrumental in the 71 yard scoring drive climaxed by a five yard touchdown pass to Joe Aguirre after which Bob Masterson kicked the point. But this was forgotten after the heartbreaking sprints by Steuber, Graham, and Harder.

PLAY-BY-PLAY DESCRIPTION OF ALL-STAR GAME

FOLLOWING is the play by play account of the 10th annual All-Star game between the College All-Stars and the Washington Redskins, champions of the National Football league, held last night in Dyche stadium:

FIRST QUARTER.

The Redskins won the toss and elected to receive, Bob Steuber of Missouri kicked off for the All-Stars, the ball going out of bounds on the 35 yard line. In two smashes at center, Bob Seymour, Redskins full back, picked up 13 yards and a first down on the Pros' 48 yard line. Three times more he pounded at center for 11 yards and another first down on the All-Stars 41 yard line.

Seymour added three yards at right guard, but was stopped for a three yard loss on the next play. Baugh's short pass over center was incomplete and Masterson's attempted field goal from the 48 yard line was taken by Otto Graham on the 5 yard line. He was run out of bounds on the All-Stars 20 yard line.

Steuber Scores for Stars.

Pat Harder swept right end for 11 yards, Graham went over tackle for two yards. Harder fumbled and lost three yards and Graham punted 44 yards to Bagarus who returned four yards to the Redskins' 30 yard line. Masterson fumbled and recovered Baugh's lateral pass for a 12 yard loss. Two plays gained but four yards and Zimmerman punted to Steuber who raced 50 yards thru a broken field for a touchdown. Harder kicked the extra point and the All-Stars led, 7 to 0.

Baugh passed to Moore for three yards. Another pass, Baugh to McChesney, was good for 14 yards and a first down on the Redskins' 42 yard line. Seymour fumbled Baugh's pass and Wistert recovered for the All-Stars on the Redskins' 48 yard line. After two plays gained but three yards, Graham passed to Pete Pihos for 12 yards and a first down on the 38 yard line. Graham swept left end for nine yards and was removed from the game with a leg injury. He was replaced by Charles Trippi of Georgia. Harder's fumble was recovered by Masterson on the Redskins' 29 yard line.

Seymour circled left end for 6 yards. A pass, Baugh to Seymour, made two yards. After Hare was held for no gain at center, Seymour hit off left tackle for 9 yards and a first down on the Redskins' 47 yard line. Baugh rifled a pass to McChesney for 10 yards and Moore swept right end for 11 yards and a first down on the All-Stars' 27 yard line as the first quarter ended.

Score: All-Stars, 7; Redskins, 0.

SECOND QUARTER.

Baugh's short pass was incomplete, but on the next play he shot a 21 yard pass to Moore on the All-Star's 6 yard line. Seymour punched center for one yard and Baugh passed to Aguirre in the end zone for a touchdown. Masterson kicked the extra point to tie the score: All-Stars, 7; Redskins, 7.

Masterson kicked off to Jim Dewar of Indiana who returned 21 yards to the All-Stars' 29. Unable to gain in two plays, Trippi kicked to the Redskins' 29 yard line. Baugh quick kicked to the All-Stars' 24. Trippi picked up 8 yards in two off tackle smashes. Farris lateraled to Filipowicz who swept right end for 5 yards and a first down on the All-Star's 37. Trippi went inside left tackle for 7 yards. Two plays failed to gain and Trippi kicked to the Redskins' 30.

Jenkins punched center for 3 yards and Baugh passed wide to Masterson for 20 yards on the All-Stars' 47. Sammy shot a pass over center to Halcupek for 3 yards. Two more passes were incomplete and Baugh kicked to Glenn Dobbs who returned 10 yards to the 20. The Redskins were penalized for holding on the play, giving the All-Stars possession on their 43 yard line.

Harder Gives Stars Lead.

Dobbs was thrown for a 10 yard loss on an attempted pass. He passed to Filipowicz for 4 yards and then shot a long aerial to Kennedy for 19 yards on the Redskins' 44. A wide pass to Filipowicz gained 3 yards. Dobbs passed wide to Harder for 14 yards and a first down on the 26. After two passes were incomplete Dobbs shot a wide pass to Harder, who ran 20 yards for a touchdown. Harder kicked the extra point. All-Stars, 14; Redskins, 7.

Steuber kicked off to Jenkins, who returned 15 yards to the Redskins' 40. Baugh lost 12 yards on an attempted pass, but he made it back on a pass to Begarus as the second quarter ended.

Score: All-Stars, 14; Redskins, 7.

THIRD QUARTER.

Steuber kicked off to Bagarus who returned 49 yards to midfield. Seymour made three at center and Baugh passed to Bagarus for eight and a first down on the All-Stars' 39. Baugh's long pass was intercepted by Steuber on the Collegians' 18. Three plays failed to gain and Graham kicked out of bounds on the All-Stars' 49 yard line. Held to four yards in three plays, Baugh kicked out of bounds on the All-Stars' 26. Wilkin tossed Harder for a six yard loss. Harder made two yards back on the next play and Graham kicked to the All-Stars 44.

Seymour fumbled and recovered for a two yard loss. Baugh passed wide to Bagarus for 10 yards. Seymour lacked inches of a first down on the next play, but made the necessary distance on fourth down. Baugh passed to Seymour for 18 yards and a first down on the 18 yard line. After Baugh's pass was incomplete, Sammy shot another over center which was intercepted by Graham who raced 97 yards for a touchdown. Harder's attempt for the extra point was blocked.

Score: All-Stars, 20; Redksins, 7.

Baugh Forced to Punt.

Steuber's kickoff struck the goal posts for an automatic touchback, placing the ball on the Redskins' 20 yard line. Baugh passed to Aguirre for a first down on the Redskins' 31. Ray Ebli of Notre Dame tossed Baugh for a 10 yard loss on an attempted pass. Another pass was incomplete and Baugh punted to Tommy James of Ohio State on the All-Stars' 44.

Dobbs' pass to Paul Sizemore gained 12 yards. Two more passes missed their mark and Dobbs kicked over the goal line for a touchback. After three passes gained but seven yards, Baugh tossed a fourth down pass to Seymour, who raced 23 yards to the Redskins' 49 yard line as the third quarter ended. Score: All-Stars, 20; Redskins, 7.

FOURTH QUARTER.

Two passes were incomplete and on third down Baugh's long pass was intercepted by Dobbs, who returned 20 yards to the Redskins' 44. The collegians were penalized five yards for offside but Dobbs made it back on the next play. Two plays made but six yards and Dobbs kicked over the goal line for a touchback. On the first play Baugh passed to McChesney, who was knocked out of bounds on the All-Stars' 42.

Dick Wildung broke thru and tackled Baugh for a 10 yard loss on an attempted pass. Unable to gain in two more plays, Baugh kicked over the goal line for a touchback. Dobbs rifled a pass to Kennedy for 11 yards. Harder made a yard at center and Dobbs got off a quick kick that rolled to the Redskins' 30. Two of Baugh's passes missed the mark. Another aerial to Haloupek was completed on the Redskins' 39 yard line, but the receiver fumbled and Kennedy recovered for the collegians. Kennedy swept right end for 15 yards to the Redskins' 24 yard line. Farris fumbld the pass from center and Farman recovered for Washington on its 17 yard line.

Baugh's Passes Fail.

Baugh failed to connect on three pass attempts and kicked out of bounds on the All-Stars' 44 yard line. Graham hit over center and broke into the clear for an 18 yard gain. Harder picked up two yards and Graham got another. Harder, on a reverse, broke thru the right side of the Washington line and ran 33 yards for a touchdown. Graham added the point by placement.

Score: All-Stars, 27; Washington Redskins, 7.

Irish kicked off for the All-Stars to Hare, who returned 22 yards to the Redskins' 37 yard line. A pass failed, and an intentional grounding of a second toss set Washington back to the 21 yard mark. Baugh then fired a pass to Masterson good for 23 yards. Hare made it first down on the midfield stripe. Baugh then tossed the ball to Moore for a seven yard profit, but another try was incomplete. The Redskins were penalized 15 yards for offensive interference. Baugh completed a short pass to Hare as the game ended. Final score: All-Stars, 27; Redskins, 7.

All-Star Backs Amaze Coach Shaughnessy

"Well, a very good game."

"Those All-Stars played a great game," was full back Bob Seymour's tribute. We weren't alert enough."

"All-Stars Deserved to Win."

Owner Marshall marched up to Bergman and said:

"They had all the breaks."

Then he added:

"We had too many handicaps to overcome. Dutch didn't have enough time to get his system properly installed. He couldn't do the work which was necessary because of too few players. The All-Stars were in better shape because they had been able to scrimmage. But, in the last analysis, the All-Stars deserved to win. They had a fine bunch of backs. I think Baugh gave a great exhibition and had he been in top condition it might have been a different story."

But maybe Shaughnessy had the right answer when he started counting off all those brilliant All-Star backs.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Gail Compton

Aug. 25, 1943.

THE fall webworms are leaving their usual trail of destruction thru the orchards and woods this year. During late summer and fall the damage done by these ugly caterpillars becomes conspicuous. They weave dirty white webs about the ends of branches or groups of twigs and defoliate the wood.

Several wild cherry trees have been attacked at the Wheaton farm. In the orchards the apple and cherry trees are suffering, and in the woods the box elders and hickories are decked with the webs. The webworm is a general feeder but prefers the wild cherry, apple, elm, sycamore, willow, hickory, and box elder. This year none of the oaks seems to have been damaged.

The larvae or caterpillars, which are pale yellow with black spots and are covered with whitish hairs, live within the webs and feed on foliage. Where these worms settle, no foliage survives. They devour all leaves and buds, leaving a barren branch or twig.

Hide in Trash.

These insects pass the winter in the form of brown pupae, enclosed in lightly woven cocoons. The favorite hiding spot for the cocoons is a trash pile or heap of leaves. They generally stay on the ground but once in a while winter under the bark of a tree.

The moths begin to emerge from the cocoons in the spring and continue to come out for a long time. Both sexes are winged and satiny white, sometimes with brown or black spots. The moths lay their eggs on leaves, in masses partly covered by white hairs. Caterpillars hatching from these eggs construct the unsightly webs over the leaves and set to work feeding.

The caterpillars feed for about one month or six weeks and then crawl down the tree to spin cocoons. Adults emerge from the cocoons late in the summer and lay eggs for a second generation of worms in the early fall which, upon becoming full grown, spin cocoons in which they pass the winter.

Wise to Burn Branches.

The best control of the webworm is a poisonous spray. In young orchards and on shade trees it is wise to remove the infected branches by hand and burn them. In spraying use two tablespoonfuls of arsenate of lead to a gallon of water. In orchards where a regular spraying schedule is followed there will be no danger of the worms getting a start.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

A PAIR or scissors has been added to the farm gardener's supply of garden tools. He is using the shears from his wife's mending kit to cut some of the foliage on the tomato vines and hasten the ripening of the tomatoes. By eliminating some of the foliage which is shading the fruit clusters, he allows the sun to reach the green tomatoes and force ripening.

This cutting can increase tomato yields in two ways. It hastens the ripening of the mature fruits, insuring that they can be removed sooner than under normal cultivation. In addition, the earlier removal of the large fruits allows the plant energy to go into small tomatoes just beginning to form.

It now is a race between these small tomatoes and the weatherman to determine if they will ripen before killed by frost. The early removal of the larger tomatoes helps them along.

Home owners who love their trees should get rid of the ugly pests. Aside from actual harm to the tree, the webworms leave an unsightly scar on the luxury of late summer and early fall foliage.

WORLD MONEY PLAN EXPERTS TO MEET TODAY

Hope to Sell Scheme to Middle West.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The proponents of the three major plans for post-war "currency stabilization" will explain their proposals at a meeting which opens this morning in the Shoreland hotel.

Graham F. Towers [Canada]

The conference, regarded by some as the first effort to sell the middle west on a program of post-war financial aid to foreign countries, will be attended by 180 men representing the major financial and industrial interests of the middle west.

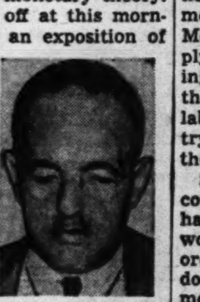
The meeting is sponsored by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and the reserve banks of St. Louis, Minneapolis, Kansas City, and Cleveland.

White, Towers to Speak.

Speakers at today's conference will include Harry White, author of the United States's treasury's stabilization plan; Graham F. Towers, governor of the Bank of Canada, and Prof. D. H. Robertson and Redvers Opie, British monetary experts.

John Maynard Keynes, British economist and author of the British stabilization plan, was unable to attend the meeting. The British viewpoint will be explained by Robertson and Opie, now attached to the British embassy in Washington. Robertson, who is a professor at the London school of economics, is described by admirers as the world's leading expert on monetary theory.

White will lead off at this morning's session with an exposition of the American treasury's plans for post-war currency management. He will be followed by Robertson and Opie. At the afternoon session Towers will present the Canadian plan, which is regarded by some as a possible compromise between the plans advanced by the United States and Great Britain.



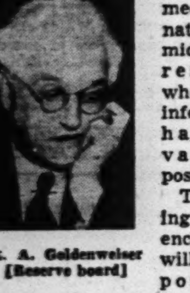
Harry White [U. S. treasury]

Viner Is Dinner Speaker.

Other speakers who will discuss the proposed plans include Dr. E. A. Goldenweiser, director of research and statistics of the federal reserve board, and John K. Langum, research director of the Chicago reserve bank.

The morning and afternoon sessions will not be open to the public or to newspaper men. The conference will be concluded with a dinner meeting tonight at which Prof. Jacob Viner, American monetary authority, will speak. The evening session will be open to news reporters.

Officials of the Chicago reserve bank emphasized yesterday that the idea for the meeting originated with the middle western reserve banks who wish to get information first hand on the various proposals.



E. A. Goldenweiser [Reserve board]

Those attending the conference, they said, will have the opportunity to question the speakers about the plans and offer ideas or criticisms.

Palyi Says They Hide Aim.

Dr. Melchior Palyi, Hungarian born financial economist and one of the most severe critics of the various plans, said yesterday the American as well as the other plans conceal their real purpose.

"The White plan," he said, "would amount in effect to lawfully expropriating a substantial part of America's national wealth. This proposal and similar ones made by the British and Canadian governments, pretend to bring equilibrium into international balances of payments, but in reality all they propose is to have the United States pay for the deficits in the foreign trade of other countries and to maintain their exchange rates at our expense. Obviously, the purpose of the game is to exact from this country a vast amount of money under false pretenses."

Benjamin F. Anderson, another leading American economist, has criticized the proposals on similar grounds. The viewpoint of Palyi and Anderson is shared by many others who believe that the financial aid the United States should extend to foreign countries after the war should be done openly and not under the guise of currency stabilization. Not once, it has been pointed out, does the word "borrow" appear in the American treasury plan altho the means is provided by which foreign countries could draw on this country for substantial credits.

Illinois Bank Deposits Near 2 Billion Total

WLB Seizure of Shipyards Is Denounced

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—An industrialist denounced the national war labor board today for what he described as sacrifice of the war program to put New Deal social reforms into effect. The charge was made as the board prepared to order government seizure of his repair plant under authority delegated to it last week by the President because the company refused to comply with its order.

The plant is the Atlantic Basin Iron Works, Brooklyn, N. Y., which employs about 800 men. On June 16 the company was ordered to include a union security clause, involving maintenance of membership, in its contract with the CIO union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America.

Resists Forced Clause.

Bernard A. Moran, president of the company, steadfastly has refused to comply with the board's order, asserting the maintenance of membership provision is a form of closed shop that cannot legally be forced upon his company.

Because Moran's company refused to comply with a WLB order issued on June 16 the board ordered him to appear before it today to show cause why the company shouldn't be forced to comply.

Chairman William H. Davis and other members declared during the hearing that they would recommend government seizure of the plant unless Moran agreed immediately to comply. Moran stated flatly at the hearing he will not comply, charging the board with favoritism toward labor and failure to recognize industry's contribution toward winning the war.

Speaking of his own company's contribution, Moran asserted: "We have done a hell of a good job. I would like that to go into the record, and I can substantiate it by a dozen letters from all the government agencies that we do business with.

Challenge Public Member.

"And I will say to Mr. Morse [Wayne L. Morse, public member of the board] that if we have to sacrifice the war effort for social gains, it is too bad, and that is what you would be doing if you take my plant."

Morse, replying to Moran, denounced industrial concerns that have refused to accept the maintenance of membership provision without protest. He said:

"I have said on the record, and repeat now, that in my judgment if this board could not protect unions from such employers during the war, then the nonstrike, nolockout agreement, of course, would be a most unfair agreement from the standpoint of the welfare of the unions."

CHICAGO-LONDON ROUTE ASKED BY AMER. AIRLINES

New York, Aug. 25 (AP).—Application to operate trans-oceanic air services between New York, Chicago, and London terminals was filed today with the civil aeronautics board, American Airlines announced.

Selection by American of the New York-London and Chicago-London routes was the result of its study of foreign air routes which determined that American was "in a position most appropriately to operate economically and efficiently in the public interest," the company said.

Routes applied for, under the direction of the air line's board of directors, were across the North Atlantic following the great circle course. It asked specifically for the right to fly from New York, with an intermediate point at Boston, to London or, in the alternative, Paris, France.

CONGRESS, LAWYERS TOLD THEY MUST END POWER GRABBING ERA

Congress must reassert itself if American liberties are to be preserved, John B. Gontrum, insurance commissioner of Maryland, yesterday told the insurance law section of the American Bar association in the Medinah club.

"The definite, if somewhat fainthearted, efforts of recent months to recover its constitutional authority are healthy and encouraging," he said. He deplored the tendency to concentrate authority in the hands of appointees of the executive.

"Power is a heady mixture," he said. "Federal bureaus are a fertile field for fascist minded politicians. I believe the time has come for American lawyers to cease being merely the excellent mechanics they are and turn again toward the more fundamental tasks of legal, social, and political architecture. We have found that while we have been repairing the roof some one has been busily undermining the foundations of our whole system of government."

McNear Asks U. S. to Return Peoria Road

Return of the Toledo, Peoria, and Western railroad to its owners was requested yesterday by George P. McNear Jr., Peoria, president, in a letter to Joseph B. Eastman, director of the office of defense transportation. The railroad was taken over by the federal government in March, 1942, after a strike by employes over McNear's refusal to accede to what he termed "wasteful featherbed rules" for train and engine employes.

McNear indicated his willingness to pay railroad wages currently in effect, but said he was opposed to reëmploying former employes who "after a full hearing in open court were found to have committed unlawful acts of violence."

Says Payments Are Prevented.

One reason impelling him to request the return of the road is that government possession of the road under present conditions prevents payment by the old management of various obligations which are long past due, he said.

McNear told Eastman that certain important modifications in the featherbed [make work] rules for train and engine employes inaugurated by the ODT director in July, 1942, "indicate an encouraging recognition by the government that our railroad should not be burdened with employe rules involving wastes of man power, equipment, and material, and the slowing up of operations in time of war."

Would Submit Disagreements.

McNear suggested that should the government agree to return the railroad the settlement of all claims against the government be settled by direct negotiations as far as possible, with submission of disagreements to an impartial referee and court adjudication of remaining issues.

He said conditions to resumption of operations would provide that for the remainder of the war the road be operated under pay rates and working conditions understood to be in effect.

Four Million Equipment Loan Asked by Railroad

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25 (AP).—The Baltimore and Ohio railroad applied today to the interstate commerce commission for authority to issue 4 million dollars of equipment trust certificates, series M.

CHICAGO'S JULY BUSINESS RISES

Chicago business last month again made a substantial gain above that of a year ago, altho several important indices failed to equal upturns recorded in June, a study of conditions by the survey department of THE TRIBUNE disclosed yesterday.

Department store sales were higher than a year ago both in the July and seven month comparisons, reflecting expanding purchasing power from improved economic conditions in the Chicago area. Industrial employment, pay rolls, and electric power production all showed smaller gains in July than those recorded in June, but percentage increases were larger in the seven month period than in the six month comparison.

In the following table figures used for the first three items in each period represent index numbers. Other figures are in dollars, kilowatt hours, or numbers of persons or units, as indicated:

Expect F. D. R. to Pick Chief of Reconversion

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25 [Special].—Appointment of a coördinator of the plans which are being made by more than a dozen government departments and agencies for the reconversion of American agriculture and industry to peace will be announced early next week by President Roosevelt, it is understood. It will be a corollary to the plans made at Quebec.

Who is to be the President's choice for the post, which is likely to prove as difficult as it is important, is not yet known. The names of Secretary of Commerce Jesse H. Jones, Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the war production board, and Leo T. Crowley, alien property custodian and head of the office of economic warfare, were mentioned today, but all three were said to have denied to friends that they were seeking or would get the appointment. Lewis W. Douglas, deputy administrator of war shipping, was believed to be another possibility.

Believe Time Is Ripe.

The heads of four of the government branches which would have to participate in the making of post-war plans admitted that they believed the time ripe for an announcement by the government that arrangements were being made to permit industry, when the time comes, to be reconverted without dislocation or undue delay to the manufacture of civilian goods.

They said this would have a salutory effect on war production, now slowed up by the fears of some workers that they were working themselves out of their jobs and the apprehensions of some employers that they may be left high and dry by the sudden ending of munitions contracts. They said that they had been making preliminary plans to discharge that part of the responsibility which would fall on them.

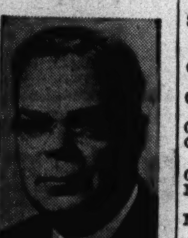
Lack Coördination Now.

The problem is that almost a dozen branches of the government would have to participate in post-war planning, but there is no agency or person to coördinate their thinking, it was said. The national resources planning board was expected to perform this function, but it has been abolished by congress. It is to inspire and coördinate such planning that the President is understood to contemplate the naming of a single man.

The department of agencies which would prepare post-war plans would include the war and navy departments, the maritime commission, the war production board, the commerce department, the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the treasury, the justice department, the department of agriculture, the war man power commission, the federal security agency, the state department, and the office of economic warfare.

ARTHUR PERROW OF ILLINOIS BELL TO RETIRE SOON

Arthur Perrow, secretary and treasurer of the Illinois Bell Telephone company, will retire Sept. 30 at his own request, it was announced yesterday. He had been in the telephone business more than 35 years, having started with the Southwestern Telephone and Telegraph company, Dallas, Tex., in 1908. He became an employe of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company of New York in 1916 and came to Illinois Bell in 1922.



Leo L. Winter.

Leo L. Winter was elected treasurer, Fred Brown, secretary, and George J. McLennan, assistant secretary of the company, effective Oct. 1, President A. H. Mellinger said. Winter and Brown have been with the company since 1912 and McLennan since 1924.

MIDDLE WEST'S EARNINGS GAIN IN 2D QUARTER

6 Month Profit Rises to $1,950,016.

Improved operating results of the Middle West corporation utility system were shown in a report issued to stockholders yesterday by Purcell L. Smith, president. The corporation and its subsidiaries earned $736,024, equal to 22 cents a share, in the June quarter, compared with $648,266 or 19 cents a share in the 1942 period.

Consolidated net income for the first six months of 1943 was $1,950,016, equal to 59 cents a share, against $1,586,796, or 48 cents a share, a year ago. Electric revenues, making up 83 per cent of the system's gross, rose 7 per cent to $34,003,806, reflecting principally increased power demands of industrial consumers.

Central Illinois Gains.

Central Illinois Public Service company, reporting separately because Middle West does not hold voting control, showed a June quarter net profit of $501,060, against $478,976 a year ago, and a six month net profit of $1,054,632, compared with $1,039,086.

Warner Brothers Pictures, reporting for 39 weeks ended May 29, showed a net profit of $5,714,392, equal to $1.46 a share, against $5,371,875, or $1.37 a share, in 1942. Results for the latest period were after a $4,500,000 loss on sale of fixed assets and a tax provision of $11,600,000.

Reliance Manufacturing company, Chicago clothing company whose war time business includes the manufacture of parachutes, reported net earnings of $572,206, equal to $2.85 a share, on common stock, for the six months ended June 30. Earnings in the 1942 period were $444,141, or $1.83 a share.

McKesson Reports for Quarter.

McKesson & Robbins, drug firm, reported June quarter net income amounting to $1,060,583, against $652,012 a year ago, equal to 58 and 34 cents a share in the respective periods.

Grumman Aircraft Engineering corporation, producer of fighter planes, issued a tentative report for the first six months of 1943 but cautioned stockholders that "no accurate estimate of net earnings can be derived" from the statement because the amount may be reduced by renegotiation of government contracts. The report showed net income of $1,697,108 after provision of $6,788,432 for federal taxes, but before post-war refund credit and without provision for renegotiation. A statement for the first half of 1942 listed profits at $4,558,944 before federal taxes.

3 Roads Place Orders for 1,525 Freight Cars

Cleveland, O., Aug. 25 (AP).—The Chesapeake and Ohio, Nickel Plate, and Pere Marquette railroads have ordered a total of 1,525 new freight cars for war time commercial traffic, the three companies reported today. Part of the orders went to General American Transportation corporation, East Chicago, Ind.; Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company, of Michigan City, Ind., and American Car and Foundry company, Madison, Ill.

Stocks Climb in Slow Trade; Listed Companies Earn More

Advance Is Small

New York, Aug. 25 (AP).—Slight progress was made today by rubber, motor, rail, and steel shares in one of the slowest stock market sessions of the year. There was a dearth of selling orders and an almost equal lack of buying enthusiasm, but some "blue chip" issues extended Tuesday's recovery with gains of fractions to about a point.

Dealings totaled 457,280 shares, compared with 482,530 yesterday. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose .2 point, closing at 49.3. Of 737 issues traded 384 closed higher, 159 lower and 194 unchanged.

Fractional gains were made by Goodrich, Goodyear, United States Rubber, General Motors, Chrysler, Santa Fe, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, American Telephone, du Pont, Bethlehem, and Republic Steel.

BOND TRADE SLUGGISH.

New York, Aug. 25 (AP).—In the slowest session in more than a year, bond market prices showed selective improvement today. Several rails gained fractions to a point. Investment interest centered in some of the higher priced industrials and utilities. United States government issues retained a steady undertone in quiet trading.

CHICAGO PRICES GAIN.

Prices on the Chicago Stock exchange moved higher yesterday on turnover of only 16,000 shares. Two new 1943 peaks were reached as 35 stocks advanced, 17 declined, and 26 closed unchanged. Consumers company A closed at a new high of 5, up ¾, and Consumers B at a high of 2⅞, up ⅝. Chicago corporation closed at 4¾, unchanged; Commonwealth Edison at 26½, up ⅛, and Sundstrand at 17, up ¾.

Profit Up 17.7 Pct.

New York, Aug. 25 (AP).—The New York Stock exchange reported today that earnings of 460 corporations listed on the exchange showed a 17.7 per cent gain in profits during the first six months of 1943 over the same period in 1942.

Comparatively few companies reporting midyear profits made any reckoning of the effects of war contract renegotiations, the exchange said. For that reason and other uncertainties, it warned that the rise in earnings "must be viewed with some reservation."

Leading all industries was the amusement group which showed a 49.3 per cent profit increase, reflecting in part the enormous war time public spending power, according to the survey published in the current issue of the exchange magazine.

Few Show Declines.

Estimates of the midyear net income of the 460 listed companies, assembled by industrial groups, follow:

Zone Cement Sales to Save Freight Cars

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—Two orders designed to conserve railroad box car space were issued today by two federal war agencies. The first, by the war production board, restricts deliveries of portland cement within certain zones, effective Sept. 24, to eliminate cross-hauling. The other, by the office of defense transportation, requires railroads to substitute refrigerator cars for box cars requested for certain types of westbound shipments, effective Sept. 1.

The agencies said the orders were intended to make available more box cars for use in hauling grain and other essential commodities. The ODT said its order would compel the use of many refrigerator cars which otherwise would be returned empty to western shippers of perishable commodities.

Exempts Army and Navy.

The cement order establishes more than 90 zones outside which portland cement of given specifications may not be shipped by rail in lots of 20,000 pounds or more, except with prior authority of the WPB. Out of zone deliveries for the army or navy may be made upon prescribed certification, but all such shipments must be reported to WPB within 10 days.

Dr. William Y. Elliott, director of WPB's stockpiling and transportation division, said the zones had been so laid out that a purchaser of cement could call on any of several suppliers entitled to ship to him without special authority.

ODT amended an earlier order to prevent what it termed violation of the spirit of a requirement for capacity loading of tank cars unless otherwise authorized.

Fears Navigation Jam.

Meanwhile the ODT expressed concern over the lateness of Great Lakes coal shipments, warning that there is a possibility of a jam late in the navigation season. A committee of congressmen and senators said recently that with the lake navigation season half over, only a third of the coal normally shipped to dock storage facilities has been received.

Joseph B. Eastman, director of ODT, said today that "there are ample transportation facilities" to transport coal to upper lake ports, "provided supply is made available for loading sufficiently in advance of the close of navigation."

People and Events

Fred F. Murray yesterday was elected president of the Oil Well Supply company, subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, at a meeting of the board in Dallas, Tex. Murray succeeds Benjamin F. Harris of Pittsburgh, Pa., who resigned several months ago. Murray is president of the Petroleum Equipment Suppliers' association and a director of the American Petroleum institute.

William E. Russell, president of the National Canvas Goods Manufacturers association, announced a war conference for Aug. 30 and 31 in the Drake hotel. Scheduled speakers include Maj. Gen. Clifford L. Corbin, assistant army quartermaster general.

The Farm Equipment Institute has canceled its convention scheduled for Oct. 12 and 13 in Chicago with the announcement that member companies are too busy on war work and desire to coöperate with government efforts to curtail travel.

J. E. Jacobs has been appointed manager of the Merchandise Mart's news bureau, succeeding J. N. Stewart, trade promotion manager, who will devote full time to market activities.

WLB REJECTS ILLINOIS MINE WAGE COMPACT

Terms 'Portal Pay' Same as Raise.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25 (AP).—John L. Lewis has failed a second time to get the war labor board's approval for portal-to-portal pay for his United Mine Workers. The board rejected a proposed payment of $1.25 a day on grounds it amounted to a general wage increase contrary to the national stabilization policy.

The $1.25 payment for the time miners spend in travel from the mine mouth to working places was included in a tentative contract between the union and the Illinois Coal Operators association. The WLB rejected it, 8 to 4, with labor members dissenting.

The decision, however, pointed the way for the miners to increase earnings by working eight hours a day, instead of seven, with time and a half for the eighth hour.

Longer Day Uncertain.

The board took the position that time and half after the seventh hour is not a wage increase requiring board approval. For years, the mine workers' contracts have provided for time and half for all time in excess of seven hours in a day and five days in a week.

An eight hour day would add $1.50 a day and upwards to the miners' pay envelopes, but there was no assurance it would go into effect since the board's decision does not require the parties to sign a contract.

The contract submitted for board approval was voluntary and the parties may now discard it. One of its clauses, in fact, makes all provisions interdependent and therefore inoperative unless all provisions are approved. Furthermore, an eight hour day would increase production costs. Unless they were able and willing to absorb these costs, operators would have to get approval of a higher ceiling price from the office of price administration to put the longer day into effect.

Price Change Studied.

However, Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes, the fuel administrator, has authority to order an eight hour day and has indicated he will do so in some mines. OPA is considering what price changes would be necessary.

The board approved other provisions of the Illinois contract, including increased vacation payments and certain free equipment and services amounting to about 25 cents a day. This corresponds with the recent WLB decision in the Appalachian soft coal case.

In the Appalachian decision, the board said it could not approve any pay for underground travel time. Replying to Lewis' contention that the miners have a legal claim for portal-to-portal pay under the wage and hour act, the board said the miners could sue or settle a suit out of court with the operators. BANKERS FIGHT FEDERAL FARM CREDIT GROUPS

Illinois Committee Plans Drive in Congress.

Federal credit agencies which have multiplied under the New Deal create "stepping stones to socialized credit which threatens to destroy free enterprise" unless curbed at once, the Illinois Bankers association asserted yesterday.

The group's committee on agriculture, meeting in the Palmer House, began arranging meetings in various parts of the state to which members of congress will be invited preparatory to a campaign for action against the government agencies when congress reconvenes.

"Most of the competing agencies masquerade as farm coöperatives, but take money out of the federal treasury for loans that private bankers thruout the country are willing and anxious to make in the ordinary course of business," the association said.

Termed Unfair Competition.

"This is unfair competition that the agencies could not carry on if they were subject to the same taxation of established private banking institutions. If there ever was any sound reason for the existence of these competing agencies, it has long disappeared. The money and personnel devoted to their operation could be more profitably employed in the nation's war program."

The federal treasury has provided about 120 million dollars to support loans of about 300 million dollars made by 570 production credit corporations thruout the country, said Ben R. Hoyle of McNabb, Ill., chairman of the bank association's agricultural committee. Twenty-five of them are in Illinois, competing mainly with rural bankers. The competition has become more severe economically with the continued low money rates influenced by the Washington administration, he said.

Will Ask Removal of Funds.

The bankers will demand that congress cut off the source of the competing agencies' federal funds. Much opposition already has been voiced in congress against continuation of federal farm credits under plans begun during the depression, on the theory current farm prosperity has made the agencies unnecessary.

Agencies made the target for the bankers' drive include the federal land banks, farm security administration, regional agricultural credit corporations and production credit associations.

NORTHWESTERN BUYS PEMBRIDGE HOTEL BUILDING

Northwestern university yesterday bought the six story Pembridge hotel building at 1406 Chicago avenue, Evanston, for dormitory use. Harry L. Wells, business manager of the university, reported the purchase price was $120,000. It was bought from the State Bank and Trust company, liquidation trustee for the former bondholders.

The university will take immediate possession in order to make the building available for the fall term, Sept. 10.

The nine story Hotel Guyon, at the northwest corner of Pulaski road and Washington boulevard, containing 305 rooms, was sold yesterday by the Prudence Bond corporation for $425,000, county records show. The buyer was the newly formed First United Guyon corporation, which is controled by the First United Finance corporation. Prudence Bond corporation held a million dollar first mortgage, foreclosed in 1932. Vernon B. Loucks represented the seller.

U. S. Steel Subsidiaries Set Weekly Ingot Peak

New York, Aug. 25 (AP).—United States Steel corporation subsidiaries produced a new record quantity, 600,000 net tons, of steel ingots in the week ended Aug. 23—a rate of 31,285,000 tons a year. The corporation announced today that operations were almost at 100 per cent of theoretical capacity, compared with 96½ in the preceding week and 98 two weeks ago.

LOSS CARRYOVER.

If I sell stocks at a loss this year and have no offsetting gains from sales of securities, can I deduct the loss from my other income? If the loss exceeds my other income can I carry the balance over to next year and deduct it then?—B. D.

Answer: Capital losses may be used to offset capital gains, and any excess of such losses over gains [or net capital loss] may be used to reduce net income up to $1,000 for the year. Thus, if you had a net capital loss of $5,000 for 1943 and net income of $3,000 before taking the capital loss into account, only $1,000 of the capital loss could be used to reduce net income.

The remaining $4,000 loss would be a capital loss carryover, and could be used as an offset against capital gains, and as a deduction from net income up to a $1,000 maximum each year for the next five years.

ILLINOIS MINERS SPURNED BY WLB ON PORTAL PAY

Other Provisions of Pact Approved.

board cautioned, however, that any settlement must be submitted to it with supporting data and must not be "a hidden wage increase."

OFFICIALS HERE MUM.

Officials of the Illinois Coal Operators' association and the United Mine Workers said in Chicago yesterday that they could not talk about the decision of the war labor board concerning portal to portal pay, on the ground that they knew only the bare outlines of the order. Ray Edmundson, UMW chief in Illinois, is in Washington.

From an unofficial source it was learned that the miners may take the position that the labor board action meant that no contract existed with them; that every section of the recently negotiated settlement was "interdependent with the others." It is expected that the mines in Illinois will operate without interruption at least until Oct. 1.

The market for top grade hogs at the Chicago stock yards was pulled down further yesterday toward the $14.75 which big Chicago packers refused to exceed during the last two weeks when a large part of top grades sold above this level. Buyers representing the big packers explained they have taken their cue from the government to hold this line, since this is the ceiling the office of price administration will set on hogs.

The top price declined 10 cents a hundred pounds to $14.95, lowest in six days. Most hogs below 250 pounds sold 5 to 10 cents lower. A large part of the heavier butchers and sows were about steady. The average declined 5 cents to $14.30.

Only 18,000 hogs arrived at the yards, including direct shipments to packers. This was the second smallest Wednesday volume since early May.

CASH OATS RISE TO 15 YEAR TOP; BUYING IS ACTIVE

Aggressive buying lifted the price of choice quality cash oats to 78 cents a bushel, a 15 year peak, on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday.

Reports said comparatively few cash oats will be shipped from the northwest to Chicago, which led to buying of the September future. It advanced 1 cent at one time to 73⅛ cents, with the close ⅝ cent higher. Other oats futures were ⅛ to ¼ cent higher.

Active purchasing of September rye attributed to a northwestern cash grain firm and support from professional traders advanced futures 1⅜ to 2⅛ cents in the early trading. September went to a new high since early in the month and to within ½ cent of the December. The close was ½ cent higher to ⅜ cent lower.

GOV. SCHRICKER TO JOIN IN W-G-N QUIZ PROGRAM

Gov. Henry Schricker of Indiana will be a guest participant in the W-G-N-Mutual quiz program, Double or Nothing, at 8:30 p. m. tomorrow. The show, normally broadcast from New York, will be aired from Indianapolis before a war bond rally in the Coliseum. Contestants will be war workers from plants in the Indianapolis district. Frank Forest, tenor soloist, will sing a medley of Indiana songs.

Maj. Ben Lyon, who has been heard for several years as master of ceremonies of the program, Stars and Stripes in Britain, aired from London over W-G-N-Mutual at noon Tuesdays, has arrived in the United States. Lyon, who is attached to the 8th United States army air force, expects to confer with Hollywood executives on movies involving the air forces.

Jane Green, Chicago radio actress who has been featured in such dramatic shows as "Painted Dreams," "Hot Copy," and "Author's Playhouse," has been signed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios and is to report at Culver City, Cal., next week. Miss Green has been mentioned as a possibility for the starring role in a picture based on the life of Marie Dressler.

Lt. Comdr. Eddie Peabody of Great Lakes is to discontinue appearances on sponsored radio programs, NBC has announced. He will play the banjo for the last time on the National Barn Dance next Saturday night. Peabody is the last of several entertainers who, while in uniform, participated regularly on sponsored programs. Others who discontinued their radio work recently were Lt. Rudy Vallee of the coast guard, Sgt. Gene Autry of the army, and Yeoman Billy Idleson, who played Rush in the serial Vic and Sade.

OPA TO DISCUSS NEW GAS CUT AT MEETING TODAY

Majewski Asks Fight on More Restrictions.

BY ORVILLE DWYER.

Office of price administration rationers, thwarted 10 days ago from slashing midwestern gasoline coupons as deeply as they intended, are meeting in Washington today to discuss another cut for the entire midcontinental area, State Sen. Earl Benjamin Searcy [R., Springfield] asserted yesterday.

The G. O. P. senator, chairman of the Illinois legislative petroleum commission, was informed, he said, that OPA officials fully intended on Aug. 15 to cut the value of A, B, and C coupons from 4 to 2 gallons. They were compelled to compromise and reduce the basic ration 1 gallon, he said, only by protests registered thru meetings of his commission and meetings of middle west United States senators and congressmen in Kansas City, Mo., and Chicago.

Group Meets Tomorrow.

The petroleum commission is scheduled to hold another meeting at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow at 160 North La Salle street. At that time, Searcy said, he and the other members will consider organized opposition to any further midwestern gasoline curtailment.

All regional administrators of OPA, including Raymond S. McKeough, who directs rationing operations for seven states from Chicago, have been summoned to today's Washington meeting.

Benard L. Majewski, vice president of Deep Rock Oil corporation and chairman of the district petroleum industry committee's marketing committee, said that whatever the intentions of the OPA rationers may be, any attempt at further gasoline restrictions on A, B, and C coupons in the middle west must be vigorously fought.

"Can't Stand New Cuts."

"We can't stand any further restrictions in this area," Majewski said. "If they cut gasoline rations any deeper in this section our transportation system will break down."

Majewski is an outstanding oil and gasoline authority and is a member of the petroleum industry war council.

Meantime, it appears certain that OPA's whole rationing program, and the reiterated charge that the petroleum administration for war is throttling oil production will be brought before congress as soon as it gets back into session Sept. 14. Congressman Fred E. Busbey [R., Chicago], having failed in his efforts to get congress called back earlier to consider the oil and gasoline muddle, said he will bring the proposition up. Searcy said a number of others in the Illinois delegation have promised similar action.

Inhalator Squad Works in Vain to Revive Baby

An inhalator squad yesterday failed to revive the six weeks old daughter of Rose Weston, 15, a Negro, of 4851 South State street, after the child was found suffocated in her crib.

MICHIGAN GRAFT QUIZ SCHEDULED TO OPEN TODAY

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 25 [Special].—Judge Leland W. Carr of Ingham county Circuit court here, who will conduct a one man grand jury investigation of legislative affairs starting tomorrow, said today that the number of subpenas issued would not be divulged.

He indicated names of witnesses would be disclosed after they had appeared but that the press might be requested to withhold the identity of some if they provided new leads to the investigators.

Herbert J. Rushton, attorney general, who petitioned for the inquiry on the basis of reports to him that there had been bribery or attempted bribery during the last three legislative sessions, will direct questioning of witnesses, assisted by Dean W. Kelley, president of the Michigan state bar.

CASH TO BUY COAL

$20 FOR 30 DAYS COSTS ONLY 60c

Play safe—fill your coal bin now while stocks are available. Later in the year coal may be hard to get due to unsettled conditions in the coal industry and the transportation bottlenecks which seem inevitable. Co-operate with Uncle Sam—lay in your coal supply now. See us for the cash you need. Monthly rate 3% on balances of $150, or less and 2½% on that part of the unpaid balance over $150.

[Associated Press Wirephoto: From U. S. Navy.]

These United States soldiers landing on Rendova Island offer studies in the expressions of men facing hidden enemies and hidden death. They grip rifles in tense hands, some hugging the sand, some crouching against the bank, some crawling in the water—and one forgetting to keep down.
